SATURDAY MORNING.........JULY 10, 1886.

Letter from Worton.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—If a man is wounded in the army, he is pensioned; many corporations make provisions for persons becoming disabled in their service, and superannuated ministers of the gospel receive assistance from the church, while those who become disabled in the most worthy of all occupations—in training and instructing children (moulding the future generation)—are thrown upon the cold shoulder of the world. Teachers of public schools occupy no enviable position, nevertheless the occupation is overcrowded, especially by the fair sex, who seem to take a pleasure in the care and instruction of other people's children. Receiving as they do but sufficient remuneration to defray their current expenses, many good teachers are driven from the field and the schools are often used as stepping stones to higher professions and by women, who marry ere their theoretical knowledge is demonstrated by practice.

James Garfield said he would rather dwell six months in a tent with Mark Hopkins and live on bread and water than take a six-year course in the grandest brick and mortar institution poorly equipped in its professorship.

Chincapin, formerly so called, was said to be too poor to grow anything but children, but it has kept pace with the most prosperous sections of the county, until now it is exceeded by none, and judging by the size of its school its proclivity for propagation of angels in a crude state has never waned. This school held an entertainment in the hall on Friday evening, 25th ult., and by special invitation and gratuitous admission, we were one in that crowded house, for it had been rumored that this school was to give an entertainment and its fame in this line is so well established that no one objected paying though they heard not a word, but saw those fairy-like creatures as they appeared upon the stage, surely a fit generation for the millenium. Without prejudice pro or con, it was the grandest affair of its kind we ever attended, and only by talent and indefatigable efforts put forth by their tutors, Miss Mollie Nowland and Miss Susie Casy, could such ends be attained.

Though all went well as at a marriage feast, yet there were sad hearts in that house that night. Hearts that could hear but the knell of separation from the principal of the school, for she had wound herself into the affections of many hereabouts and was now going away, to not only vacate her position, but leaving a great void in the hearts of others besides her scholars, a void her successor can hardly fill, though she be as wise as Herodotus and as beautiful as Zenobia. [June 30, 1886.] PETER POKER.

BEDDING OYSTERS.

Explanation of an Interesting Decision.

The recent decision of the Maryland court of appeals in the case of Hess vs. Muir and others (Judge Ritchie delivering the opinion) disposes of many important points not hitherto adjudicated affecting the rights of owners of land bounding on the navigable waters of the State, and of those, also, who have been licensed to locate oyster lots. The complainant claimed, as such land owner, the exclusive right of bedding oysters and of all uses in the soil covered by water in front of his land short of interfering with navigation. The court of appeals decides that as such riparian proprietor he has no rights over such soil except accretions when actually formed, and the right to improvements actually constructed and connected with the land. The complainant purchased some thirty-four oyster lots in front of his land, which he bought of their alleged owner at the same time he bought the land of him. These lots were procured originally by having them located by other persons and then assigned to him. The court holds that as the law restricts the same person to but one lot, neither the first proprietor nor the purchaser took any title to the lot so procured, and that, also, the complainant being a non-resident, although owner of the adjacent land, can hold no lot whatever. The court pronounces the right to locate oyster lots a license only, revocable at the pleasure of the State; that as a personal privilege only it can neither be inherited nor assigned; that besides, the right to transfer such lots not being expressly conferred, if they were assignable non-residents might readily come possessed of them, and an aggregation of many lots in the hands of one holder would become possible, and thus the object of the law to confine the benefit of oyster planting to its own citizens and the prevention of the monopoly of the oyster grounds be frustrated; that the only security for the holder's lot is the fairness and sense of justice of the State in dealing with its citizens. But it retains the right to revoke all such licenses if the public interest should require it. But while it may exercise this power the oysters deposited on the lot by the license remain his personal property and can be disposed of accordingly.

Feeding Chicks.

"I believe that entirely too much care is usually taken of young chicks, or, in a word, that very many of them are killed out of kindness. I have raised and cared for young chicks since my boyhood, and seldom lose any of them, never had a case of gapes in my experience, and no amount of disease of any kind, save only once, a number of years ago, when I had a bad case of cholera among my old fowls. For years I have fed only one way, and always with success—no hard boiled eggs, or any other fancy dishes. From the day they are hatched I feed them as much as they will eat, five times a day, with a Johnny-cake made of what our grocers call coarse meal, mixed with water, as stiff as it can be, and thoroughly wet it all; bake in an oven until done, and crumble it when fed. In addition to this, from a week old, I keep good whole wheat or cracked corn where they can help themselves to it at pleasure. With an abundance of clean, cold water, and coops well whitewashed and kept thoroughly clean, the above treatment will be found simple and all that is required. Of course the cake must be baked every few days and none fed that is not perfectly sweet. After chicks are a month old they will not require much of the Johnny-cake, but will prefer the cracked corn and wheat, though they will always relish an occasional feed of the cake as long as they live."—J. E. Church, in Poultry Yard.

OUR FORE-FATHERS SOAP

FAC-SIMILE OF THE LABEL ON THE WRAPPER.

Ask Your Grocer For It.

NO MORE A MYSTERY. THE REASONS GIVEN.
WHY DOES THE CLOTHING TEAR SO EASILY?

ANSWER.—From the use of strong and impure Soap, made up in salable forms and shapes, with which the market is flooded. If you want to be right sure use ECKERS' OUR FOREFATHERS' SOAP—three connecting 4-inch cakes, making each bar one foot long; weight 22½ ounces—recommended by the Best Families, Hotels and Institutions throughout the country. It is prepared by the Grecian Purifying, Boiling and Settling Process, from fresh, clean and selected butchers' tallow. By its use you run no risk of contracting any skin disease; no stiffness of the arms or wrist. A great saving of time and labor. WASHING CLOTHES WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING. You can use it as you wish, but to wash without boiling or scalding observe these directions: Take lukewarm water, rub with soap particularly on dirty spots, soak half an hour or more, gently rub on board and your clothes will be clean. Try it for one month and you will be convinced of its great advantages. VERY IMPORTANT TO KNOW.—That the best remedy for washing flannels to keep them from shrinking—wash in lukewarm water with FOREFATHERS' OR ECKERS' BOARD OF HEALTH SOAP (the greatest disinfectant known), and dry in a warm room; cold water hardens flannels and drying in cold air shrinks them. Ask your grocer for it. ECKERS' SOAPS WILL WASH WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING.
