SATURDAY MORNING..........July 17, 1886.

Maryland Fruit-Growers' Exchange.

Worton Station, July 12, 1886.

Messrs. Editors:—Members of the exchange met in the agricultural club room at 3 o'clock with President Vannort in the chair. The regular routine of business was gone through.

Jenkins McGuire & Co's ripe-fruit carrier was exhibited, and members were much pleased with it. It is said to keep fruit longer in good condition than any other package known, and comes to us well recommended. These parties offer to furnish the exchange with packages and pay half the expenses for a trial trip to Liverpool, and divide profits. These packages can be procured through secretary of the exchange.

The secretary read the correspondence with dealers in fruit, which was very encouraging. It is very evident from these letters, that the buyers are coming where the fruit is, and that they will not wait for it to come to them at some distant point. We feel satisfied that the exchange has done a good thing for the fruit-growers, and should have their support.

Regular meetings are held every Monday at 3 o'clock P. M. All are invited. N.

Letter from Millington.

Messrs. Editors: — Exultant with defeating baseball nine of Kennedyville the Galena club paid us a visit last Saturday fully confirmed in the belief they would have little or no trouble in having a clean walk-away with the light-weights of the "Olympic." In this they were surprised and their crowing cock had his pinfeathers nicely plucked. The game was decided in favor of Millington by innings as follows:

Olympic.......... 5 0 0 6 4 7 0 2 x—24
Galena.......... 1 2 6 2 0 2 0 5 3—21

Will Galena's poet oblige us with a few more verses just at this time?

The Kennedyville club will play at Millington Saturday afternoon (today).

T. J. McWhorter has shipped the first load of new wheat over the Queen Anne's railroad this season.

A son of George Carter, on the Smith Mill Branch farm, fell from a fruit tree to a picket fence Tuesday morning. His side was pierced shockingly and Dr. Todd, in attendance, says his condition is most critical.

In the death of Mrs. Dr. Power Millington feels the loss of an esteemed christian lady and a family of its dearest friend. The doctor himself has been quite ill since, but is now recovering.

John Benson is building a dwelling a dwelling on Cypress street.

C. O. Cacy is walking around attending to business. Mr. Racer is improving. Van.

LETTER FROM ROCK HALL.

Messrs. Editors:—Just now we are having a little ripple of excitement over the doings of a sneak-thief dog-poisoner, who, in ridding the neighborhood of two worthless curs, has killed several valuable dogs, getting rid of a small nuisance at a much too great cost. The owners have got the miscreant pretty well spotted — if legal proof is not forthcoming soon he is in imminent danger of being arraigned before Judge Lynch, who he may be sure will not treat the matter lightly. When he is sent to join his fellow-fiends he may think himself lucky if old "Sutty" doesn't kick him out of the infernal regions as a thing too contemptible for his style of punishment and will be compelled to sneak off to the Tophet of sheep-stealing and egg-sucking dogs, where even a candidate for office will be ashamed to look at him. Some men deem their dogs their friends and feel the strongest execrations for the wretch who wantonly maltreats them.

Since our long wet spell the weather is exceedingly hot, but every Saturday we can regale ourselves with ice-cream at the new drug store at the head of Squinting Lane. There is a pretty little girl there just beginning to toddle the streets and with her naive baby ways making friends with every one she meets. Not long since we saw her receive a lesson in cautiousness by an application of spanks from her paternal ancestor, which was delivered with a gentle grace that convinced us spanking was entitled to place No. 4 of the fine arts. As she toddled into the house with a smiling nonchalance, showing that she knew it had done her good, it was amusing to see John pinch himself to find if he was awake.

The Knights of Pythias have their new lodge completed, which is a very pleasing feature of our village. It is on the corner of a new street through land of Mr. A. P. Sharp. The old rooms to supply a long-felt want, will be divided into dormitories for the accommodation of commercial drummers, book fiends, nursery demons and circus agents, who are constantly teasing us for our loose change and free entertainment. We earnestly hope there will be no locks beyond the outer door, so there may be an opportunity for a free fight some night, which, if it terminate in the Kilkenny cat style, will be the greatest blessing that could happen to a deluded community.

Our old neighbors, Charles Casey and Wm. Whalen, are quite sick, both from paralysis. It is feared they will very soon be called to pass the hidden boundary of time to the land of the hereafter. Casey, for his industry and sterling honesty, is a man the community can ill afford to lose; while Whalen, for his good nature and quaint humor, will be regretted as a most agreeable companion. Our neighbor John, whose name is Copper, has been distributing a new light among us; the burner is a self-generating gas jet, emitting a beautiful flame much cheaper than kerosene and to all appearance is, as claimed, perfectly safe from explosion. The most disagreeable feature is that the only way to extinguish it is by blowing out then for a few minutes, till the lamp cools, gas continues to generate, emitting a disagreeable odor; but this will soon be obviated by an apparatus to regulate the amount of flame and to shut off gas and flame at once and then have it so regulated that a shade can be used to protect the eyes when reading, which will leave nothing to be desired for lighting a country sitting-room.

Our friend, John Blackiston, is now canvassing the county selling nursery stock by photograph for a New York firm. If he gets out of the work without sullying the reputation for honesty established in his former business we think of running him for Congress.

B. F. Legg some time ago sent a claim to the department for extra remuneration for carrying the mail beyond the village, which Uncle Sam with his proverbial liberality has granted to the amount of over $30, while we give a boy sixty cents a week to bring it back. This is no doubt economy, yet makes us think of the Dutchman on his way to mill—thinking his team too heavily loaded he mounted his cart and sat with a bag of grist on his shoulder. Scrutator.

A Remarkable Funeral Scene.—A San Francisco newspaper describes a remarkable scene that took place at the funeral of a young man named Frank Peachy, in that city, a few days ago. The father of Frank, a man gray-bearded and bent with age, met face to face with his former wife—the mother—from whom he had been separated twenty-five years. The father resides at Los Angeles and the mother at Oakland. They had married again and had families. Their actions over the body of their boy were sad to behold. The father tenderly stroked the hair of his son, and the mother kissed the lips. Both wept bitterly, but neither recognized the other. At the grave the old mother knelt down and prayed while the earth was being thrown over her son's coffin.

Isaac Murphy, the noted colored jockey, has contracted with Lucky Baldwin to be his first rider next season, at a salary of $10,000 a year. This is said to be the highest salary ever paid for a jockey in this country. Murphy has the privilege of other mounts when Baldwin's stable is not represented in a race, which will make him average about $1,000 a month for the year. Besides being one of the best riders in the country, Murphy has the reputation of being unpurchasable.

In a few days, certainly before he leaves on his summer trip, Attorney-General Garland will hand back to Prof. Rogers his Pan-Electric stock certificate. The stock issued to Mr. Garland bore a nominal value of $1,500,000. At one time it had some little value, but today it is worth just the paper it is printed on, and no more. It has never been of any value to Mr. Garland, and has brought him nothing but trouble. He is wise in giving it back to those from whom he got it.—Wash. Cor. Balt. Sun.

The President might as well lump the whole lot of private pension bills under one veto. The general pension laws provide for all proper cases. Special acts are only for the benefit of people who have no valid claims. That is a broad ground, on which the administration could take its stand boldly.—Phila. Times.

C. D. Graham Shoots The Whirlpool Rapids at Niagara in a Cask.

C. D. Graham, who has for some time been making preparations for the undertaking, successfully shot the Whirlpool Rapids at Niagara Falls last Sunday in a cask or barrel, which he constructed himself. When everything was in readiness Graham got into the barrel and closed the manhole at the top from within. A small boat towed the tank out into the river to a point where the current would catch it, and then Graham started on what seemed to be his trip to eternity. The towing process took only a few minutes, and then the stream caught the cask and started it on towards the rapids and whirlpool. At first it moved slowly along, then faster and faster, until the mad current dashed it on with its full force. The cask bounded up and down over the great waves, and twirled around like a top. The cask kept pretty well in the centre of the river until it reached the whirlpool, when it struck a strong side current, and was carried swiftly through, reaching the waters beyond in safety. From here the journey was comparatively quiet. The cask floated on toward Lewiston right side up and all danger was passed. It was picked up at Lewiston, about five miles below the starting point, and Graham crawled out of the barrel uninjured, with the exception of a slight bruise on one arm, which he received when passing through the whirlpool. He remarked: "When I struck the eddies it was one continued round of jerks, but I am not hurt a bit."

The cask is 7 feet long, 33 inches in diameter at the widest portion, 23 inches at the top and 16 inches at the bottom. It is bound around with iron hoops, which weigh 250 pounds. The ballast which was attached to the cask to keep it in position weighs 240 pounds. Graham will probably repeat the trip. He says he will yet go over Horseshoe falls.

C. D. Graham is a native of Philadelphia, 33 years of age and a cooper by trade. He is a poor man, compelled to work for his living, and for a long time had some scheme of this sort in his mind. Being a cooper, a barrel naturally suggested itself to him as the best means with which to shoot the rapids. The barrel is made of inch and a quarter oak staves, wide at the top and narrow at the bottom and shaped like a buoy. A sand ballast was so fixed as to keep the side of the barrel which Graham faced uppermost. Graham hung, or rather stood, in a sort of hammock made like a suit of clothes, and held on to two iron handles fixed at the side. He could live for at least half an hour without requiring any fresh air, and by the time the air was exhausted he was beyond the whirlpool and could pull out the plug from the little airhole about three-quarters of an inch in diameter and get all the fresh air he required. Graham did not make a cent by the operation. He received no pay and bore all the expense himself.

A PITIABLE STORY.

Gen. Grant's Daughter's Wretched Treatment by Her Husband's Family.

A relative of the Grant family in Washington, says the correspondent of the Baltimore American, is authority for the statement that the married life of Nellie Grant-Sartoris is far more humiliating and unpleasant than has yet been made public. Mrs. Sartoris makes her home with her husband's father, in the north of England. Here, according to all accounts, she is treated as a sort of poor relation. Two rooms are set aside for the use of herself and children and their meals furnished, but nothing else is given to them, either by the husband or Mr. Sartoris. So far, indeed, as the younger Sartoris is concerned, it is said that he has not contributed a penny to his wife's support for years. It is a well-known fact that for a couple of years prior to General Grant's death remittances of money were regularly sent to Nellie to provide herself and children with clothing and other useful articles. When the general became impoverished through the rascality of Ferdinand Ward, the greatest regret he is said to have expressed was that his poverty would prevent him from further assisting Nellie, who was practically supported by his bounty. All the members of the Grant family who still contribute to the support of Mrs. Sartoris and the children have urged Mrs. Sartoris for years to separate from her husband and return to America. It is said that Mrs. Grant made such a request only a few months ago, after hearing of some fresh indignity on Sartoris' part. But the daughter replied that she would not entertain such a proposition a moment, and added indignantly that she would refuse to sustain relations of any character with her family if these importunities did not cease. Meanwhile, Sartoris is racing about England, spending the meagre allowance his father gives him among companions of his own kind. The reports which reach here from New York say that Sartoris has been absent from his wife since last spring, and that she hears from him only at rare intervals.

will have an excursion to this delightful Bay resort on the STEAMER CHESTER. This boat has been put in first-class condition for the excursion season.

The boat will leave Chestertown at 7 a. m., stopping at Rolph's, Booker's, Quaker Neck, Grey's Inn, Queenstown and Kent Island, arriving at Bay Ridge as 12.30 p. m. Leave Bay Ridge at 5 p. m., giving excursionists 4½ hours to enjoy themselves and see the great wonders of this place.

Be sure to get your tickets befor the day of excursion, as we do not intend to have an uncomfortably large crowd.

TICKETS, $1; Children under 12 years, 50c.

Do not stop for threatening weather as it probably would clear away by the time we arrive at Bay Ridge and make you lose the pleasures of this grand trip. Music will be furnished by the E. C. Band. (je26-te.) COMMITTEE.
