SATURDAY MORNING..........JULY 17, 1886.

To Take Home to Your Wife.

Take home to your wife a sincere and honest heart,
Kept affectionate and true and tender;
Kindled well to a glow of "living altar coal,"
The gift of a giver, not a sender.
Take that home to your wife.

When you find a pleasant word afloat on the air,
And are puzzled to know how to catch it,
Bid it come to you at once for kindest keep and care,
Guide it cautiously and tenderly watch it.
Take that home to your wife.

Should you find a bright idea wandering aimlessly about,
And marvel how you best may obtain it,
Set a prompt and careful watch, both within and without,
And, when once you have made out to gain it,
Take that home to your wife.

Should there sleep within your soul a little spark of love,
With a tendency each day to growing brighter
Let the "coal from off the altar" but touch it from above,
And, with your own heart happier and lighter,
Take that home to your wife.

Should you spy a little sin in the pathway of life,
No matter how, or where, or whenever,
Toss it back upon the winds—a germ of worldly strife—
Resolving, what may come, that you'll never
Take that home to your wife.

Take only to your wife all the good that you know,
In the worldly ways of life's daily giving;
Take your heart in your hand when your homeward way you go
And you'll have at last a life worth the living
To take home to your wife.

Tumlin's Victory.

The present heated political campaign recalls a story told of the spirited contest for Congress in the fifties, in the old Cherokee district, between Lewis Tumlin and William Henry Styles. The whole country was at the time agitated over the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty which was then pending. Styles and Franklin were speaking from every stump in the district and the former laid great stress on the idea that it was necessary that the district choose as its representative a learned man and one well-posted on the current news of both this country and the Old World.

"Why," said he in one of his joint discussions, "we want a man in Congress who is sufficiently posted to protect us from the aggressiveness and grasping methods of England. We want a man who can vote intelligently on the issues arising from the great treaty which is now pending between the two countries. This, my friend Tumlin can't do. I will submit to him a single question, and if he answers it from his seat without being informed, I will agree to come down."

All eyes were on Tumlin as the speaker turned to him and asked:

"Where is Liverpool, sir?"

Tumlin sat undisturbed and answered with a sneering smile, but ventured no further response.

"Ah," continued the speaker, turning to the audience, "he don't know. Now I leave it to you to say whether or not your representative in Congress should know the situation of Liverpool!"

This seemed a clincher and Styles sat down with an air of triumph. As he passed Tumlin it is said that the latter remarked to him, sotto voce:

"Styles, I think that was blamed mean, you know I ain't no geologist."

But it came Tumlin's time to reply, and he was equal to the occasion. He scorned the imputation that he did not know where Liverpool was, and proceeded to locate it to the satisfaction of the audience. "But," said he, "it would make no difference if I didn't know it. There is one thing that I do know, and that is my district and my people. Now I want to ask my friend Styles a simple question, which the representative of this district in Congress ought to be able to answer, and if he does so at once, right from his seat, and without information, I will promise to come right down and ask you to vote for him."

Attention was now directed to Styles, who eyed the speaker complacently and good-humoredly, and nodded for him to proceed.

"Where, sir," continued Tumlin, raising his voice to a high pitch and levelling his finger at his opponent, "where, sir, is Cooper's Creek?"

Styles became confused and did not venture a reply. The audience accepted the point as a good one, for every one knew that Cooper's Creek watered the most prominent section of the county.

"Ah, you see, he don't know anything about the county that he wants to represent. Now, I leave it to you to say whether it is best to elect a man who knows all about England and nothing about his own district, or one who knows every cow-path in the district and every creek that should be cleaned by congressional appropriation."

The victory was Tumlin's. He had carried the day, and his triumphant election followed. History says that the old Cherokee district was well represented in Congress during his term.—Atlanta Constitution.

She Went and Got Married.

In recently making the trip in a stage-coach over the rugged range of hills called the "Baraboo Bluffs," between the towns of Lodi and Baraboo, in Wisconsin, the coachful of squeezed and jolted passengers found some relief from the tediousness of the journey in the original remarks which, from time to time, fell from the lips of an elderly woman who was one of the company. She persisted in expressing great contempt for the other sex, and for married life generally, and intimated that such had always been her opinion; and as it had previously leaked out from her conversation that she had been married and raised a large family of children, I ventured to ask her how it happened that with the feelings of contempt she had from the first felt for the men she ever could have married one of them.

"Wa'al," said she, "young man, I tell you just how it 'twas. When I was a little gal I lived in a family where there was an old maid, who in going up stairs to bed, had to go through an entry-way where there was a pile of potatoes in one corner, and she used to make me go and cover 'em up with a blanket before she went by 'em, for fear they'd see, 'cause they had eyes. Wa'al, thinks I, if old maids is like that, I won't be one nohow. So you see, as soon as I got old enough, like a fool, I went and got married."

DURING the terrific thunder-storm that came over the city last week a little eight-year-old boy living in the northern part of the town was awakened and called his mother, who was sitting in the drawing-room down stairs. She sat with him awhile and told him he need have no fear, because God took care of little boys and would not let the lightning hurt them. "But God is away up in heaven," said the child. "Yes," replied the mother, "but he is here, too. He is staying right in the room with you. He can protect you, but I cannot. As long as God is here you need not be afraid." The child was quieted and the mother left him and went back to the drawing-room. Pretty soon there came another deafening clap of thunder, when the boy, crawling out of bed, came to the head of the stairs and called again. "What do you want, George?" asked his mother. "You come up here and stay with God awhile and let me go down stairs," was the reply.

IT was of a case in the United States District Court at Albany many years ago. A patent right suit was brought on before Judge Nelson. Wm. H. Seward was counsel on one side. In summing up he occupied a whole day. Peter Cagger came in while he was talking, and after listening an hour turned to a learned lawyer and inquired: "What the deuce is Bill Seward talking about?" The counsel on the other side made a long speech, and the judge charged the jury. After the jury had been out about two hours they came in court, and the foreman said: "Your Honor, we would like to know what this suit is about?"

FOUR-YEAR-OLD BELLE had been watching Tom, the cat, squeeze through a very small hole under the house. "Oh, mamma," she said, "you ought to have seen Tom! He just mashed and went under!"

BLESSED are those happy natures who always look on the bright side!

POSITIVE PROOFS.

In other advertisements we have said that the Russian Rheumatism Cure was a specific for Rheumatism, and all its attendant aches and pains. These are simply Plain Facts. We now present some Positive Proofs:

Could one ask anything more to the point than this from MR. H. EMANUEL, a prominent merchant of Brookfield, Mo., who writes Feb. 26, '86:

"When in Europe, two years ago, I tried hard to buy the receipt of this very remedy. I also told Col. Theobold to get it for me at almost any price: but neither of us succeeded. I, myself, suffered with Rheumatism for years and spent hundreds of dollars, but never got any permanent relief until I tried this. Since then, (over two years now) I have not suffered the least. I know it is a good thing. It will take like wildfire. Now I want the agency for five States."

Here is another from nearer home. MR. J. D. WHITE is a leading business man of Bloomsburg Pa. His grandfather, over 80 years old, has been a great sufferer from Rheumatism. Nov. 24, 1885, MR. WHITE writes us:

"Have read your circular. The country is so full of patent humbugs it is hard to make people believe any remedy has merit until it is tried. My grandfather is such a sufferer that he would gladly give for a single day's relief, ten times your price for a cure. He will try it anyway, because he don't think your house would keep anything without merit."

DEC. 21, he says: "My grandfather pronounces the Russian Rheumatism Cure a first-class success. He is not relieved one day only, but altogether."

If you doubt either of these statements, write the parties; they'll gladly answer any inquiry. Our space does not permit further testimony. We have plenty of it, however. It makes quite a little book. We send it free to all who ask.

As yet it is not to be found at the stores, but can only be had by enclosing the price, and addressing the American proprietors,

OUR FORE-FATHERS SOAP
FAC-SIMILE OF THE LABEL ON THE WRAPPER.

Ask Your Grocer For It.

NO MORE A MYSTERY. THE REASONS GIVEN.
WHY DOES THE CLOTHING TEAR SO EASILY?

ANSWER.—From the use of strong and impure Soap, made up in salable forms and shapes, with which the market is flooded. If you want to be right sure use ECKERS' OUR FOREFATHERS' SOAP—three connecting 4-inch cakes, making each bar one foot long; weight 22½ ounces—recommended by the Best Families, Hotels and Institutions throughout the country. It is prepared by the Grecian Purifying, Boiling and Settling Process, from fresh, clean and selected butchers' tallow. By its use you run no risk of contracting any skin disease; no stiffness of the arms or wrist. A great saving of time and labor. WASHING CLOTHES WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING. You can use it as you wish, but to wash without boiling or scalding observe these directions: Take lukewarm water, rub with soap particularly on dirty spots, soak half an hour or more, gently rub on board and your clothes will be clean. Try it for one month and you will be convinced of its great advantages. VERY IMPORTANT TO KNOW.—That the best remedy for washing flannels to keep them from shrinking—wash in lukewarm water with FOREFATHERS' OR ECKERS' BOARD OF HEALTH SOAP (the greatest disinfectant known), and dry in a warm room; cold water hardens flannels and drying in cold air shrinks them. Ask your grocer for it. ECKERS' SOAPS WILL WASH WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING.
