Kent News.

SATURDAY MORNING.....July 24, 1886.

The Extradition Treaty.

The text of the new treaty between the United States and Great Britain has been printed and is now before the Senate for ratification. The provisions of the treaty are extended to four classes of crimes not now included, manslaughter, burglary, embezzlement or larceny of the value of fifty dollars or upward, and "malicious injuries to property whereby the life of any person shall be endangered, if such injuries constitute a crime according to the laws of both the high contracting parties." The provisions of the treaty are also extended to fugitive convicts as well as to those only charged with crime, as is manifestly right. Of course these provisions are in no way retro-active. The boodle aldermen of New York, and the cashiers and treasurers and bank presidents who have absconded and are now in any part of the British dominions are therefore protected from extradition as securely as if the treaty had not been made. But after the treaty shall have been ratified and put in force, future fugitives from justice will find neither in any part of Great Britain and its dependencies nor in the United States any sure asylum against the crimes enumerated in the new treaty. If it be thought desirable to extend the list of extradition crimes further, that may readily be done by subsequent supplementary articles, and the ratification of the present instrument should not be delayed on this account. It will put an end to the scandalous anomaly under which thieves, embezzlers and outlaws have but to cross an imaginary line to be secure from arrest and punishment.

MR. GLADSTONE has taken his political enemies at their word and resolved to resign. While his resignation has been loudly demanded by Tories, Whigs and Radicals—that is, by all the factions opposed to the home rule programme of the present government—ever since it became apparent that Mr. Gladstone was beaten in the elections, it was of all things that which they least desired in their hearts. What they really wished for was that he should remain in office until he was turned out. Unless Lord Salisbury proves a greater statesman than the world believes him to be, the opportunity afforded him by Mr. Gladstone's resignation will not bring him a long lease of power.

GOV. LLOYD'S ADDRESS TO THE FIFTH.—The address of Gov. Lloyd to the Fifth Regiment at the review at Atlantic City on Saturday was a forcible presentation of the duties and responsibilities of a citizen soldiery. He pointed out to the members of the command that they were supposed to have enlisted in the service of the State "from motives involving the highest regard and most unselfish devotion to her welfare, as respects the life, liberty and happiness of her people;" that they were not mercenary hirelings, but voluntary defenders of the State's institutions and their country's honor. "The true soldier," said the Governor, "never loses sight of the fact that he is under the law and not above it." The grand conception of the citizen-soldier, he added, "cannot be realized without true courage." Washington, Lee, Jackson "and hosts of others possessed and practiced this courage, and in all the chivalry of their valorous nature have left the impress of a soldier's life and a soldier's example not to be despised by the rawest recruit of your ranks." The Governor also spoke of the designation by the constitution of the State Executive as the commander-in-chief of land and naval forces as indicating that "the command of the Governor is but the elevation of civil over military authority, which should always be in strict subordination to and under the control of civil power." He also referred in terms of approval to the liberal appropriations by the last Legislature for the benefit of the regiment as indicating the popular appreciation of its services, and congratulated the command upon its fine appearance.—Balt. Sun.

Two members of the House of Representatives from the boundless Western prairies—Mr. Cobb, of Indiana, and Mr. Laird, of Nebraska—so far forgot their dignity as national legislators one day last week as to indulge in a personal altercation, which threatened at one time to have serious results. After a somewhat exciting colloquy in the House, during which the "lie" was passed, the two members started for the basement of the Capitol, where they purposed to "fight it out." One of them, however, (Mr. Cobb) was overtaken by a zealous peacemaker, who, with his hand on his friend's collar, escorted him back to the House. Unfortunately the second belligerent came up with them before they had reached the chamber, and hot words passing again, Mr. Laird struck Mr. Cobb a heavy blow on the mouth, which caused the blood to flow. The combatants were promptly separated and order restored.

THE House of Representatives has passed the resolution offerred by Mr. Morrison, directing the Secretary of the Treasury to use all surplus moneys in the treasury, over and above the sum of $100,000,000, in the payment of the government debt. This is a triumph of the West and South over New England and New York, the West and South voting for 186, against 9, while New England and New York stood 4 for and against. It is hardly possible to detect any party complexion in the vote. It is true that the republicans were nearly evenly divided, there being 61 republicans voting for the resolution and 52 against it, while of the democrats but fifteen voted no and 145 voted aye. The difference is, however, very largely due to the fact that there are very few republicans from the Southern States, while of the 26 New England members but four are democrats. The six votes given by the West against the resolution were all cast by republicans and the eleven negative votes from Pennsylvania and New Jersey came from the same party, while the solitary vote from New England in its favor was cast by a democrat.

FROM an article prepared for the Baltimore Sun on imported livestock in Maryland we find the following: In Baltimore county there are, in proportion to its area, more thoroughbred Jerseys than in any other part of the United States. The Shoemaker herd, which was valued at something over $100,000, has been broken up. At its head stood "The Black Prince of Linden," a magnificent animal, who, in addition to his value for stock purposes, gave milk like a cow from four well-formed teats. A representative of the Sun, who is also a man of science, went to Burnside, Mrs. Shoemaker's place, in Green Spring Valley, and in the presence of witnesses milked the animal, so there could be no dispute about the matter in the future. The bull had never been attended to with any view of developing his milking peculiarity, but there is little doubt that with proper attention he would have given sufficient milk of the richest character to supply a small family. The skin of the animal was of the richest color, and the milk would occasionally drop from his teats as he walked. It was in this way that attention was first called to his milking qualities.

ABANDONED POLITICS.—The Hon. Thos. Dixon, late representative in the North Carolina House of Delegates from Cleveland county, "with feelings of peculiar sadness, and yet with an emphatically determined mind," has issued an address to his constituents, stating that he will "never again be a candidate for any political office." His reasons are simple, and yet quite novel in these days of "practical politics." Mr. Dixon says he has "determined, with the help of God, to live a conscientious and consistent Christian life," and he is satisfied he "cannot be a successful politician and successful Christian." Mr. Dixon very properly adopts the course which promises the best returns in the long run.—Baltimore Sun.

MR. POWDERLY NOT IN POLITICS.—Master Workman Powderly is seeking rest and recuperation at Atlantic City, N. J. Being asked about the mention of his name in connection with the democratic nomination for Governor of Pennsylvania, Mr. Powderly is quoted by an Atlantic City special as saying: "I have stated repeatedly that I have nothing whatever to do with politics, and do not intend to. I have answered the question as to my candidacy for the governorship a hundred times, and I am sick and tired of it. I am entirely and irrevocably out of politics, and know absolutely nothing about parties. I repeat again, that I am not a candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, nor a candidate for any political office."

AT a meeting of the Dover District Preachers' Association, held recently, a service was held in memory of the late Rev. Arthur W. Milby, the presiding elder of the district. It was determined to erect a monument over his grave in the Barrett's Chapel graveyard, and Rev. W. S. Robinson, Rev. John Wartbman and Rev. Vaughn Smith Collins were appointed a committee for that purpose.

THE Greensborough Cornet Band went through Chestertown yesterday in their handsome wagon drawn by four horses. They go to Tolchester for a week's recreation. They are a fine looking company and good musicians. Mr. J. E. Willis is the leader.

LARGE SALE OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.—On Wednesday and Thursday, August 4 and 5, Messrs. Geo. T. Perkins and Wm. M. Slay, administrators of Geo. W. T. Perkins, will sell on the farm near Kennedyville and at Hopewell the large and valuable personal estate of said deceased. This property is in good condition and many of the agricultural implements are nearly new. Some valuable bank and other stock, belonging to the estate of the late Mrs. Caroline C. Perkins, will be offered at the Hopewell sale.

DULANEY'S SERIES. — We have received specimen copies of "Dulaney's-Martin's Elementary Human Body" for advanced classes, and "Dulaney's Standard Physiology" for intermediate classes—the first 75c. and the last 50c. wholesale. Both books are gotten up in first-class style—the type, the printing and the binding all being far superior to the ordinary school book style—and we believe they will fully answer the purpose intended by the originators of this new branch of study for the public schools. They are published by Wm. J. C. Dulaney & Co., Baltimore.

THE Easton correspondent of the Baltimore Sun in sending that paper a list of the camp-meetings to be held on the peninsula this year fails to mention one to be held in his own county and one in the adjoining county of Caroline-Wye and Concord. So in the list of fairs he likewise omits Kent. Perhaps the correspondent is somewhat excusable for the latter omission, as the Talbot fair is to be held on the same days as ours.

THE CHESTER RIVER BOATS WIN.—Last Saturday was the time appointed for the annual review and regatta day given to the oyster boats of Maryland by the Chesapeake Bay Yacht Club of Talbot county. The Easton Star says that two hundred and fifty boats of all kinds, from a small size punt to the steamer McLane, that had on board all sizes of people, from a cooing babe to a crusty old bachelor, laid off Deep Water point, the starting place, to see the fun. The "Cornelia," Capt. Smith, and "Mayflower," Capt. Wm. Crouch, both Chester river boats, won the 1st class canoe race in the order named. This race was for canoes over 28 feet in length. In the 2nd class canoe race for boats under 28 feet in length, the "Raven," Capt. J. F. Jones, a Chester river boat, took first prize money, followed by the "Sadie," Capt. Skinner. The wind was light, but notwithstanding it was so calm, adds the Star, that there wasn't even a case of "three sheets in the wind," everybody had a good time and was happy.

AN INOPERATIVE CLAUSE.—Attorney-General Roberts disposes of the vexed question whether the clause in the new marriage license act prescribing the use of the Campbell system of indexing is mandatory upon the clerks of the courts, by pointing out that the clause is practically inoperative. "If," he says, "it was the intention of the Legislature to authorize and direct the adoption in the various clerk's offices of the State of the Campbell system of indexing, the proper course would have been to follow the imperative mandate of the constitution that 'every law enacted by the General Assembly shall embrace but one subject, and that shall be described in its title.'—Section 29, article 3, constitution. There is not the slightest intimation in the title of the act in question which informed the members of the two houses of the General Assembly that instead of simply passing upon the subject of 'marriage licenses' they were authorizing and directing the adoption of a patent system of indexing the records of the courts of the State." The attorney-general concludes, therefore, that the section referred to imposes no obligation upon the clerks to purchase the Campbell system of indexing for the purpose of applying it to their record of marriage licenses, and that the system of indexing now in use will be a sufficient compliance with the provisions of the law. The attorney-general's opinion will be accepted as a gratifying solution of an unpleasant complication.

A question as to the validity of the new marriage law has been raised, some contending that it received only thirteen votes in the Senate, or one vote less than a constitutional majority. This, however, will not affect the validity of marriages under the act. What next?

Sales to Take Place

Tuesday, July 27—by H. W. Vickers, Esq., three desirable farms in this county and twelve houses in Chestertown.

Tuesday, August 3—by Jas. A. Pearce, Esq., as attorney, a valuable farm near Kennedyville.

Monday, August 2—by H. H. Barroll, trustee, a lot of personal property.

Tuesday, July 27 — by James P. Hatcherson, sheriff, an interest in a fine farm near Edesville.

Saturday, Aug. 14—by C. T. Westcott, Esq., several houses and lots in Chestertown and personal property.

Tuesday, August 14 — by C. H. Baker, Esq., attorney, house and lot near Edesville.

Wednesday and Thursday, August 4 and 5, by George T. Perkins and Wm. M. Slay, administrators, large personal estate of the late Geo. W. T. Perkins.

THE LATE DR. WILLS.—Of the late Dr. Sam'l E. Wills, whose sudden death at his home, at Earleville, Cecil county, was announced last week, the Cecil News says: "Being a man of untiring energy and strong sympathies, as well as an excellent physician, he soon acquired a large practice and a prominent place in the social and religious affairs of the community, in both of which spheres he ever filled faithfully the highest duties and behests of the noblest and most exalted manhood. * * * His home was always a very centre of true and open handed hospitality, and the loss of him, its generous head, is a loss that will affect the entire bounds of the community. He was a prominent and influential member and office bearer in St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, and as lay-delegate represented it in the recent convention for the election of a successor to the late Bishop Lay."

IN A BAD FIX.—Some boys were crabbing around Mr. Wm. Myers' shore, at Plimbimmon on the Third Haven. When opposite an unoccupied tenant house on the shore they noticed an offensive smell coming from the house. "There's a dead man in that house," said one of the boys to the other. "Yes, and he had a sheep in there with him," said the other, pointing to the upstairs window where there was a sheep looking out. The boys went to the door but it seemed to be fastened, and in some trepidation they sought Mr. Myers and informed him of what they had smelt and seen. Mr. Myers went to the house and pushed the door open and found 46 of his sheep shut up in the house. Fourteen of them were dead and the others were suffering terribly. It is supposed they went into the house out of the heat, and in rubbing themselves shut the door. A dead sheep was lying against the door, and several living ones were upstairs.—Easton Ledger.

A SPECIMEN ROGUE.—The gentlemanly cashier who abruptly left the Provident Savings Bank in St. Louis from motives of financial delicacy when he discovered that the institution was becoming embarrassed by his operations considerately left behind him a statement of his transactions, in which he ably defends his integrity. He admits that he is some $70,000 or so in debt to the bank, but urges with much force that the institution owes him a debt of gratitude for not taking more of the cash in his reach. A cashier who is generous enough to leave the bank building behind him has at least a claim upon the directors for a vote of thanks, and his feelings should not be hurt by cruel references to any trifling deficits that may have occurred during his administration.—Balt. Sun.

Delaware will elect this year a governor, a member of Congress and a State Legislature. The legislature will elect a United States Senator to succeed Hon. George Gray. Delaware is solidly and reliably democratic, and the democratic candidates will be elected. But the democracy is not at this time entirely harmonious, and the nominating canvass will be a lively one. The governor is to be taken, in the course of rotation, from New Castle county. The candidates are Edward R. Cochran, Major Benjamin, T. Biggs and William Herbert. The candidacy of George Gray and of Charles B. Lore for United States Senator is involved in the legislative canvass. It is said that Mr. Lore will not accept a renomination for the House of Representatives, which he could have probably without opposition.

STAMPED LETTER-SHEET.—The new stamped letter-sheet, soon to be issued by the Postoffice Department, promises to be a great convenience to the public. It is a letter-sheet and an envelope combined, a perforated line running around the sheet, with the narrow spaces outside overspread with mucilage, so that the sheet may be folded and securely fastened. The letter when ready for mailing resembles the style in use before envelopes were invented. This the Government stamps in loose sheets and collectively in pads, and it will be put on sale at some of the leading postoffices throughout the country. As it can be produced at a very low figure, and affords the same security that an envelope does, it is expected to take the place, to a considerable extent, of the postal card.

PIERCED BY A FENCE PICKET.—The Centreville Record states that Charles, a ten-year-old son of Geo. Carter, residing on the "Emory Farm," near Millington, met with a serious and very painful accident on Tuesday morning. He climbed into an apple tree, which stood over a paling fence, and in some way lost his balance and fell on the fence beneath. One of the pickets pierced his side, making a terrible wound. The boy was taken home and Dr. Todd rendered medical assistance. The patient is in a dangerous condition, but the result of his injuries is still undecided.

MOVING FOR A NEW CHURCH SITE. — The congregation of the Methodist Protestant Church of Chestertown held a meeting on Friday evening of last week to consider the propriety of changing their church location. The situation of this church is not at all desirable nor is the church building itself what that congregation needs, and the matter was brought to a practical issue by the meeting named. The discussion was altogether one sided and perfect harmony prevailed—the vote when taken being unanimous in favor of a change of location. Committees were appointed to select and purchase a suitable site in some other section of the town and solicit subscriptions to pay for the same. The members present promptly responded to the latter suggestion by subscribing on the spot amounts aggregating nearly twenty-five hundred dollars. It is well understood that to obtain a desirable site improved lots will have to be purchased; to get one of proper size it will be necessary to buy dwellings or business properties which will cost a considerable sum. The congregation seem to have measured the magnitude of their undertaking and will secure a new location somewhere beyond a doubt and at a very early day. They propose to pay for the ground by the first of next December, and then consider the question of a new church.

BETTERTON FISHING.—Betterton fishing parties have been the "order of the day" from Chestertown for a week or two past. The perch fishing at that point has been excellent this season and all visitors have gone away delighted with their success in drawing in the big black-backed fellows—two or three at a time—on hook and line. One party of three last week—Major Gray, John F. Howard and Wm. C. A. Thompson—brought home twenty-two dozen! Messrs. T. S. Bordley, C. M. Lucas, M. A. Toulson and Rev. J. D. Kemp captured twelve or fifteen dozen last Monday, and Messrs. M. T. Goslee, Chas. L. Dodd, C. W. Wroth and Geo. B. Westcott, Jr., were caught in the rain of Wednesday, but brought home sixteen dozen fine fellows. Mr. N. G. Westcott says Charley got home after bedtime, but a fine mess of fish for the whole family was found all prepared for the pan next morning. Another party was there on Tuesday but only secured two or three dozen; on Thursday Messrs. W. H. Lambert, J. H. Aldridge, Arthur and Will Brown and P. A. M. Brooks went up well-equipped for the sport and took the prize—they brought home thirty dozen!

Turner Bros., the enterprising business firm of Betterton, deserve mention for courtesies extended to visitors, as also Mr. Robert C. Young, the genial young postmaster and storekeeper of that village. The Messrs. Crew and others have splendid boats for the fishing sport and two hotels furnish meals fit for a king. Taken altogether Betterton is the best place we know for the piscatorial sport and a great many persons from the city have availed themselves of its advantages. It is best to notify boat-owners beforehand of an intended visit in order to make sure of boats, as the best fishing grounds are several miles from the village and sometimes the boats are all out.

HE SKIPPED.—Shadrach Johnson, a colored man, aged about 34 years, was arrested by Officer Hurtt and had a hearing before Justice W. M. Johnson in Millington last week. He was charged with stealing apples and the Justice thought it would be well to give him a taste of honest industry, and so sentenced him to the House of Correction. Sheriff Hatcherson brought the prisoner down and placed him in jail preparatory to taking him across the water. He was allowed the use of the jail passage and that night he broke the padlock that secured the outer door and skipped. He has not since been heard of and the community will be better off if he never is again. The sheriff has substituted better locks for the insecure "paddies" heretofore used for some of the outer doors.

GREAT THRONGS AT TOLCHESTER.—The interest in Tolchester as a popular summer resort seems to be continually on the increase. The numbers present there last Thursday rivaled even the great throngs of July 5. It is said that not less five thousand persons visited the Beach that day from Baltimore, Wilmington, Kent and adjoining counties. Sudlersville Sunday-school held its picnic there and fifty or sixty carriages passed over Chester river bridge and through Chestertown on the way before nine o'clock. It is rather a long drive for picnickers—over forty miles going and returning — and proves what sacrifices will be made for a few hours pleasure at the great Bayside Beach!

A LARGE SALE.— Harrison W. Vickers, Esq., as trustee, advertises three farms in Kent county and twelve houses in Chestertown to be sold next Tuesday. This is the largest list of dwellings we have ever known to be offered at one time in Chestertown and ought to attract the attention of those desiring to make profitable investments or to secure comfortable homes. Most of these dwellings are finely located on High street, one on Front street, and others on Calvert and Cannon streets. The farms are well located and desirable. For particulars see advertisement in another column.

THE PICNIC at Mr. John Brice's on Tuesday evening was largely attended. The supper of soft and deviled crabs, bay mackerel, roast pig, fried chicken, chicken salad, etc., all served in the best style, was greatly enjoyed. Dancing was kept up until midnight on a platform erected upon the lawn and was participated in by many. Persons were present from nearly every section of the county. The proceeds, which will amount to a handsome sum, are for the benefit of the Church of the Sacred Heart, Chestertown.

EXCURSION TO BAY RIDGE. — The Edesville Band will make their excursion to Bay Ridge next Monday, leaving Chestertown at 7 o'clock A. M., and touching at other wharves on the river. This is expected to be a most delightful trip. The members of the Band will do their utmost to render it enjoyable. The steamer is a very different boat now from what she was when on Chester river, having been rebuilt and refitted throughout, making her a comfortable and commodious excursion steamer.

AN unusual activity in the building trade has manifested itself in Baltimore during the past few weeks. In all parts of the city single houses or handsome warehouses are in course of erection, and the commons of the suburbs are being utilized as sites for long rows of dwelling-houses, from palatial residences to homes for people of moderate circumstances.—Sun.

Brief Locals.

Gov. Lloyd has appointed Mr. John R. Gray register of the fourth district of this county, vice J. Evan Thomas, resigned.

The steamers Trumpeter and Chester will commence round trips next Tuesday. The Trumpeter will leave Georgetown at 7 a. m., and the Chester will leave Buck Neck at 8.30 a. m., both daily except Sunday.

The fruit-drying establishment near the Chestertown station will probably be in operation this season. Mr. Arnold, the proprietor, has been in the county some time, and says he will probably run his evaporators, unless the price of fruit ranges too high.

The reduction in the marriage license does not appear to have facilitated matrimonial alliances in Kent, only eighteen certificates having been issued since the first of June—a smaller number than usual for that space of time. The only hardship reported so far is that of a young man under age who was compelled to get the consent of his mother, who resides at a distance, before the clerk could give the necessary papers.

Maple Avenue, from Queen to Front Street, is the most beautiful section of Chestertown and it never looked prettier than it does now. The fine residences, all kept bright with paint and pretty with ornamental workmanship, and appropriately garnitured with yards of green sward and blooming plants, present a fascinating view to the eye of the passer-by.

The schooner Minnie Adams, Capt. J. E. Nickerson, collided with Chester river bridge last Wednesday evening in attempting to pass through the draw, caused by the strong tide. No damage was done the bridge, but the boat suffered a broken bowsprit.

Helen Garnett, colored, was before Justice Burgess last Saturday on the charge of using obscene language on the streets of Chestertown. She was fined $1 and costs.

The case of Mrs. Emma Wiltbank by her husband, Mr. J. R. Wiltbank, against Mr. Charles Gill for $42 05, for wages for last year, was heard before Justice Burgess last Monday. Before the hearing was concluded H. H. Barroll, Esq., counsel for defendant, confessed judgment and took an appeal. M. deK. Smith, Esq., was counsel for plaintiff.

The employes of the Western Maryland Railroad are advertised to come to Chestertown today on the steamer Louise, accompanied by seven silver bands. They ought to make things lively.

P. Benson's horse, attached to one of the carts hauling dirt from the cellar of Stam's new building, slipped and fell down the steep incline last Monday. The animal was released from the cart and gotten out with only a few bruises.

It is certainly wonderful that we have not more casualties to record in our streets. Numbers of little toddlers may be seen, even after nightfall, playing in the middle of main street, some at leap-frog and base ball while others are laying for the bats. Parents should prohibit such recklessness on the part of their own children and the bailiff would deserve the thanks of all if he would break the dangerous nuisance up. The public street is not a play-ground for anybody and small children have no business there at all except for necessary crossing. Vehicles are constantly passing and some drivers go at a reckless gate. We throw out these hints that more serious accidents than have heretofore occurred may be prevented.

Mr. Joseph Downey has opened his canning establishment at Rock Hall and wants to buy peaches. He offers 20 to 40 cents per box for small peaches or culls—equivalent to 40 and 60 cents per box in the city.

Wm. Frisby, colored, walked into Stam's drug store last Wednesday night after 11 o'clock with a bad cut in the head and a bloody nose, and desired to be plastered up. Emory declined the job but referred him to Dr. Hines who happened along about that time. Frisby said he was standing on the sidewalk alongside of Bailiff Simpson when a brick came along and clipped him in the head. The nose wound he thought was done by the same brick. The lively preparations for the Bombay Hook excursion next day possibly had something to do with it.

Mr. C. W. Kennard advertises a reduction in the price of his standard fertilizer from $32 to $26 per ton. See notice in another column.

The Sunday schools of Galena charge will run an excursion to Tolchester on Thursday next, leaving Georgetown at 7 o'clock. See adv. This will be a splendid trip and the managers promise to do all in their power to insure the pleasure of all.

The excavation for the cellar and foundation of Mr. Stam's new building is about completed and it is expected that the bricklayers will commence work on Monday or Tuesday next.

R. Hynson, Esq., trustee, offered on Tuesday the farm in the third election district tenanted by Mr. Robt. T. Ford, but no satisfactory bid being obtained it was not sold.

We acknowledge the receipt of the catalogue of the Maryland Agricultural College. This institution is now under the management of an able faculty and appears to be in a prosperous condition. For terms, etc., see adv. in this issue.

Those Cecil countians who, at the April court, indulged in some uncomplimentary allusion as to the external appearance of our banking house, should come down and look at it now! It has received a fresh coat of nice red paint this week, which has completely transmogrified its appearance. Inside, she is as sound as a gold dollar.

Messrs. Wm. Malin, A. Bacchus, Ed. Carr and Frank Lambert, who are engaged on Mr. C. W. Kennard's new building near the college, have been leaving their tools over night in a small work house adjoining the new building. On last Saturday night some thief stole the whole "kit," which included all the working implements of the parties named. Up to this writing none of the tools have been found, but it is hoped there may be some development soon. The loss amounts to some thirty or forty dollars.

DIED.
