Kent News.

SATURDAY MORNING.........OCT. 16, 1886.

THE OLD BALL PLAYER AND HIS SON.

Plunkins was a champion baseballist when the national game first came into prominence twenty years ago. Both hands are crippled up and he has some sixteen different kinds of rheumatism, so he doesn't go out to see a game very often now, but there is a spark of the old fire left in him yet.

The other day he learned that his youngest son, Johnny, had played hookey from school, and, whip in hand, he awaited the lad's return, resolved to administer salutary chastisement. At length he caught him slipping warily into the back yard, accompanied by a baseball club taller than he is.

"Aha!" said Plunkins, trying to get a firmer grip on the rawhide with his stiffened fingers, "been running away from school, have ye? Don't want to let the schoolmaster teach your young ideas how to get 'emselves off properly, eh? As the twig is bent the tree's inclined, but you're bent on fooling away your time, I see, and you ain't inclined to study. But if you don't want to be taught at school (spitting on his hand as he grabs him by the collar) I'll teach ye."

Johnny began to whimper and moan, "Can't have any fun."

"Fun!" roared his father, "what d'ye call fun?" and he raised his whip to strike.

"Pl—playin' baseball," sobbed Johnny.

"Baseball?" said Plunkins, suspending his rm in the air, "where did you learn to play aseball?"

"Oh, I knowed ever so long ago."

"And you belong to a nine?" The arm opped to his side.

"Yes, the 'Daisy Cutters.' And we've been ayin' the 'High-Lows,' of Harlem."

"But it's wrong to run away from school, ohnny. Couldn't you have put in a sub?"

"Nary sub," said Johnny, emboldened by seeing his father sit down on the sawbuck, and the rawhide lying at his feet. "I'm shortstop. You see it was just this way. The 'High-Lows' took the bat, and Snubtoed Joe led off with a corking hit into the right field. Pinky Jones put a fly to center field, which Slitnosed Mike got under and muffed.

"He muffed it, did he?" sneered Plunkins, as he breathed hard and his eyes began to glisten.

"Yes, but the ball split his finger."

"Good enough. But go on."

"Foghorn Pete drove a pretty one into left field and filled the bases. Frenchy made a wild pitch and Gridiron Sam scored and the two Harlems advanced a bag."

"A bag? What's that?"

"Oh, you aint fly, dad. A bag's a base don' cher know."

"Yes, yes, I might have known. Go on."

"Furgy drove a mowing machine—"

"Mowing machine?"

"Yes, a grass cutter—about half a foot out of Slim Jim's potato grabbers, and the two High-Lows crossed the silverware."

"The silverware?"

"Yes, the plate. Furgy was doubled with Skinny on his line fly to Little Red and Dickey Bird give up the ghost on a swift bounder to Plankey."

"Plunkey?"

"Yes," said the boy with a grin, "that's me."

"And you took it in?" cried the father.

"Out of the wet," said the boy placidly.

"Come to my arms, my son!" exclaimed Plunkins, springing to his feet and embracing him pleasantly. "I was afraid you was fooling away your time at school and gettin' no edication, but I see I was mistaken. Why, boy, you are fit to enter college this very minute. Come right along into the house and tell about the rest of the game to your mother and me," and they went in together locked in a fond embrace.

A DAY'S SPORT.

On the Jersey Coast After Bluefish and Mackerel.

Anglesea, in the county of Cape May, is one of the almost divine spots where one forgets the cares of the work-day world and where the mud hen congregates, pining to be slaughtered by every tyro armed with a breech-loader of approved pattern. It took an hour's hard rowing around a point in Hereford inlet, and as the northeast wind for two days had made the tides run riot over the railroad track, we were compelled to wade along the iron track and push the sneak-box across the rails.

I have not caught a ten-pound blue-fish (erroneously called "snapping mackerel") in five years, but today the waters of the inlet were filled with bluefish, and a greater or greedier Rob Roy of the deep, for its gameness and counting its size, doesn't swim in the sea than the regulation bluefish. For pure greed and general scoopativeness this game fish does not yield even to a New York alderman. The waters of Hereford inlet were actually alive with countless thousands of little mullet, trying to escape the sharp jaws of the bounding mackerel, who drove their tiny victims, in some cases, clear on the beach.

Our long lines have a Chestertown hook wrapped with white flannel, which is all the lure they need, and as our little schooner flies over the water the two-pound mackerel drops his stern chase after the feeble mullet, and madly and without toying with the white rag, seizes the new charm offered the bluefish's gullet, and as quickly as I can haul them in I have half a dozen two-pounders floundering on the deck. "Look sharp!" said little Ludlam, happy as a clam at high tide, "or he'll bite your fingers through," as I struggled with a hard-hooked fighting mackerel. But the caution came too late. The fish bites like a mad dog and the blood follows his bite. But Nimrod don't mind trifles.

The wind is up—so is our mettle — and as we skip over the ocean blue, over every half mile we tack we bring in two or three bluefish, turning them heels over head as we swiftly draw the reluctant victim in out of the wet.

Nature and our tired fingers call for rest. We have seventy-six good-sized fish, still kicking like devils, on the deck. And no sportsman deserves the name who will uselessly destroy mud hen or mackerel. We've enough for ourselves and a nice mess for our friends. The sun has not even built his bastions in the sky, fringed with fire. But we turn our vessel's prow homeward, tired, but happy and contented.

WHEN once Dr. Vincent introduced at Chautauqua Dr. Henderson, of Chicago, who was o lecture on "Fools," he said, "We are now to ave a lecture on fools by one" (long pause and ud laughter from the audience, when the president concluded with the clause) "of the wisest n in the country." The lecturer advanced to desk and responded, "I am not half so big a as Dr. Vincent" (another very long pause, still more hearty laughter from the audience) "would have you suppose."

AN exchange says: "Typhoid fever lurks in pure water, damp cellars and filthy surroundgs. In most cases its visitations are the result f carelessness. Cleanliness is often the preserver of life, while its reverse fills many an untimely grave. A little attention given to this subject will certainly have a wholesome effect upon the general health."

EXTRACT from a young Newport swell's note to a friend: "Sorry i Can't bee introduced two your sister This afternoon, mi Valett left my Three o'clock Suit in new York and I kouldent Go out in a Checked suit Then. Orfully sorry. Faithfully yours, Algernon Bertie Silly."—New York Mail.

"I THINK I wear twos," she simpered to the shoemaker; "do I not?" "Yes, ma'am," said the honest dealer, "you wear twos." Then, under his breath, "One on each foot."

AN engaged young lady has a parrot which has learned to make a noise like the smack of a kiss. How it learned it is a mystery.

Overheard at the Club.

"Lawd bless me soul, Awthaw. What makes you so pale? Have you got the malawia again?"

"Naw. But I had a tewible fwight lawst night, and me nerves aw puffect fiddlestwings yet. Theah was a weal live wat in my woom, 'pon bonaw, theah was."

"My gwacious! And what did it do?"

"It went away."

THIS is told about an eminent member of the Cumberland bar noted for the cordiality of his manners, and I presume it has been related of other lawyers of equal suavity. Those who know the gentleman, however, will spot him without difficulty. He was trying a case with a veteran country lawyer, and asked the court for a continuance till the next day. "What does the opposition counsel say to the proposition?" asked the court. "I hope your honor will grant my brother's request," replied the veteran. "I notice there is one member of the jury whom he has not shaken hands with."

Excelsior," "Ammoniated Bone Superphosphate,"

"PURE DISSOLVED BONE."

ESTABLISHED 1828.

TO WHEAT GROWERS.

1858, 1886,

Forming the most concentrated, universal and durable FERTILIZERS ever offered to the Farmer—combining all the stimulating qualities of Peruvian Guano and the ever-durable fertilizing properties of Bones in fine dry powder, prepared expressly for drilling, and can be applied in any quantity, however small, per acre. It is the opinion of many close-calculating Farmers, after TWENTY-EIGHT YEARS experience in testing it side by side with other popular fertilizers, that an application of 100 pounds of "EXCELSIOR" is equal to 200 pounds of any other fertilizer or guano, and therefore fully 100 per cent. cheaper.

Uniformity of Quality Guaranteed by the Manufacturers.

Farmers can only be secure from inferior imitations by seeing that every bag is Branded with our Name and Analysis in Red Letters.

Ammoniated BONE SUPER PHOSPHATE

Composed of the most concentrated materials, it is Richer in Ammonia and Soluable Phosphates than any other fertilizer sold except our Excelsior, and is made with the same care and supervision: uniform quality guaranteed. Fine and dry, in excellent order for drilling. We have also a very superior quality of Dissolved Bones, and keep constantly on hand a large supply of high grade Peruvian Guano.

OUR FORE-FATHERS SOAP

No Boiling, No Scalding Of Clothes.

Ask Your Grocer For It.

FAC-SIMILE OF THE LABEL ON THE WRAPPER.

NO MORE A MYSTERY. THE REASONS GIVEN.

WHY DOES THE CLOTHING TEAR SO EASILY?

ANSWER.—From the use of strong and impure Soap, made up in salable forms and shapes, with which the market is flooded If you want to be right sure use ECKERS' OUR FOREFATHERS' SOAP—three connecting 4-inch cakes, making each bar one foot long; weight 22½ ounces—recommended by the Best Families, Hotels and Institutions throughout the country. It is prepared by the Grecian Purifying, Boiling and Settling Process, from fresh, clean and selected butchers' tallow. By its use you run no risk of contracting any skin disease; no stiffness of the arms or wrist. A great saving of time and labor. WASHING CLOTHES WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING. You can use it as you wish, but to wash without boiling or scalding observe these directions: Take lukewarm water, rub with soap particularly on dirty spots, soak half an hour or more, gently rub on board and your clothes will be clean. Try it for one month and you will be convinced of its great advantages. VERY IMPORTANT TO KNOW.—That the best remedy for washing flannels to keep them from shrinking—wash in lukewarm water with FOREFATHERS' OR ECKERS' BOARD OF HEALTH SOAP (the greatest disinfectant known), and dry in a warm room; cold water hardens flannels and drying in cold air shrinks them. Ask your grocer for it. ECKERS' SOAPS WILL WASH WITH OR WITHOUT BOILING OR SCALDING.
