to minister of Heddington) that they do not publish the many interesting particulars that occur in the course of their ministerial duties.

One of our most intelligent and enterprising Colonists originally from Maryland, has recently resigned an honorable and lucrative trust in the Colony — in order to engage in Missionary operations. Thomas Lackey the individual in question has accepted of an appointment by the Methodist Mission, and is now located at Sawika, some distance in the interior. He felt it his duty to go forth, and in the spirit of the Gospel, for which the African suffers. He has erected his dwelling, has opened a school, and large number attend his preaching — already the poor natives have benefited by his ministry — and his labours have but just commenced — Who is to publish the further proceedings of this devoted Colonist Missionary? Who is to chronicle the happy effects, that will arise from the humble efforts of this lapsed — christian Colonist in the interior of Africa — a post that has too occupied, and assigned by this Mission, now falls to the lot of one of our Colonists — the report of his success may not probably extend beyond the borders of the Colony yet we feel assured that his reward will be conferred in another and better world.
