against the cause & society. Good Mr Phelps of New York is quite alarmed about their effects & the influence of Bacon who is now lecturing on the subject in New York. I hope you have his numbers. I think, to reflecting men, they carry with them something of their own antidote. If I review them at all, I shall do it very carefully, & try to do it successfully. You are better able, than any one else, to meet all the proofs in point of fact, & to correct his fallacies & exaggerations. I hope you have his three numbers. In the third you will find his whole theory about African fever. I do not apprehend any great & very dangerous influence from his writings.

Yours with great respect & regard,
Your friend
