ROCK HALL ITEMS

Christmas shoppers have the right of way in our town these days, but all comers are promptly attended to by our merchants and their corps of assistants. Mr. R. S. Crew was the first to have his Xmas opening; Mr. Alexander was a close follower while Mr. Miller was by no means a laggard. Messrs. Wilson, Downey, Durding and others of the merchants who make Christmas novelties, etc., a specialty are rapidly falling in line. The big windows of Alexander's Department Store are the attraction of the town. Among the displays are a graphaphone, tonsorial parlor and workshop all operated by electricity.

The Bakery of our genial republican Ex-Sheriff, is the most tempting place in town. If the Bentstown Bard could drop in and partake of a free treat of those things of which he is so passionately fond, now on tap, he would bid adieu to the dazzling precincts of the Sun Building.

Capt. and Mrs. C. R. Kerr are spending a week in Eastville, Northampton county, Va., the birth place of the former.

By reason of the slow progress of the Haman Shell Fish Commission and their desire for more of the State's money in the prosecution of their work, some of our oystermen and others, are of the opinion that the thing is simply a piece of graft notwithstanding the highly colored pictures of the Sun in its effort to boom the Commission.

Mr. John Jeffres, after a long illness passed away on Sunday night last. He was about 72 years of age. He was an honest, earnest, faithful citizen, highly esteemed by all who knew him, and was a consistent member of the M. E. Church. Besides a widow he leaves three sisters—Mrs. Etta Leaverton, Mrs. Sallie Casey and one residing in Pennsylvania. One full brother and four half brothers. Funeral service was held at the church on Thursday afternoon conducted by Rev. Warren Burr. The bearers were Messrs. Samuel Joiner, James M. Downey, Wm. T. Harrison, Joseph B. Downey, John Urie and John W. Joiner. Interment in Wesleyan cemetery in charge of Casey Bros. undertakers.

Mr. Joseph C. Kendall on Wednesday while chopping wood met with a second accident, in the cutting off of one of his feet with his axe.

Rev. and Mrs. Warren Burr were very warmly received Wednesday on their return home from the South.

Mr. John A. Smith has moved from the Davis property to his farm in Broad Neck.

Mr. Chas. H. Smith also moved from the Alexander farm to the R. W. Jones farm on Swan Creek. We are sorry to lose such residents.

The Odd Fellows Lodge held a red hot election at their last meeting, in which the following members won out: N. G., Jos. Ryan; V. G., Wm. T. Harrison; Rec. Sec., J. W. Boyer; Financial Sec., S. B. Colyer; Treas., B. H. Coburn. Some of the winners regret their victory and are looking about for a way out and a new election.

The oyster business here is quiet and dull, no sales at all. Some buyers have been in the city with vessels loaded for nearly two weeks, unable to sell.

Mrs. J. W. Boyer returned from Baltimore Wednesday after a long siege of sickness.

STILL POND NOTES.

Miss Lillian Busick, of Baltimore, is the guest of Misses May and Lonise Pennington.

Our merchants are now ready for Christmas and have their windows and store decorated with all the latest toys for Santa Claus, and we hope he will not forget one of the little folks Christmas eve but gladden their hearts with presents.

Mrs. M. E. Whaley is the guest of relatives in our town.

Mrs. John Johnston has been visiting her son Norman, in Philadelphia.

The Epworth League will be led Sunday evening by Mrs. J. B. Parrott, subject, a world wide responsibility.

The Pepsimint Chemical Co., held its stockholders meeting Thursday. Mr. M. W. Thomas was elected president; Prof. T. H. Topping, vice pres.; J. H. Sides, treas.; H. F. Jefferson, sec'y, and John M. Toulson, mgr. The Pepsimint Company have increased their business over one hundred per cent last year.

Jefferson's is the place to go for Xmas presents.

Visit R. F. Parks & Son's store. It is well worth a visit even if you don't buy.
