P.S.

I thank you for publishing my critique on your article on the animalcular theory of the acclimating fever of Western Africa. I regret, however, that I was not more particular in criticizing ~~my~~ my own article before sending it, as it contained a grammatical blunder, which I overlooked in the manuscript, but readily detected in the printed copy, viz: "have not or cannot see". Have not see, you know, is a very gross error; though I presume the majority of readers would not notice it in my article.
