"Schoolhouse Spring."

BY REV. H. K. MILLER.

'Twas one day while out walking,
I can walk I tell you, while we're talking;
Stand erect and feet straight pointed,
Walk along and nothing daunted.

I've seen people walking out,
Shuffling as if with the gout,
Or were tired and worn out,
Or for walking were too stout.

Many a mile I've walked for pleasure,
Never that the distance measurer,
Many a journey just like this,
And if good walking that is bliss.

Being out on such exdursion,
Killing time just for diversion;
Walking this a skirt of wood,
Just in sight a school house stood.

With the place I was acquainted,
Tho the building had been painted;
Recognized it in a minute,
Remembered off that I'd been in it.

The school I saw was Lynch's station,
That's a speck in this great nation;
Only then there was no station,
Simply part of first creation.

Children playing on the green
Were not the ones that I had seen,
So using fence and wood as screen,
I tried to see and not be seen.

Seemed I was a child ag'in,
If bell had rung might walked in;
But they had a female teacher,
And I am a timid creature.

'Twas a lady it was true,
Not the one that I'd been to;
Miss Kate, Miss Lou and no more,
But Ben. and Aleck, that made four.

But men never did count with me,
Tho I went to two or three;
Men are good teachers I acknowledge,
Learned much from them while in college.

No I begin to look around
And what I wanted there I found;
I followed the path the best I could,
Back of the school house, thro the wood.

Wending my way through bush and tree,
All familiar and dear to me;
At end of path I found the thing,
The same old school house childhood spring.

So down I went with face so flat
That off I took my derby hat
And drank that water as of your,
Just as I had done years before.

I know my hair is growing thinner
And my eyes are growing dimmer
And my head is turning gray,
Tho it seems but yesterday.

At the bottom of the spring
Was the shadow of the thing;
It had reflected years before
As I drank and still drank more.

O boys and girls, o'er world you are scattered,
I speak of this as tho it mattered;
What part of world you chance to be,
If on land or on sea.

Some from this world long have gone,
Still their memory we do mourn;
Others, yet, in life's hard battle,
Sometimes driven like dumb cattle.

I might write of this and that forever,
And still you wouldn't call me clever;
But I want to write about that thing,
The dear old schoolhouse, childhood spring.

I hear the bell, ding-a-ling, ding-a-ling!
And still I stay by that old spring;
I hate to leave the thing,
I love to hear that school bell ring.

Now I've lingered here too long,
Tho I guess it's no great wrong;
I may come some day again,
Catch perhaps a new refrain.

Again some day I may beat that station,
Perhaps catch an inspiration;
Tell it then to all the nation,
Of this spring and it's relation.

The thirty-ninth annual convention of the Diocese of Easton was held in St. James' Church on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, June 4 and 5. On Tuesday morning prayer was said at 9 o'clock. At 10.30 a. m., the convention opened with a celebration of the Holy Communion at which the Bishop of the Diocese officiated. The sermon was preached by the Rev. J. Gibson Gantt, Rector of St. Mary's Church, Denton. Immediately after the service the convention was organized for business. A business meeting was held in the afternoon and in the evening at 8 o'clock the Bishop of the Diocese read his annual address after which the Deans of the Convocation made their annual reports.

COFFIN ON THEIR TABLE.

Grewsome New Year's Dinner of Jovial Undertakers.

Three or four years ago there was an undertakers' New Year's dinner in a certain north of England town. The guests all drove to the rendezvous in mourning coaches and attired in full regulation somber clothes.

On entering the dining room they found it draped in black and decorated profusely with artificial and other wreaths. Even the tablecloth was adorned with a broad black border, and in the center of the table there was a miniature coffin filled with choice flowers.

The guests, however, did not fail to enjoy themselves, for the dinner was a good one, well served and to everybody's liking. When the chairman rose to propose the toast of the evening, "Health to ourselves and prosperity to our business during the new year," he was greeted with a storm of applause, albeit the latter part of the toast would not be received with much enthusiasm in an ordinary company.

During the evening appropriate songs, such as "The Gravedigger," "Down Among the Dead Men," "I Took His Measure," and similar cheerful ditties, were excellently rendered.—Pearson's Weekly.

A Test For Eyesight.

An interesting test for eyesight may be had by observing Ursa Major—the Great Bear—on a clear starlit night. Not every one is aware that Mizar, the second star in the constellation, is a double star. To observe this doublet demands good vision. Some starry night look up to the sky and see if you can discern it. If you do see it, you can rest content in the knowledge that your eyesight is not defective.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs.

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bullet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results rom a cold. Refuse substitutes. Sold by all druggists.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles most always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sized bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, and the address, Binghampton, N. Y. on every bottle.
