I from over exertion, again stay over night at Rocktown, in the morning Mr H. is better, and (so) is your humble Servent, at 7 o'clock start for Cape palmas, where we arrive in the after noon, Mr H. quite sick, I am better, found my Boarding Mistress Mrs Cassell quite well, No rest for anything here no the very Sands on the Sea Shore may say,

Can I not rest one night non day,
The Schools and institions answer no,
Not while the nation dethrobb and plans,
For the gospil to the heathen must go,
And why should the nation still remain,
While man knows not the redeemers name,
No the world itself should not be still,
While Sin is found in valley or on hill,

Pleas pardon this long and poorly written letter, It is as you will see all written after the true gramarian title the reader must make sence of it, the writer could, not,
