To the Public

WE WISH to announce to our friends and patrons that the building which we now occupy was recently bought by another merchant in town, and we have been notified that we must vacate the premises in 30 days; BUT WE ARE NOT GOING TO LEAVE TOWN. We have bought the Big Building that is now occupied by Mr. Bottomly as a grocery store, and when the improvements are completed we will open as

THE HUB
Department Store

in which we will handle a full line of Men's Clothing, Furnishings, Hats and Shoes; Ladies' Clothing, Furnishings, Millinery and Shoes; Dry Goods, Carpets, Mattings, Furniture, Notions, Etc., Etc.

All Under One Roof

All Under One Management

And With Lower Prices Than Ever

But we do not care to carry our present stock in our new place when the time comes, so we will now offer our entire stock of Good Clothing, Furnishings, Hats and Shoes at a BIG REDUCTION. Now is your chance to buy, as it is the right time and the right price.

Prices Too Low To Mention

The sooner you come the better.

Thanking you in advance for your past and future patronage, we are

Respectfully yours,

THE HUB, - Millington, Md

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 11, 1909.

LAST Wednesday about 200 live geese, shipped on the steamer Clio from Odessa, Del., to Philadelphia, rose in a body on Dock street wharf in that city and made a break for freedom down the Delaware river. Men in rowboats caught about 70 of the geese, but the rest headed for the flats below League Island.

THESE be parlous times for married men. Every head of the household—the financial head we mean—will read with horror the harrowing story from Rising Sun, Md. A wife—perhaps mother—went to a neighbor's house, so the story runs, and borrowed a loaded revolver. Returning to her home, where her husband rested in the supposed security of his own domicile, she flashed her gun in true Western heroine style and made him "shell-out" all his cash, over $100—probably the accumulation of years of saving from his weekly salary. Having deprived him of all save honor, the woman packed her suitcase and shook the dust of Rising Sun from her heels.

LET 'EM REBATE

MESSRS. EDITORS:—

Answering the many inquiries and solicitations of the Retailers' Association, throughout the State, we wish to make the following statement:

Values Known Only By Comparison

The county merchants are unduly alarmed over the city-fare-rebate system.

The writer, after an experience of twenty years country merchandising, sees nothing but good to result therefrom. The more the country people visit the city the more enlightened they become and likewise are their wants more numerous. To supply these wants is exactly the business of the merchants, and the more exacting the trade the more up-to-date he must keep.

The fare-rebate is just in its infancy other inducements will be made as the competitive chase grows more interesting. In the near future the county merchants will awake to the parcel-post system and then the game will be on in full force. What the country merchants need most is not organization or combination, but concentration. A revival from old cross-roads methods to city plans at less than city figures. The county merchant, if awake to the situation, can produce the identical goods as his city competitors and offer them at ten to fifteen per cent. less in view of the high rents and expenses existing in the city today.

The city dealer knows this and should not be censured for his shrewd acts to overcome this country competition.

Don't check the trade, allow the customers every privilege and encourage, rather than prevent, city visiting. All things being equal the country merchant, if abreast with the times, will sell more goods and better goods to his city-visiting-trade.

BI-ENNIAL ELECTIONS.

In an interview with one of the Baltimore City papers, Sen. Price, of Wicomico County, declared strongly of passing a constitutional Amendment at the election doing away with the necessity of holding annual elections. His plan would be to combine the Presidential, State, Congressional and County elections, and hold them every two years. Making an election come every two years instead of annually, as at present would, he states, save the State close to $500,000 during one Gubernatorial administration. It seems to be a very sensible thing to do and one which ought to have been done before. In addition to saving the State an immense sum of money, it would give the people of the State time to breathe, free of any political discussion. As it is now one campaign is hardly over before we are thrown headlong into another, keeping the community all stirred up over some political question. The people want some rest and want it badly, and if they want and need it how about the poor politicians who bear the brunt of the pre election fights? With primaries every summer and elections every fall, and the time between spent in getting ready for one or the other, the professional politician is a busy man indeed.

Let us hope that Sen. Price will be successful in getting the legislature to pass a bill providing for a constitutional amendment of this kind—and assure him that if the people once get a chance to vote on it, they will carry it with a hurrah.
