able lawyer in Boston. Let him go from the cars to the Marlborough Hotel, and show some of his letters of introduction, and he will be received, and can stay there till he can find a boarding house at his leisure—unless you can direct him to the care of some friend who will receive him. Then let him present his letters of introduction. Judge Fletcher will introduce him to the Law Library, where he will find a good collection of professional books, which will be at his service. He will almost immediately become known to the Lawyers and students who consult the Library. The courts are holden in the same building, and he can attend them and witness their proceedings as he finds desirable. Any advice or information that he may want, or any ~~to~~ additional privileges that he may need, will be readily granted, just so far as he succeeds, by his letters and behavior, in showing himself worthy of them. Very possibly he might, in a week or two, find a place in some office as a Student, if he should desire it; and this would be the easiest and surest way of getting such a place. Do not let him go at first to S. E. Sewall, or E. G. Loring, or any prominent abolitionist lawyer. E. G. Loring would be a good introducer. In this way, he can have what he most needs, without the least difficulty. I believe he is able to meet the expense.

Yesterday, Mrs. Eddy, wife of Rev. E. B. Eddy, told me that Miss Grant had sent her something by the ~~to~~ Mr. Stevens on its return, but she had not yet received it. If in your possession, will you send it to my care by steam packet?

Yours truly
Joseph Ivey
