147 II A 23

Colon. Office, Boston, July 3. 1857

Dr James Hall

Dear Sir In writing to you yesterday, there was one thing that seemed so much a matter of course, that I forgot to mention it. It is that Draper, on his arrival, should call on me. It has since occurred to me, that this omission may look like an indirect request to him to keep away from this Office; and I write to say that it means no such thing. I shall be pleased to do any thing I can for him. Still, his letters of introduction and his own demeanor must do the work. Perhaps a letter from some Dartmouth Professor to some Boston lawyer educated there might be useful. Yours, as ever,

Joseph Gray.
