My dear Sir

Your letter per Mr. C. Stevens dated April 30th reached me safely on the tenth inst; by which I am truly sorry to find that nothing heretofore sent you in the shape of semi annual accounts have been at all satisfactory I am not a little surprised that you have not till now been a little more explicit in making known to me just what you required of me. I was very anxious to have an interview and thorough understanding with you on this subject during your visit here last year. But owing to the unsettled state of things caused by the war, I was prevented from doing so. Having now however received your copy of Dr McGills last account, by which means I think I now understand exactly what is required of me I have no doubts but that my future accounts will render the necessary satisfaction. The short stay of the vessel added to my ill health (soreness of the eyes) prevents my sending them by this opportunity. But I shall (God willing
