The Man That Won In Kent

Governor Woodrow Wilson

WILSON'S DEMOCRACY NOT LIKE HEARST'S.

New York World Answers Editor's Attack on the Governor.

[New York World.]

Sadly and sorrowfully the Hon. William Randolph Hearst reads the Hon. Woodrow Wilson out of the Democratic party.

In a long and anguished letter to the Washington Post Mr. Hearst says of the governor of New Jersey:

"The whole trouble with Professor Wilson is that he is not a Democrat and does not know how to be a Democrat. His Democratic pose is assumed and therefore awkward and unnatural."

But is there no hope for Woodrow Wilson? Can he never scale the exalted heights of Democracy which Mr. Hearst has attained? We know, of course, that Governor Wilson began wrong, but perhaps the mistakes of the past can be remedied.

To be truly Democratic Governor Wilson should have run as a municipal ownership candidate for mayor in 1905 in order to defeat the regular Democratic candidate.

In 1906 Governor Wilson should have spent $250,000 organizing an Independence league to name him for governor and then used this league to club a stolen nomination from Murphy after Grady had "done the dirtiest day's work of my life."

In 1907 Governor Wilson should have gone into partnership with the Republican bosses and the Republican machine and placed a "fusion" ticket in the field against the Democratic ticket.

In 1908 Governor Wilson should have financed and nominated an independent presidential ticket to help Taft and Roosevelt defeat Bryan.

In 1909 Governor Wilson should have run as an independent candidate for mayor against the Democratic candidate, with the support of Chauncey M. Depew, the Republican bosses and other "reform" elements.

In 1910 Governor Wilson should have been an independent candidate for lieutenant governor in the hope of defeating the Democratic ticket and keeping the Republicans in power in Albany.

In 1911 Governor Wilson should have again nominated a "fusion" ticket in partnership with the Republican machine. Then, as soon as his "fusion" ticket was beaten and it became apparent that the Democratic party had a chance of winning the presidency he should have formally announced his return to Democracy.

Woodrow Wilson may not know "how to be a Democrat," but William Randolph Hearst knows. In comparison with Mr. Hearst no other Democrat ever was a Democrat. He is the only known specimen of his kind.

Salina (Kan.) Union: "Those Democrats who oppose the nomination of Governor Wilson as the Democratic candidate for the presidency should advance some better reason than that he has changed his mind or shifted his point of view on political issues. The man who stands today where he has always stood on all political questions is too much of a bourbon to deserve the support of Democratic voters."

SPIRIT OF THE TIMES TYPIFIED BY WILSON

Iowa Pleased at Solution of Present Problem.

[Des Moines (Ia.) News.]

Woodrow Wilson typifies the new spirit of the times in things political. He is the embodiment of the new thought in the nation.

This clear headed and profound scholar brought to the Iowa people a message of hope and good cheer. He came carrying the standard of a progressive army of thoughtful Americans, fully determined that whatever else may happen it shall be brought about that this shall again be a government by and for the people.

In his Coliseum address the governor properly assumed that there are tendencies in American life that are wrong, that evils have grown up, that we have got away from the moorings of a free government. No need to discuss these things. But what is the remedy?

He analyzed the problem with the dispassionate logic of the great university teacher before his class. He was especially happy in his characterization of the problem as one relating to "privileged business" rather than "big business," for it is not size so much as it is the enjoyment of special privilege that makes some business destructive of all that is good in commercial and political life. He was right, too, in leading back to the original source and refuge of all special privilege—the protective tariff.

Without attempting to go into details he pointed out that the remedy that we all are seeking must be secured, if at all, through agencies that are free to act. No axiom of the school books could be plainer.

Woodrow Wilson brought to Iowa people a message they hear with eagerness because they want just such a message. He spoke from the standpoint of the lifelong and earnest student of world politics, as one who has approached the subject with ripened intellect and well trained mind and following the eternal principles of truth, has reached a conclusion that cannot be assailed. Without any oratorical flourishes he held his audience entranced. He said nothing but that which he knew to be true. He made no use of merely fine sounding phrases it was cold logic, yet told in simple and direct language.

Here, then, is the new man in politics, a man come as a prophet among us to preach the new gospel. We have come upon a new time, when things are different, when the problems are not what they once were, when the people are eager for some discussion of present day politics in the light of present day conditions. That is why Woodrow Wilson's message to Iowa people was so refreshing, so inspiring, so helpful.

Whatever else they may do, the Iowa people, without regard to the particular party tag they are just now wearing, with small consideration for the grandfathers' prejudices, owe to Woodrow Wilson a vote of thanks for the battle line and shown us that which lies just beyond.
