and kind hearted man.

Upon the whole I think I will embrace the opportunity so kindly given me, and let the boy have a trial of the needs of life that he is just now talking so much about, especially as the reasons for doing so are so pressing on me. I will therefore ask the favor of you to let me know when the ship will be likely to depart, and purpose, in the event of his going, to go with my son to Baltimore at the proper time to see him leave. Repeating my thanks. I am

Very sincerely, your most obedient friend
