BUYING OUT OF TOWN

MESSRS. EDITORS OF KENT NEWS:

Gentlemen—I read an editorial recently in one of the town papers headed "What is wrong?" relating to business in Chestertown. There are various wrongs. The editors ask these questions, "Is it because the hitching posts are absent?" and then, "Is it because the country and city stores offer better inducements?" and "Or is it the lack of push and enterprise on the part of our business men in general?"

Now, Messrs. Editors, allow me a little space in reply to these questions: First—The fact that the hitching posts are "no more" is one great blow to our town. Take a few years back it was an uncommon thing, not only on a Saturday, but each day in the week, that teams by the score were to be seen all day up on our main street and every merchant was doing business. It was almost impossible to pass along the streets on a Saturday. Now the farmers are our main support. Keep them away from town and you kill business. Ask any merchant they can tell you who is complaining about the "no-more" hitching racks—the farmer. They can also tell you, and a look at their books will prove that business is nothing now compared with a few years ago. But no need for that—the eye shows that. Now place yourself in a farmer's place—what would you do? Why just as he and his wife do—go to the country store rather than hitch their team a hundred or so yards from where they want to do their shopping, to lug a basket of eggs, butter, etc. across the square. Is it any reason the business is dull.

Second—No! The merchants are as up-to-date as the country or city merchants, but how can they afford to show themselves when the business won't afford it. The money is not coming in to the town to enable the merchants—who are under such heavy taxes, and other expenses, to afford better inducements. Think of what the merchant is up against. There are numerous truckers who come to Chestertown, drive from one house to another and supply every family with vegetables, butter, eggs etc., and if they have any left unload on the merchant and nine times out of ten ask more money—never less—than they retail them around for. They are under no expense either, they don't even pay a huskster's or traders' license; no rents, taxes, clerk-hire or other expense than growing. Is there any reason why business is dull?

Third—The last and main trouble is: The business is being diverted from Chestertown. Truly a man or woman thinks but little for his or her own surroundings when they go to the city to buy (not only a suit of clothes) but their daily grub. Think of it. A person in a business here, who gets his living from the merchants of the town, going to Baltimore to buy their food for the table, clothes and shoes. But it is a fact. We could name dozens of such right here if we wished, but will not. But do the "well-thinking" people of the town ever stop to think that home is the place to spend a dollar? They cannot. About every two weeks, certain well-known gentlemen come to Chestertown and canvass the town and they get dollars upon dollars worth of orders, too, not because the goods are better, not because the prices are cheaper, but simply because the people believe they are getting better inducements and better goods. They don't stop to think that a merchant sells practically the same identical thing—perhaps though under a different label. Everybody knows that a packing house of any kind pack all goods from the same table, only different brands are placed on the cans or boxes.

Now Messrs. Editors I will not take more space, but how can business be any better when the best business of the town, such as doctors, lawyers, publishers and manufacturers send to or go to the city for everything they buy? Let those persons think of this and figure it out and then the trouble will be solved and the answer to "What is Wrong" will be "I am partly the cause" of the four recently closed business houses, in my own community.

Thanking you in advance, I beg to remain yours truly,

A MERCHANT.

NO DANGER FROM TELEPHONES.

Nearly two years ago the Postmaster General at London became interested in the report that tuberculosis could be communicated by the use of the telephones, particularly those for public use. In order to confirm or refute such a statement he arranged that a number of them be selected from various places and that they be delivered to a well-known bacteriologist for examination. Special care was taken to obtain instruments that were without the possibility of having been disinfected or even cleansed, and the same care was taken to see that they reached the testing laboratory in the exact condition in which they were removed from public use. They were taken from postoffices, railway depots, meat markets and other places frequented by the public.

The Jadorstory used is that of St. George's Hospital Medical School, Hyde park Corner, S. W., and the work was done in the Clinical Investigation Department under the supervision of Dr. H. R. D. Spitta, Superintendent.

Washings were made of the mouthpieces and the whole contents were then injected in guinea pigs. the animals were kept in separate cages under supervision and killed a few weeks later. Exhaustive examinations proved that they were absolutely healthy. From the twenty-one telephones used in the test no tubercle bacilli were found.

From a subsequent series of tests ending February 16 of the present year, and made with instruments used wholly by consumptive patients, the same results were obtained. The tests were made at the Frimley Sanitarium with instruments installed at the bedside of phthisical patients undergoing treatment. They were in use by the patients at regular periods for a number of days just prior to the test.

Tests were also made by the American Government, and like proofs resulted.

From all of these impartial and exhaustive experiments it has been proved beyond question that not the slightest danger of communication of the disease is possible through the medium of the telephone.

Anty Drudge on Washing in a Flat.

Mrs. Apartment—"It's the hardest thing to get hot water here; you're not supposed to do any washing in the rooms. And when I do get hot water, it takes so long to wash that the rooms get awful smelly."

Anty Drudge—"Why don't you use Fels-Naptha? Then you won't have to use hot water. You will get through with your wash in a jiffy and there'll be no steam to make your rooms offensive."

To women who live in apartments the washing of clothes is a problem. The solution is Fels-Naptha soap.

No need of hot water; no boiler, no washboard. For light washing you don't even need a washtub, because the bathtub or basin will do quite well.

All you require is Fels-Naptha, cool or lukewarm water and a place to dry the clothes.

Say you have a shirtwaist or two, napkins, lingerie and other small things, that you don't have time or don't want to send out to be washed. You can do much better at home in this way:

Wet the clothes, soap well with Fels-Naptha, roll and leave to soak in cool or lukewarm water for a short time. Then rub lightly, rinse and hang up to dry.

Takes but one-fourth the time and one-tenth the work of the old way. Also saves the clothes.

Follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

The Telephone is as Necessary as Running Water

Just as the turning of a faucet brings the water supply, the Bell Telephone brings shops, and tradesmen, and friends.

In work-time, play-time, or trouble-time, a few words over the wire will work wonders for YOU as it does for millions of others.

If you're still without a telephone, stop to think this over NOW. Call the Business Office from the nearest Public Telephone and ask about the rates—the message is free.
