High Prices For Cows.—Mr. John N. Bennett, near Still Pond, sold four high grade young Guernsey milk cows this week to Queen Anne's parties. Two of these cows brought $125 each which looks like a pretty high price for the cows, but it is not when it is considered how much money they will bring to their owners. Mr. Benntt has some find stock. He has one of the finest Guernsey registered bulls ever seen in this section which heads his herd of over sixty head. Some of the best calves ever produced in this section are among the number.

KENNEDYVILLE NOTES.

Mr. W. M. Clendaniel spent Sunday and Monday with his family returning to the Baltimore hospital Tuesday morning for further treatment.

The entertainment in Weer's Hall Saturday night drew the largest gathering of people, it is reported, by good authority, which ever assemble at one time in said building. Home talent always draws. The weather was auspicious and in every particular the three most interesting, entertaining and humorous plays, with a good supply of both instrumential and vocal music seemed to delight every one in the packed house to the heart,s contents. We cannot specialize any of the characters of this splendid troupe, all of which took their part so successfully, but feel that too much praise cannot be given Mrs. Joseph H. Weer for her zealous training of the company of actors as also those who were her assistants. We think there are very many of the audience of Saturday night, who would be delighted to go again.

LATER—The splendid entertainment will be by special requests from many repeated on Saturday evening of the present week the 15th, in Harper's Hall, Still Pond. It will be interesting to your many readers to know the names of the characters of these three plays of home talent:

Male Quartette, "Speed away." Messrs. Edgar R. Pennington, Thomas Bramble, W. T. Hague, E. T. Othoson.
The Scheme that Failed.
Characters. Paul Jennings — William Clendaniel, Jr.; Edith Jennings—Miss Emma Shafer; Victor Craven—Chas. Hague; Miss Mabel Hague Fannie Jennings—Miss Ada Hurlock.
Solo, Miss Annie Hayes.
Recitation. Miss Ada Hurlock.
Second play.—"Aunt Susan Jones."
Characters—Aunt Susan—Miss Bertie Brockson; Mrs. Markley—Mrs. D. A. Urie; Arabella Markley—Mrs. Annie Redmile; Annie Wilson—Miss Ethel Wilson; Augustus Talderfrac--Mr. G. R. Rasin.
Solo and Duet, Miss Nellie Othoson and Miss Lulu VanDyke, with male quartette.
Third play—"Coming to an Understanding."
Characters—Miss Annie Hayes; Mr. Flagg—Mr. Robert Hill; Mr. Nubbin—E. L. Redmile; Mr. Bobbin—W. T. Hague.
Male Quartette.
Doors open at 7 o'clock. Entertainment to begin at 8. You cannot afford to miss it.

The Farmers' Institute of Monday, both forenoon and afternoon held in our village hall, was well attended, especially in the afternoon, when quite a number of ladies were present. The speakers were the following: Mr. F. M. Soper, who gave a most interesting and practical talk on orcharding, telling how ty grow the best fruit; Mr. J. R. Haswell spoke on drainage, illustrating by many views thrown on canvas; Mr. J. T. Anthony, well known by Kent county people, gave us the benefit of his experience in dairying, the best breeds of stock, and how to secure greatest results. Mr. C. L. Apperman was in charge. Home talent furnished appreciated instrumental and vocal music.
