PUBLISHERS AND EDITORS

SATURDAY, JUNE 21, 1913.

A NUMBER of articles are crowded out of this issue which will appear next week.

THE Baltimore Sun of Tuesday says L. Wethered Farroll, Esq., is an applicant for the office of internal revenue collector together with several other candidates.

WILSON KEEPING COOL.

Sitting on seven tons of ice which cost about $56, President Wilson kept cool despite 100 degrees in the shade and the sizzling comments about the tariff and currency from legislators missing their summer vacations. This statement is literally true, for the huge refrigerating plant under the President's office which reduces the temperature 20 degrees was started Monday.

THE CLOSING OF CERTAIN SCHOOLS.

It is ascertained that as our County Commissioners persist in refusing enough money to run the schools, several small schools will have to close.

The schools of Kent have closed with interesting exercises and to Prof. L. J. Smyth and his corps of teachers is due congratulations for a successful year. It has been and is our just pride that there are no better schools in the State than are found in Kent. As an evidence those who graduate from them take high rank in the colleges in which they enter and are also learning wholesome lessons in morality and good citizenship.

Each year, however, brings forth extra expenses and the cost of running the schools is greater to-day than ever before.

CLASS DISTINCTION!

The opposition must be getting desperate of issues when they seek to inject into this campaign the question of class distinction; the question of the 400 and the 4; of the patricians and plebeians; of the aristocrats and the democrats, the elite and the canaille.

We must credit them, however, with a kind of political cuteness and acuteness in this move, because there is always an element that is caught by such clap-trap. That element may in a sense, be termed the mob element. It is composed of a class jealous of the success of other people, no matter along what line achievement is attained. Jealous of wealth, health, social standing, good looks, good clothes,—jealous of anything that elevates their fellow man a degree higher in the scale of perfection.

Do the antis mean to say they have that element in their faction? And can they deny that the "400" appeal falls flat on the ears of any other kind?

And yet while the element referred to is satisfied to harbor such resentment in their own breast, still it is not always safe to remind the public of their inferiority. They do not always relish being classified as outside the poll of social excellence. So we hold out a friendly warning to the prolific scribe of the Antis that his little squib concerning the 400 and the 4 may serve as a political boomerang.

We do not desire to be understood as making any charge that the anti-organization is composed of the mob element. Indeed we could have made use of the foolish inneundo with as much force as they. To prove this it is only necessary to mention the claim to "400" superiority upon which some of the Anti leaders have always insisted. For instance, the big chief himself. He is proud to trace his origin back through a long line of ancestry. He preserves their memory in line and lineament. He displays the Barroll forefathers in imposing portraiture, and points with great satisfaction to generations of great respectability. No one blames him for this, but is he one of the 400 or the 4?

Our good friend Collins is surpassed by no one in his defence of his family name and standing. And if any one should accuse him of inferiority of social status, he would soon be deep in family history and soon convince you that he was as good as the best, and ready to stand by the Collins escutcheon to the last drop of his blood. All to his credit.

And without very much effort we could recall some instance of Mr. Bowers himself falling back upon family honor and social status when pressed pretty closely by political opponents.

So we might continue, but it is just possible this is another joke, and we have only fallen into another "trap" warily set.

In emulation of ancient and renowned civilization we do not blush to be called the "400"; we deem it a tribute to the ability of our candidates to assume the reins of government and work out Kent's political salvation along purely democratic lines—for the good of the people—and all the people.

The Alumni association met Wednesday and elected the following officers: President Francis L. Valk, of N. Y., Prof J. L. Smyth, Chestertown, vice-president; Prof. W. L. Wheatley secretary; Pros. J. S. W. Jones, Treasurer.

The banquet to the Alumni was a splendid affair, 110 participating. Caterer G. E. Lambert upheld his high reputation and the menu comprised broiled rock, chicken, potatoes, clam soup, ice cream, coffee, etc.

The commencement ball in the new gymnasium was a splendid affair. About 600 persons were present.

THIS has been a big week for Chestertown and the weather has been ideal.

ILLINOIS has stepped into line with the suffrage states. The others will follow, but our own state, which is, with cause, so particularly proud of its women, ought not to be among those which lag in the procession of progress.—Easton Ledger.

THE Barroll organ last week in speaking of the road law says, "The money he (Mr. Gibbs) spent on the roads from April 19th, (1913) to June 6th, (1913) last Friday, amounting WE ARE SURE to between $7,000 and $10,000 the Road Engineer is expecting to come out of this year's appropriation of $21,636 And so the taxpayers can see just what they are doing. They are spending more money than their own law appropriates from year to year, by very nearly one-half, etc."

The NEWS has repeatedly called the attention of the public to the outrageous misrepresentations of the writer of the above and we try to overlook his weakness. But the alleged facts as stated in the above are UNTRUE and should not be permitted to go uncontradicted. We call upon the Barroll organ to prove first, that the Road Engineer has spent between $7,000 and $10,000 to come out of this year's levy, i. e., levy of 1913. Second, that the Road Law is requiring very nearly one-half more than the law appropriates.

Will this be a case of "nobody"? It will if he sticks to the issue and to his figures. Now watch him squirm.

ROCK HALL NOTES.

The St. John's R. C. festival on last Saturday evening was a grand success. The weather was delightful and the attendance was very large. The whole town was a beehive. The "Pollys" and the candidates were out in force but they didn't seem to be doing much buttonholing, they confined themselves to their own claus. Guess they were working out rumors.

An anti candidate a few days ago approached an ex-dyed-in-the-wool anti follower with the remark:

"Say, C., I presume you are my friend and will support me in this campaign?"

Ex-anti—"No, sir."

Candidate—"Now see here C., I voted for Harrison Vickers and Will Beck two years ago, it's a matter of courtesy for their friends to support me this time, don't you see it that way?"

Ex-anti—"No I don't. I have cut loose root and branch from the antis. They treated me dirty and tried to rob me. Now I am determined to do all in my power against them."

Rev. J. Earle Maloy, a beloved M. P. pastor in this section back in the middle 60's, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Maslin last week. He delivered a soul-stirring message of love and a promise of heaven to an appreciative congregation at Wesleyan M. P. Church on Sunday morning. Seventy-nine years on his back has made a telling effect physically on Mr. Maloy, but his spiritual fervor is still strong, and his God-given messages are delivered with great forcefulness to the edification of faithful listeners.

Mrs. A. P. Leary and son, of Baltimore, made a flying visit to the home of her sisters, the Misses Ryan, on Sunday by way of Tolchester, returning on the evening boat.

Wheat harvest is on this week among our farmers.

The continued dry weather is getting on the nerves of the people here about. Gardens and truck are in great need of rain.

Mr. James Jones has opened an ice cream parlor in Wheatley's provision store and is doing a good business.

Mr. C. J. Reiche is having the old Davis homestead renovated, new roof to the dwelling, also interior repairs.

WE BEG TO ANNOUNCE that we are in a position to take care of large Ice-Cream orders for Excursions, Picnics, Outing Parties, etc. Special attention given to this business and quotations cheerfully given.
