My Dear Sir

I have received your favor of the 28th ult. I know not how, but in some way, I got the impression that the "Exchange" was your vessel & indeed that this was a new name given to the Bryson. We have a number of letters by the Exchange. The particulars to which I referred are thus given in a letter from a Cabin Passenger Mr Seys to Mr M Lain

I was ashamed this time, with the getting up of the outfits &c &c of our Ship the more so as I had bragged so much of the fare, attendance, accommodations & on board the Steven

1 The flour for the cabin use, was so poor that a Baltimorean would never have given it to his servant

2 The Steward at first employed being obliged to quit because his bill was taken from him by the Officers, their room
