SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1913.

PEACE, not war, is the cry of all nations.

THE men who cut the ticket in Somerset are called Jim Crow Democrats.

THE darkness about the Chestertown depot is a disgrace to the Pennsylvania railroad. The Grand Jury will have to recommend an improvement, then perhaps a change will be made.

WE have that much faith in Orlando Harrison to believe that he will resign his claim to a seat in the Senate if it is clouded in every way. Mr. Harrison is a gentleman of high character.

ARE WE HELPING CONDITIONS?

By An Interested Mother.

We read of the tremendous amount of money and energy used in these days to stamp out vice and drunkenness and living down here in the country we think of it as if it were miles away in some foreign land. I wonder if many of us stop and think why? How many of us would be willing to work to make this world a better place to live in? We say we can't do anything of the sort. Then do we realize that by an indifference we are helping on the terrible work of sin? We are raising our children to furnish young material for the wicked ones to feed on.

How many successful churches are there in the red light districts? How many good Christian people live in the saloon district? They don't mix at all. You can't mix them. So the question before us now is not how to make the bad people good, but how to keep the good boys and girls pure and clean so that there will not be any material for these vultures to feed on in this coming generation. When the appetite has been created it is hard to break, but can't we see to it that no appetite is formed?

There are lots of folks who sneer at Christianity, but they are forced to admit after all that petitions are not circulated in a neighborhood to close the churches; the Y. M. C. A.'s are not forced to leave the communities where located as these disreputable houses have been. So there must be an advantage somehow in the Christian spirit. People want to be located in a good neighborhood, and if they do make their money in a questionable manner, they do not like to live in a questionable neighborhood.

So what can the country people do? They can encourage the growth of the church nearest to them. They can attend the services, hear the message the preacher has for them and in spite of the Devil, there will be sure to remain a tiny thought that will cheer them up for several days. Country folks as a usual thing are interested in making things inanimate grow as well as they know how. Can we interest them in the question of making the human life reach its highest development? We are forced to admit after all that only by education can this be done, and our form of education is lectures. Let us hear as many of them as we can. Where? When? Get the best educated man around, usually the preacher, and listen to his talks. Dont walk around the farm on Sunday or sport all day in the auto—learn a little about how to make the world better. Don't think that because your boy is good, going to church won't help you. It will. We none of us live alone. Everything we do is watched by some one. Get a move on you when you read this. Get ready to plan to get out the big carriage and take the crowd to church on Sunday. Go on Monday or Tuesday or whenever you can, and you will be helping to close out the Red Light District in many cities. If our families desire the right, they will not want the wrong. If they are used to the best they would not think of asking for husks. So remember by encouraging the growth of Churches and Institutions of Learning we are surely sounding the death knell of all sin.

BE and continue poor, young man while others around you grow rich by fraud and disloyalty; be without place or power, while others beg their way upward; bear the pain of disappointed hopes, while others gain the accomplishment of theirs by flattery; forego the gracious pressure of the hand for which others cringe and crawl. Wrap yourself in your own virtue, and seek a friend and your daily bread. If you have in such a course grown gray with unblenched honor, bless God, and die.

FACTS TENDING TO SHOW HOW THE NEW TARIFF WILL REDUCE THE HIGH COST OF LIVING.

Thirty carloads of fresh dressed meats aggregating, 1,500,000 pounds, reached Chicago last Saturday, as the first importation of fresh meat under the new tariff law admitting meat free into the United States. The shipment was from Canada, and the prices ranged from 6 3-4 to 8 cents a pound. This is less than the Chicago packers usually pay for beef on the hoof shipped in from the farms and ranges and they do not have to go to the expense of killing and dressing.

GET your votes on the Piano at Vansant & Newsome's. They will give 2 votes for 1 on every pair of Mens' and Boys' shoes, 3 votes for 1 on every pair Womens' and Misses shoes, 3 votes for 1 on every order taken for clothing and 3 votes for 1 on all underwear and sweaters. Better get in the game.

WILL OF SILAS L. WELLER.

The will of the late Silas L. Weller was filed in the Kent Orphan's Court this week. It requests that the estate be turned into cash and divided. To his sons Lewis H. Weller and Jas. E. Weller is given $250 each; to Jacob Weller, Chas. Weller, Ida Weller and Mary W. Palmatory is given $1.00 each; to the children of his deceased daughter, Mary Jane Ford, is given $1.00 each; to Elmer Weller, son of May Weller Palmatory is given $100; to his wife $1000.00. The residue of the estate is to be invested and the interest paid to his wife during her life and at her death to be divided among four sons share and share alike. The will makes Charles H. Jefferson executor and was made May 15, 1911 and witnessed by S. P. Townsend and Denny Hoffecker. Messrs Jas. Brice and Chas. D. McClarey were appointed to appraise the estate.

DEATH'S MESSENGER.

Mrs Claude F. Parks Dies Near Centreville—Other Deaths

Mrs. Claude F. Parks died on Monday afternoon last at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McFeeley, near Centreville. She leaves a husband Claude F. Parks, a prominent young business man of Chestertown, and junior member of the firm of R. F. Parks & Son, also three children, Virginia, Claude and Mary. She was 31 years of age. As Miss Mary McFeeley, of Centreville, the deceased was widely known as a happy, joyous, charming young lady and had a wide circle of friends who vied with each other in during her homage. About fourteen years ago she married Mr. Claude F. Parks, of Chestertown, and during her residence here had made many dear friends who are sorrowing because of her death. She had many charming qualities and a big heart. To the very last she expressed her great grief at leaving her three little children without the love of a mother to look after them, though happy in the knowledge that her own mother and their father would bend every effort to care for and comfort them. During the many months of her sickness she had the constant watchfulness of her husband, physician and friends, but it was her mother, Mrs. McFeeley, that she always sent for in her troubles and it was to her that she went to spend her last days on earth. And no mother ever loved, nursed, cared for and sacrificed more than did this one. And the parting was thus made more sorrowful and painful to them both.

The funeral was held Wednesday afternoon from the home of her parents, near Centreville, with interment in Centreville Cemetery. Revs. A. B. Conger, Henry Covington and J. L. Nichols, officiated. Miss Lena Weedon and Mr. Newnam sang a beautiful hymn during the service at the house. The bearers were Messrs. R. E. C. Lowe, J. Lem. Roberts, Spencer G. Newnam, J. E. Ferguson and Wm. B. Usilton, Jr., undertaker Eddins funeral director.

DOG GUARDED CORPSE.

Charles E. Clough Accidentally Kills Himself While Gunning.

With his hunting hound guarding the body and howling mournfully, Charles E. Clough, a farmer, was found dead early Tuesday morning in a thicket near Barclay. He had been killed by a gunshot wound, supposed to have been received accidentally. On Monday afternoon Mr. Clough took his gun and calling his dog, went into the woods near his home. His wife, when she kissed him goodbye, was the last person known to have seen him alive.

While on his way home from school, Andrew Clough, the seven-year-old son of the victim, saw his father's dog among the trees, but in the evening shadows thought the animal was perched upon a stump. He did not call the dog and timidly hurried on home, where he found his mother worrying because her husband had not returned.

All during the night Mrs. Clough waited anxiously for the coming of the man then lying dead within 100 yards of Mr. Ware's home. As the night wore on she became hysterical, and it was a distracted woman who in the early dawn went in search of Mr. Clough. Little Andrew had told of seeing the dog and led his mother to the spot. When she saw that death had claimed her husband the widow summoned neighbors to aid her in conveying the body home.

Mr. Clough's corpse was found lying face down, with his left hand clutching his soft hat over the wound in a seeming effort to stanch the flow of blood. The gun, with a shell in one barrel discharged, was lying several yards behind him. The hammer of the other barrel, which contained a loaded cartridge, was not cocked. An examination of the surroundings failed to reveal any trace of foul play.

After death ensued the dog must have perched upon its master's back and kept vigil through the night. The animal angrily resisted all efforts to remove it when the body was found and snapped viciously at those who dragged it away. One man had to hold the struggling dog while others took up Mr. Clough's body.

Mr. Clough was 33 years old and a son of the late Chaney Clough. He leaves a widow, formerly a Miss Jackson, and six small children.
