RICH NECK WINS.

When First Prize Goes to Rich Neck Farmers, Millersville and Patapsco Clubs Protest—Lively Tilts, Threatening to Result in Physical Encounter, Follow When Award is Pinned on booth.

Dissatisfaction with the decision of the judges who awarded the prizes for the club exhibits at Maryland Week almost resulted in the destruction of one booth by its occupants, and several personal encounters. Prudent counsel prevailed, however. There were no fist encounter, although there were only prevented by cooler heads, when words waxed warm.

Everything progressed smoothly at the exhibition until afternoon, when the judges of the club exhibits announced that the first prize had been won by the Rich Neck Farmers' Culb, the second by Olney Grange, the third by the Millersville Farmers' Club and the fourth by the Patapsco Farmers' Club. Protests were at once made by the Patapsco and and the Millersville Clubs. They based on the fact that in the booth which received the first prize were displayed soap, cake, cooked ham, candy art needlework and other articles not within the provisions of the rule. The Patapsco Club also entered a protest.

The judges immediately took up the matter and deliberated for several hours They carefully considered the protests of the exhibitors, and after listening to the arguments on both sides affirmed their decision.

The prize was $100. Collectively, they had an entire booth, in which they exhibited the famous produce of Queen Annes and Kent counties. A number of farmers also had individual exhibits. Messrs James T. Anthony, W. Irving Walker and H. P. Skipper, always in the fore rank of progressive farming were among those who had individual exhibits.

Mr. Walter B. Harris won first prize of $10 on his apples.

In addition to the first prize of $100 which was awarded to the Rick Neck Farmers' Club of Queen Annes for the best Club, Grange or Farmers Organization Ex-individual members of the Club were given the following prizes:

DEATH OF MR. LAYMAN.

The NEWS noted the death of this good man last week but this account comes too late so we publish it here:

His many friends in Kent county and throughout the peninsula will deeply regret to learn of the death of Mr Henry C. Layman formerly of this county and, for twenty years prior to his death, a resident of Baltimore.

Mr. Layman died in Wilmington on Sunday Nov. 16th while on a visit to his son, Mr. H. Quimby Layman.

He had been in failing health for more than a year, and had undergone an operation in June. Tho gh the operation was successful he suffered from a complication of disease which resulted in his death. Mr. Layman was for about twenty years in business in this county for almost as long a period a valued employe of the Kingan Provision Company of Baltimore.

For fifty years he was a faithful member of the M. E Church, holding an official relation for the greater part of that time, and wherever he lived took an active part in the religious and social welfare of his community.

Mr. Layman was born at Christiana Del., in 1845.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Miss Susanna B. Ford, of Elkton, Md., two sons, Messrs. Alfred C. and H. Quimby Layman, of Wilmington, Del., a daughter, Miss Florence M. Layman, of Baltimore, and a sister, Mrs. Emma V. Goocing, of Wilmington, Del.

Funeral services were held in Wilmington, and on Tuesday, November 18th, at Still Pond M. E Church, where they were conducted by Rev. Geo. W Townsend, of Rising Sun, Mr. Layman's former pastor and life-long friend, assisted by Rev J. E. Kemp Horn, of Baltimore, and Rev. F. X. Moore, of Still Pond.

Mr. Layman was laid to rest in the Still Pond cemetery, his pall bearers being his nephews, Messrs. William and Edwin, Herbert and Norman, Wallace and Clarence Ford.
