My commission expires first Monday, in May, 1914.

THE Relief Association has in view the worthy object of erecting a Hospital and an Old People's Home in Chestertown they have the sympathy of our people and the Bazaar held this week was an example of the result of co-operation. Let's have more of it.

A COMMENDABLE ACT.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Kent County Almshouse held Tuesday it was decided not to hold any more public dinners. The trustees are Harry T. Rash, president; Thomas J. Donahoe, Louis E. Smith, Geo. L. Bowers, J. Hydie Thompson. This action of the county's servants at the almshouse will have the approval and commendation of all good citizens. It is a step toward economy and toward sobriety, a recognition of an awakened public sentiment as voiced by press and pulpit.

A GREAT NEED

One of the great needs of Kent county is a State road to Rock Hall. We would suggest that a bill be passed at the coming Legislature making it mandatory to appropriate money for this great need, even if a bond issue be necessary. Another important road is the one from Galena to Lambson. Let's get some permanent roads.

CHESTERTOWN AWAKE!

At a meeting of the business men of Chestertown it was decided to wake up. As an evidence of the truth of this statement an adv. is placed in the NEWS by the merchants announcing the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Kris on Tuesday, Dec 23rd. Toys for everybody. See adv. on this page this week and next. Mr. Chas. S. Smith, that hustling retired merchant has charge of the affair. Nuf sed.

We would suggest that the merchants form a permanent association for mutual benefit and for attracting out-of-town people to deal here.

TEN YEARS HENCE.

Here is the way the papers will write up weddings ten years hence: "The bride looked very well in a traveling dress, but all eyes were centered upon the groom. He wore a dark suit that fitted this form perfectly and in his dainty gloved hands he carried a small rose. His curly hair was beautifully done, and a delicate odor of hair oil of the best quality floated down the aisle as he passed. The young people will miss him now that he is married. He is loved by all for his many accomplishments, his tender grace and his winning ways. The bride commands a good salary as a bookkeeper and the groom will miss none of the luxuries to which he has been accustomed. A crowd of pretty men saw him off at the depot."

ROCK HALL NOTES.

At their last meeting the P. O. S. of A. Camp No. 37 after routine business was disposed of had a highly entertaining social feature consisting of an apple-biting and pie-eating contest. The apples were suspended from a line, the one succeeding in biting an apple was entitled to all on the line. Marvin Rodney won. The pies were placed on a pedestal and A. A. Toulson and Ryan, Sr. were scheduled for the contest, but Ryan's alimentary functions would not permit him to engage in the contest. W. G. Davis volunteered as a substitute. Toulson won in a jiffy, he consumed his pie and was snapping at the pedestal before Davis got away with bites of his pie. All the contestants had their hands secured behind them. A large number were present and the laughter was side-splitting.

Our worthy postmaster J. W. Downey moved his office fixtures into his handsome new building adjoining Dr. Schwatka's residence on Saturday and Charley Smith was the first to deliver mail therein. He is exceeding proud of the honor and the postmaster expressed the hope that the incident presaged good luck to him.

The oyster industry still grows worse. A number of our buy boats have been tied up in the city with their cargoes. Not an offer has been made them and the worst is not yet it appears

We have nearly had a water famine in Rock Hall, but our friend Will Clayton served all who came from his well.

Graphic Story of Ex-Gov. Patterson, of Tennessee

I have seen the trail of liquor in the criminal courts where I have prosecuted crime. I know and have been a participant in its paralyzing and corroding influence in the social life and public life of our national capital. As the Governor of Tennessee, I have seen it a veritable and raging center of storm around which gathered its defenders and assailants, and from which sprang divisions in parties, disputes in families and dissensions in churches.

Going through life, I have seen it drag down many of the associates of my boyhood, blasting their hopes and consigning them to untimely graves. I have seen its forked lightning strike my firstborn—the child of my young manhood, and I have borne with him the suffering and tried to help him in his brave but sometimes melancholy struggle for redemption. At last I have felt its foul and stealthy blow as it turned upon me in its deadly and shaming wrath—upon me, who had pleaded before the people for its very existence. Men have called me strong; and while I could see its harm in others, I thought myself immune, as thousands before my time have thought and suffered for the thought.

All this I knew and felt without a revelation of the deep pathos and meaning of it all. I needed help, for I was groping and my feet were stumbling in the dark. Deep in humiliation, tortured and condemned in my own esteem, which is the severest penalty, a man may inflict upon himself, I thought of the oft-repeated phrases about personal liberty, of the power of the human will to resist temptation, with which I had beguiled myself, and I found them as unsubstantial as the fabric of a dream.

When logic failed and reason gave no answer, I cast aside all pride of opinion, all thought of what the world might say or think, and went to the throne of Almighty God. There, on bended knees, I asked for light and strength and they came. The curtains of the night parted, and the way was clear. I arose a changed man. An invisible hand has led me on to where the vision is unobscured, and the purposes of life stand revealed. From a critic of others, I looked within. From an accuser, I became a servant in my own house to set it in order. From a vague believer in the guidance of Divine power, I have become a convert to its infinite truth. From an unhappy and dissatisfied man—out of tune with the harmony of life and religion, I have become happy and content, firmly anchored in faith, and ready to testify from my own experience to the miraculous power of God to cleanse the souls of men.

Out of this has come the profound conviction that on the question with which I had to deal in my public career, all my arguments and all my conclusions, so far as they excused or justified the moral right or policy of the state to legalize the sale of liquor, and thereby give sanction to its ravages on society, were only the empty and hopeless statements of propositions which had no verity or application to a thing wholly and essentially evil, and concerning which no principle of right or order or liberty should ever be evoked for its existence.
