Revd Mr Mallory

My dear Sir

Yours of yesterday with the Roll enclosed. My I feel rather sensible of longwind to day, it gives me most uncommon pleasure to gratify you by the insertion of the "I." or as the boys strong want to have it, the "One Idle" — I fully appreciate the pleasure it gives you to point out the omission I am willing to believe you considered the Roll sensible not be valid without it, or that you would not dare to place it there for me. On a careful examination of the document I cannot see other error or omission save the lack of the number, but having kept no register of notes made by me since I began that business in 1826. I believe I am unable to furnish a statistic report. Up to the blank after Dec. I should not like to fill that without later counsel. & therefore leave it. If you discover any other fault or omission feel not to return the note I must happy should I be to add, erase or modify as you may suggest. It strikes me that you might as well be thus every Sam. in the year. we not never working up for the Legislature —

I am sorry to say we have so much to do
