THE NEWS.

Chester Town, July 15, 1848.

Gen. Taylor's Principles.

As it has become fashionable with some to declaim against Gen. Taylor for an alledged want of principles, and who would oppose the old soldier be his principles what they might, and published in every peper and pamphlet in the Union—yet for the purpose of preventing misconception, we subjoin some of the avowed and published opinions of the war-worn and consummate hero:

1. I have no private purposes to accomplish, no party objects to build up, no enemies to punish—nothing to serve but my country.

2. I have cardinal principles which will regulate my political life—I have no concealment and hold no opinion which I would not readily proclaim to my assembled countrymen, but crude impressions upon matters of policy, which may be right to-day and wrong to-morrow are, perhaps, not the best test of fitness for office.

3. One who cannot be trusted without pledges cannot be confided in merely on account of them.

4. I am a Whig—but not an ultra Whig—if elected I would not be the mere president of a party.

5. The power given by the Constitution to the Executive to interpose his veto, is a high conservative power; but in my opinion should never be exercised except in cases of clear violation of the constitution, or manifest haste and want of consideration by Congress.

6. I have thought that the known opinions and wishes of the Executive have exercised undue and injurious influence upon the legislative department of the Government, and from this cause, I have thought our system in danger of undergoing a great change in its true theory.

7. The personal opinions of the individual who may happen to occupy the Executive chair, ought not to control the action of Congress upon questions of domestic policy.

8. Nor ought the President's objections to be interposed where questions of constitutional power have been settled by the various departments of Government and acquiesced in by the people.

9. THE TARIFF.—The will of the people as expressed through their Representatives in Congress ought to be respected and carried out by the Executive.

10. THE CURRENCY.—Same opinion as No. 9 on the Tariff,

11. THE IMPROVEMENT OF OUR GREAT HIGHWAYS, RIVERS, LAKES AND HARBORS.—Same opinion as No. 9 on the Tariff.

12. THE MEXICAN WAR.—My life has been devoted to arms, yet I look upon war at all times and under all circumstances, as a national calamity, to be avoidod, if compatible with national honor.

13. ACQUISITION OF TERRITORY BY CONQUEST The principles of our government, as well as its true policy, are opposed to the subjugation of other nations and the dismemberment of other countries by conquest.' In the language of the great Washington, "why should we quit our own to stand on foreign ground."

As an offsett we append Gen. Cass' opinion in the Senate U. S. in a speech delivered by him:

"We might swallow the whole of Mexico without being hurt by it."

14. TERMS OF PEACE.—In the Mexican War, our national honor has been vindicated and in dictating terms of peace, we may well afford to be forbearing, and even magnanimous to our fallen foe.

15. I shall engage in no schemes, no combinations, no intrigues. If the American people have not confidence in me they ought not to give me their suffrages. If they do not, you know we well enough to believe me, when I declare I shall be content, I am too old a soldier to murmur against such high authority.

[The above views are extracted from Gen. Taylor's letter to Capt. Allison, dated 22nd April, 1848.

16. THE UNION.—The firmness and duration of the Union materially depend upon the purity of the Supreme Executive authority, and that imbued with the true spirit of the Constitution, the Chief Magistrate should be a Patriot President, intent upon the moral glory and solid prosperity of our country.

17. The true welfare of the Republic requires an Executive Chief, not committed to extreme opinions, but who will temper past animosities, and by an example of wise conciliations regulate the rising differences, with which new and vast events are about to test the durable worth of Republican Government.

18. That the platform of the Constitution, upon which Gen'l Taylor stands before the people furnishes a sure and ample basis upon which all our fellow citizens may unite in his support and participate in the benefits of good government under his administration.

(The 16, 17 and 18 are extracts from the resolutions passed at a public meeting in Baltimore, on the 20th March 1848.—Gen. T. in his letter of the 1st May 1848, acknowledge the receipt of a copy of the resolutions and approves of the political sentiments contained in them.)

19. If the good people think proper to elevate me, at the proper time, to the highest office in their gift, I shall feel bound to serve them, if not from inclination, from a principle of duty, honestly, faithfully and to the best of my ability, in accordance with the principles of the constitution, as near as I can do so, as it was construed and acted on by our first Presidents; two of whom acted so conspicuous a part in framing and completing that instrument.—[Gen. Taylor's letter to J. R. Ingersoll, dated 3d August 1847.]

20. Permit me to add, that should such high distinction be conferred upon me, the constitution in a strict and honest interpretation, and in the spirit and mode in which it was acted upon by the earlier Presidents, would be my chief guide.—[Letter from Gen. Taylor to O. P. Baldwin or R. H. Gallagher, Esq., dated April 20, 1848.]

21. "The joy and exultation of the greatest victories were always, after the heat and excitement of the battle, succeeded by feelings of poignant sorrow and pain; and war, after all, is a great calamity, and his the greatest glory who can terminate it."—[Extract speech of Gen'l Taylor at N. O. in Dec. 1847.

22. I need hardly reply to your concluding inquiry, that I am a peace man, and that I deem a state of peace to be absolutely necessary to the proper and healthful action of our republican institutions On this important question I freely confess myself to be the unqualified advocate of the principles so often laid down by the Father of his country, and so urgently recommended by him in his Farewell Address to the American people. Indeed, I think I may safely say, that no man can put more implicit faith than I do, in the wisdom of his advice, when he urged upon us the propriety of always standing upon "our own soil."—[Letter from Gen. Taylor to the Hon. Truman Smith member of Congress and U. S. Senator elect from Connecticut, dated 4th March, 1848.]

23. The following are the concluding remarks of a published letter from the Hon. Truman Smith, dated Washington, June 20, 1848:

"I declare my utmost confidence in Gen. Taylor. I feel that I have a thorough insight into his principles and his character. As he is an honest man, I confide in him; as he is a moderate man, I respect him; as he is a humane man, I admire him; as he is a man of unsurpassed bravery I honor him; as he is distinguished for good sense and sound discretion, I think he will make a safe President; as a high sense of justice has ever characterized his conduct, I am willing to trust him with all the rights and interests of all parts of the country, and particularly those of the free States; as he has ever been remarkable for firmness and decision of character, "asks no favors and fears no responsibility," I believe he will, with a steady hand, guide the country safely through all the perils which may environ it; as he possesses the utmost purity and excellence of character, I shall take pleasure in seeing him at the head of public affairs; as he is truly republican in his habits and manners being one of the people, and sympathising thoroughly with the masses, I think there is a fitness in making him the chief magistrate of those same masses of whom the humblest can exclaim with truth, "he is one of us." And as he is a good, sound, conservative and reliable Whig, abominating War and condemning meanness, fraud, chicanery and trickery, who will put far from him all evil doers, political or otherwise, I am for him from the beginning to the end of the chapter.—I consecrate my hand and my heart to the good old cause as represented by Zachary Taylor, and will do all within the range of my feeble abilities to make him the next President of the United States.

TRUMAN SMITH."

BALTIMORE ADVERTISEMENTS.

BALTIMORE

Piano Forte Manufactory.

VERY IMPORTANT INVENTION.

IT has long been a question among teachers and amateurs of music, as to the most suitable touch for a Piano Forte. Some at this time contend for a light touch, while others, with equal ability advocate the heavy. This question is now permanently settled. WISE & BROTHER have invented a contrivance by which the same Instrument may be instantly set to any required touch, by the turning of a single screw, varying, if necessary, three hundred and sixty-five differences. The advantages of this are evident, both to teachers and amateurs, as lessons may be practiced on the heavy, and exhibited on the lighter touch, to suit exactly any physical capacity which is agreeable to fact and progressive lessons. The contrivance is simple, and may be applied to any common Piano. A patent is about to be taken for the improvement.

Description of this Ointment, and a brief statement of its properties and powers; It will cure any sore or disease, either external or internal that can be cured by any ointment or Liniment or other External Application. It is the most perfect remover of pain ever applied to the human body. It can always be depended on for the removal or allaying all external inflammation, its healing properties are completely perfect. It is a scientific scientific Compound, the basis of it emanating from one of the first chemists in America. It is made in the most careful manner great pains being taken in the select on of ingredients and the utmost caution in compounding it.
