THE KENT NEWS

CHESTER TOWN, MD.

Saturday, November 18, 1848

Thanksgiving.

Thursday next the 23d inst., is the day appointed by his Excellency Governor Thomas as a day of thanksgiving and prayer. We understand the stores will all be closed and business generally suspended. Chester Divsion No. 47 intend celebrating the day in a becoming manner, and we hope to see our country friends in attendance.

Contested Election.

We refer our readers to the first page of our paper for a detailed account of the proceedings in relation to the Sheriffs contested election.

Dedication.

The Methodist Protestant Church at Ruthsburg, in Queen Ann's county will be dedicated on to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock; a sermon will be preached by the Rev. Dr. J S. Reese. The public are respectfully invited.

THE RESULT.

The following is the result of the late Presidential election. Taylor's gains are enormous in Virginia, Mississippi and Alabama, and they are yet doubtful; but giving Cass all the doubtful States, Old Zack has forty seven majority in the Electoral College:

	Taylor.	Cass.

The Senate will continue Locofoco for at least 1 years longer.

MASSACHUSETTS.

The election on Monday last, resulted in the choice of Briggs, the Whig Candidate for Governor, by the people. In 165 towns he a gain of 7,000 over Taylor's vote. In Boston the vote for Cushing is 1186 instead of 186. The democrats appear to have stair awap from the polls generally, as in Boston, Springfield and Worcester, where Briggs has a gain of 1,460. the vote for Cushing is 2,369 less than the vote of Cass, and the free soil candidate only 374 more than Van Buren. The vote has also slightly fallen off. The Congressional election has resulted as follows:

1st Dist. R. C. Winthrop, W. re elected.
2d " Jas. H. Duncan, W., vice Abbott.
4th " No choice.
5th " No choice.
6th " George Ashmun, W., re-elected.
7th " Julius Rockwell, W., re-elected.
8th " Horace Mann, whig.
9th " Not heard from.
10th " Joseph Grinnell, whig.

In the 4th District, John G. Palfrey, (Free Soil) gains on Benj. Thompson, (Taylor.)

In the 5th District, Judge Alion runs a head of Chas. Hudson. His majority in Worcester city was over 513.

The election of Gen. Taylor.

The National Intelligencer of Saturday last thus speaks of the election of our noble old Chief:

We are without words fit for expressing our sensations on this glorious event. As members of the great political party to which it is our pride to belong, we are naturally and deeply gratified at the triumph of its principles; but, if we know ourselves, any exultation on this head is subordinate to a feeling of devout thankfulness to the Almighty Ruler of Nations for his having guided the minds and hearts of the American People to a result which, we believe, is the salvation of the country. We shudder when we think of the abyss to the brink of which another four years of mistule might have brought it!

The fourth of March, 1849, will revive the heroic age of the Republic. At the head of the Government will be a man with a character whose dimensions are suited to the office; and which, in its simple greatness, is a fit type of the magesty of the American People. Formed amid the hardiest scenes of a camp life, and resplendent with military glory, it is graced by moral and intellectual qualities fitting its possessor for the high civic station to which the voice of his country has called him.—History exhibits to us two classes of military men. One class is military, and nothing else, and unfit for any but a military theatre of exertion; and in this are to be found some of the most distinguished conquerers—men at whose names "the world grew pale." The other and higher class is that of men who in their military conduct, display like Washington, eminent civic endowments. To this latter class belongs Zachary Taylor. In the intervals of a long and eventful professional service, his active mind has been enriched by study and disciplined by thought. Sagacious, well-informed, inflexibly honest, self-relying yet modest, moderate but firm, straightforward, magnanimous, kind-hearted, republican in his principles and republican in his habits, he is the man for the place and the man for the times. His character and political creed assure his country that he will administer the Constitution in the spirit of its founders, and in furtherance of its declared objects. Unfettered by any sectional pledges, he will be the President of the nation; looking to the good and to the rights of all its members; ever mindful of the temper of compromise in which the Federal Constitution was, and in which only it could have been framed; and thus making the Executive policy the agent of "a more perfect UNION" of the States and of the People. His proverbial integrity guaranties the "justice" of his political conduct; the "domestic tranquillity" of the country will be guarded by the illustrious warrior who is a devoted "Peace Man;" the deciple of Washington will so construe and act on the Constitution as to "promote the general welfare;" and a Chief Magistrate whose loyalty to the will of the People has been avowed and is beyond suspicion, will never stretch Executive power against public "liberty."

Yes, a bright day is coming. A clear headed and honest-hearted Chief Magistrate will refuse the aid of the Executive to that absurd system of construing the Constitution which is at one moment splitting hairs, and at another swallowing camels; which treats that sacred instrument as a thing incapable of mischief; as not permitting the improvement of territory already possessed, but allowing new territory to be acquired, on any plea, however unjust or extravagant, only to be consigned to the same neglect; as being insufficient to protect home industry against the pauper labor of Europe, but as being quite sufficient to enable the President to do what he pleases; as restructing the Legislature within the narrowest bounds, but leaving the Executive "a characterless libertine" to make war to found governments, &c., and, in short to exercise single powers which it denies to the three branches of the Government in the aggregate; and which subjects the Constitution itself to the dictation of Rump Conventions and partisan platforms. By their votes on Tuesday last the People have rebuked such irrational and anti-republican principles (if the word may be thus perverted) of construction. And in so doing, the People have set the seal of condemnation on the arbitrary exercise of the one-man power, which was the prominent feature of the fallen dynasty. Not less emphatically have they rebuked the congenial abuse of the interference of Federal officeholders in elections. The unprecedented extent of this abuse, with its concomitant circumstances, at the late Presidential election, disgusted the country, and so far had its share in producing the ever memorable result. In that result the People have vindicated the confidence of their real friends in their virtue and intelligence. They have shown that their virtue can resist the seductive but fatal visions of conquest, territorial aggrandizement, "manifest destiny," "Anglo-Saxon supremacy," &c. with which they have been tempted, that their intelligence can distinguish between names and things, and that amid the loudest clamors for "democracy," they can detect the spirit of the one-man power.

Of the candidate of the defeated party we have not hitherto spoken, nor shall we now speak, in terms of disrespect to him personally. He is a gentleman of higher grade; as to capacity and attainments, than any former Locofoco candidate for the Presidency; in private life respectable and amiable; but, in his public character, objectionable not only on the ground of the principles which he avows, but also on the further ground that, in the avowal, he surrenders conviction to expediency. The greater, however, his personal merit, the more glorious is the victory over him which the Republicans have achieved.

THE ELECTION.—A letter to the National Intelligencer, from Baltimore, very justly says:

The victory just achieved in the election of General Taylor is a glorious one. It has inspired new confidence throughout the multifarious ramifications of society.—The faces of business men wear a cheerful aspect. All society appears renovated, and the bright star of hope shines out beautifully in the distance.

It is really melancholy to behold the faces of the numerous office holders in Baltimore. They committed themselves by aiding in dealing out scandal and falshood against General Taylor. From the lowest to the highest of them they reiterated the numerous falsehoods fabricated against the brave old patriot by tee Union and other Administration papers. Under these circumstances they feel condemned. Their own acts have forfeited all claim to his favor beyond what is due them as American citizens.

SINGULAR COINCIDENCE.—The following appeared in the New Orleans Bulletin before the electon.

Cass and the Omens. Number each letter of the alphabet in its regular order, A. No. 1, B. No. 2, C. No. 3, ect., and then apply the respective numbers which attach to each letter to those which spell the name of "Zachary Taylor," and they will sum up 173, and in like manner the letters "will be President," will also sum up 173 The above statement appeared in the Bee of Thursday and we now add that on the same plan the letters which spell "Lewis Cass," make 110, and those which form the words "will be beaten," likewise make 110. The coincidence is curious, and the friends of Gen. Cass will thus see that even the alphabet has decided against him.

GENERAL TAYLOR'S HAT.

The New Orleans Delta gives the following account of an amorphous "tile" under which General Taylor shades his knowledge box:—

The distinguished candidate of the Whigs takes matters quite easily, at his pleasant residence in the barracks of Baton Rogue.—We saw him walking about town, chatting very familiarly with, the citizens, and wearing that same old immense boat-shaped hat sent him by some friends in Tennessee. By the way we are puzzled what motive could have prompted the Tennesseeans to bestow such a gift upon the old general, who certainly, however people may differ upon his political qualifications, has deserved better treatment than to be condemned to wear this misshappen, heavy, uncomfortable and ungraceful chapeau, Had this hat been sent to Gen. Taylor after the battles of the 8th and 9th of May he would never have had reason to complain of the absence of his pontoon train—for he might have converted this wonderful production of Tennessee skill into a boat of sufficient dimensions to transport a whole regiment at once across the Rio Grande. We are amused at the dry response of a citizen of Baton Rogue, of whom we made enquiry where the general was to be found. You see that big white thing looming out down there on the levee?" "Yes" "Well, that's old Zachariah's hat and you'll find the old chap somewhar in the neighborhood."

PENNSYLVANIA.—The aggregate vote of the State it is believed will reach 375,000, or 39,000 more than was polled in October last. The free soil vote, as far as ascertained, amounts to 7,362.

DELAWARE.—Hon. John W. Houston, whig, is re-elected to Congress from this State. His majority in Willmington is 98, and in New Castle county 275. The whigs have the legislature.

QUESTIONS FOR THE LONGEST DAY.—If 20 grains make a scruple, how many will make a doubt? If 7 days make one week, how many will make one strong?—If 5½ yards make a pole, how many will make a Turk? If 3 miles make a league, how many will make a confederacy?

The most Rev. Archbishop Eccleston has issued his receipts to the Most Rev. and Rt. Rev. Prelates of the U. States for the convocation in Baltimore of the first National council of the catholic church.—The council takes the placd of the former triennial convocation.

DEATH OF A PATRIOT.

We learn from the Cincinnatti papers that Gen. James Taylor died at his residence in Newport, Kentucky, on Tuesday, the 7th instant.

He was born in 1769, in Canoline county (Va.) and emigrated to Kentucky in 1792.—He was Quortermaster General of the Northwestern Army during the last war with England, in which office he served with distinstion.

He preserved his faculties to the last hour. It was a most grateful reflection to him that his life was spared till the day o the Presidential election; and by the obliging dispositions of the Judges of the election, who went went to his chamber to receive his vote, he had the satisfaction of casting it for his freind and relative, Gen. Zachary Taylor, for President of the United States. His remark on giving his vote was characteristic of the old soldier: "I have given the last shot for my country." He then gradually sunk into the arms of death.

Gen. James Taylor was the oldest inhabitant of Campbell county, and was in the 80th year of his age. For a year past his health has been declining, and for two months he has been confined to his room.

In politics Gen. Taylor was an ardent friend of Mr. Clay and the Whig party, and once or twice served as Presidental Elector in Kentucky. He was the largest landholder in the West—an estate which was commenced by the active and energetic performance of his daty as land surveyor—increased by his sagacity, industry, and perseverance, as a man of business, and has recently been much enlarged by the rapid growth and prosperity of Cincinnatti and the region of country around it.

The Cincinnatti Atlas remarks that "few men have been more widely known in the West, been more actively or adventurously engaged in its early scenes, and none have been more eminently successful in his pursults. He was a remarkable companion, and having a retentive memory, he was a living record of the earliest and most intesting scenes of pioneer history. We have known him from our boyhood, and ever found him a man of high personal honer, of hospitable feelings, of liberal sentiments, a kind friend and a patriotic citizen. He sleeps now with that race of bold and successful pioneers, whose living names are nearly erased, but whose memory must long make the traditional memory of this land and its early history.

FIRE.—A fire broke out in this place on Saturday night last, about 12 o'clock, in the back kitchen attached to the dwelling occupied by Mr. Wm. H. Shepard, adjoining the store-house and dwelling occupied by Mr. Charles Robinson. The kitchen was burned bown, but owing to the energetic and untiring efforts of our citizens, in co-operation with the effective service rendered by the Citizens' Fire Company, the dwellings of Messrs. Shepard & Robinson were fortunately saved from destruction, for both were on fire several times during the burning of the frame kitchen. The danger was so imminent at one time, that the bedding and many other articles were removed in hot haste from Mr. S's, and the entire family were compelled to seek more secure and pleasant quarters for the night. The rear of the dwelling suffered somewhat from fire and the operations of the axe, and the furniture of Mr. S. was doubtless much injured by its hurried removal and other causes. His loss, we presume, will not fall short of 150 or $200 —Easton Star.

INFLUENCE OF GEN. TAYLORS CHARACTER.—Mr. Gilmer, of Ga., in declaring his purpose to vote for Gen. Taylor, to whom his party is politically opposed, gives certain reasons which have great force in the minds of moderate and patriotic men throughout the country. Alluding to his vote for Mr. Polk as the nominee of his party at the last Presidential election, Mr. Gilmer proceeds to say: "My next vote will be for Taylor, because I believe him to be the firmest man in the world, the most honest man in the world, and fvrther removed above and beyond party and political influence than any man in the world. I would point out his public and private character, known to the people of this country, for my views of political worth.—I would point out his Allison letter as my political creed."

INAUGURATION OF COL: STANSBURY.—Col. Elijah Stansbury, the Mayor elect was inaugurated at 12 o'clock, on Monday, in the Second Branch Council Chamber, at the City Hall. The oath of office was administered by Col. Jacob G. Davies, the retiring incumbent, after a few remarks congratulating his successor, to which Col S. responded, declaring it his intention to enforce existing ordinances, and to make his appointments with strict impartiality, always selecting the most competent applycant. A large number of city officers and other citizens were present on the occasion. Col. Davies retires with the best wishes of all parties for his future happiness and success in life.—Clipper.

THE SUNDAY LICENSE CASES.—In the City Court, yesterday morning, the indictments against the parties for selling liquor on the Sabbath, in violation of the late law of the Legislature, were called up. The question of the constitutionality of the law, under which the indictments were found, was submitted to the Court, by agreement of counsel, without argument, when the Court gave their decision sustaining the law. A general demurer was then entered by the defendants, and the cases were taken to the Court of Appeals. Mr. Attorney General Richardson appeared for the State, and Messrs. Johnson and Nelson for the defendants.

WRECK OF A SCHOONER.—LOSS OF NINE LIVES. The Lingston (Canada) Whig, of the 4th inst., states that the schooner Ellen, belonging to E. Brown & Co., which left Kingston in ballast the week previous, was driven into Wellington on Wednesday last, dismasted, and all hands missing. The unfortunate vessel had been landing fish on the beach of Prince Edward, and in attempting to claw off shore she was lost, with all on board, nine in number.

FATAL ELECTION RIOTS IN PENNSYLVANIA.—We learn from the Pottsville Journal that a Mornan while engaged last Tuesday, in carrying voters to the polls with his team, was set upon at Mount Carbon by a number of men at work upon the Reading Railroad. A general fight ensued, Dornan's friends assisting him. The result was, a Mr. Johnson engineer of the road, received a blow upon the head with a club from one of his own party by mistake, and died the next day. An Irishman also, who had his head cut, lies insensible, his recovery being very doubtful.

At Middlefort, also we learn from the same paper, the deputy sheriff and a police officer were severely beaten by a mob which they attempted to quell at the polls. The ring leaders were arrested.

KEEP WITHIN THE CENSUS.—The Locofocos of Pennsylvania have neglected this important caution in their recent fraud in the Fourth Congressional district, where they have reported in one township a vote greater than the entire male population!—By this management they give the majority to their candidate, but the election will be contested.—Baltimore Patriot.

LARGE CIRCUS DIVIDEND.—Sands, Lent & Co.'s Circus, now open at the corner of 5th street and the Bowery, N. York., has, during the past season, not only paid the expense of their very costly outfit in the spring, and all their expenses, but the company have divided $40 000 profits.

THE RULING PASSION.—We take the following from the New Orleans Delta:

We are informed that during the dying moments of Governor McNutt, a person entered the room with a newspaper in his hand. It was about the time the election returns were coming in from Pennsylvania. The eye of the dying politician assumed a momentary brightness, as his feeble voice faintly articulated the inquiry, "What's the latest news from Pennsylvania?" Before the answer could be given, the querist was a corpse, and the spirit of the true Democrat had left the scenes of mortal contest.

LARGE ROBBERY AT CHICAGO.—Some theives broke into the broker's office of Jones and Patrick, while they were at dinner, and stole $2 100. Six hundred dollars were in a draft on New York, the payment of which has been stopped.

GRAND SALUTE.—The whigs of Boston were to fire one thousand guns yssterday in honor of the election of Gen. Taylor and Millard Fillmore. The salute was to be fired from three different points of the city.

SONS OF RUFUS KING.—John A. King, who is elected to Congress, in New York, by 1500 majority, and James G. King, who is elected in New Jersey, by 3000, are both sons of the late Hon. Rufus King.

MASSACAUSETTS.—The legislature of this State will be convened on Wednesday or Thursday of next week to choose Electors of President.

Why is a solor eclipse like a woman beating her boy? Because it is a hiding of the son.

From the Clipper of Thursday.
