relative has exchanged the sorrow of Earth for the joys of Heaven, and is now mingling her song with the strains of those happy spirits that make glad the city of God. The tempest is past, the haven is gained, and she has received a crown of never fading glory which the faithful only are permitted to wear. It is not necessary to enumerate the many virtues and amiable qualities of the subject of this imperfect sketch, we only say, that to be a christian was the constant endeavour of her life, kind and affectionate to those around her; she was ever ready to give comfort to the afflicted, ever willing to assuage the pangs of suffering, and relieve the distresses of her fellow beings. The couch of suffering was her post, and after her duty to God, to benefit his creatures was next considered In her last moments she manifested that patient endurance of suffering, which the christian only can show, and although her illness was both long and painful, yet never once did she murmur "or wish her sufferings less," she talked of death with perfect composure and viewed him not as a terror, but rather as a messenger whose tidings were peace. A few moments before her soul was released from Earth, she requested one present to sing a few beautiful and appropiate lines, and ere the last echo of the sacred strain had died away her happy spirit had landed upon the bright shores of immortality. No thought of Earth could keep it from the skies, Never can we forget the last look of a holy love that lingered in her gaze ere it kindled with a holier love than mortal eye can ever show. And may all those who witnessed that death bed scene remember and cherish, the dying request of their beloved relative, may they meet her in Heaven, where the parting sigh is never felt, nor the mournful word farewell is ever spoken and where the several ties of Earth will be bound again, nor the cruel hand of death no more part those who love; hearts thus riven assunder, shall be again reunited in that glorious world where change and death can never reach, & where eternal youth and immortal bloom will adorn each one of that triumphant band. The friends that meet there will meet forever.

In that bright world all changes cease
And tears are all unknown,
There every heart is turned to peace,
And bliss is every tone,
The immortal spirits swell,
With the inspiring theme,
And its high hopes of being tells,
That world is not a dream.

☞Among the many blessings attendant on improvements in the social condition, and the advances of our race in intelligence, is the prolongation of human life. With the increase of intelligence has grown a knowledge for the elements of health a regard for them and commensurate with the strides of science have we acquired the means of arresting disease, and curing its ravages, Notwithstanding the progress we have made, statistics show even now, one sixth of the whole population die annually of consumption. Among the most important discoveries of the age, in ameliorating the condition of a large class of suffering humanity, is

DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY.

Time establishes and consecrates, experience adopts and confirms, what men in all places unite in saying is good valuable, is so no doubt. A popularity this sort fixes in society its roots so hard so strong, that time cannot destroy it. The success which has attended this medicine for several years past, has overcome the prejudice of all respectable and the article has taken a stand as the first class of discoveries and blessings of the age; and when resorted to in time eradicates the disease for which it is recommended.

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

British, French, German & American

DRY GOODS.

THE present mode of doing business (we mean the CREDIT SYSTEM) is now carried to such an extent; that it is only attended with disaster and vexation to the cash and prompt solvent buyer, by increasing the number of his competitors, but unless every precaution and the utmost prudence is observed, the wholesale dealer is involved in difficulty and two-thirds, at least, who embark in the credit business, are reduced by bad debts to absolute bankruptcy.

With this truth before us, we have determined to change our system of business, by selling only for cash, or on very short time for prompt payment, and beg leave to call the attention of purchasers to the advantages we can offer as enducements to examine our stock.

Possessing every facility for purchasing at the lowest cash prices, and all times ready to avail ourselves of a fall in the market; watching every Auction sale in this, and not unfrequently in the neighboring cities; we feel confident of our ability to sell, at least a portion of our stock lower than the same articles can be bought elsewhere, and the whole at the smallest possible advance.

Our stock will embrace every article usually found in a Wholesale Dry Good establishment, and we respectfully invite your attention when in our city, knowing that, the many inducements we can offer we cannot fail to convince the doubting and incredulous, that the small advance charged upon the cost will not include losses by bad debts and lawyer's fees, or expenses of a travelling collector; and, to every cash buyer, who will spare the time to give our stock a careful examination, we pledge ourselves to sell him a satisfactory bill or compel other houses to sell him cheaper than they have ever done before. To conclude, we promise it shall be our constant aim, in our intercourse with the retail dealer, not only to make it his interest to purchase of us, but by pursuing a course of strict integrity, to merit his confidence, custom and influence.
