Gentlemen- I am thankful for being spared to witness the close of an other term. We have had an unusually dry season, so that the School has been in steady operation nearly the whole time, to the advantage of the scholars. I think the time has been profitably used. The children have enjoyed very good health, and not one has been severed from our midst by death; for which I am thankful. I am pleased to report that our school is amply supplied with scholars. I have more applications than I dum prudent. The roll of the School numbers at present, one hundred and
