Court and the Cattle Show.

Cecil Court will meet on Wednesday next—that will take the Lawyers off.—The Cattle Show and Fair for the State will commence at Baltimore on Wednesday next, and continue until Friday—the 23d, 24th, and 25th inst.—that will take a good many of our farmers off. We understand that the Cattle Show is to be a very extensive one and a great variety of stock, farming implements, &c., will be exhibited. The address is to be delivered by Willougby Newton, Esq., of Virginia and the attendance will probably be large.

☞Officer Ridgeley, of Baltimore, arrived here on Monday last, having in charge Caldwell and Vansant, the individuals who are charged with committing an assault and battery with intent to kill a man named Watts, near the Head of Sassafras, on the 23d ult. They were committal to jail. Watts is not dead; as we stated last week, his physicians think he will recover.

Murder.—We regret to learn that Mr. Edmund Mitchell, a worthy and most estimable young man, of Baltimore, while passing into a tavern in Old Town with some of his friends, on the night of the Mayor's election, was deliberately shot. The ball entered his leg above the knee, and so shattered it that amputation was rendered necessary. The operation was performed and he lingered about twelve hours when he expired. Several persons have been on suspicion, and committed to jail. We hope that the perpetrators of this foul deed will be apprehended and receive the punishment they so richly merit.

Pub. Doc.—Hon. J. A. Pearce will accept our thanks for valuable public documents

HOW THE NEW TARIFF OPERATES.

The failure of Congress, at its last session, to make any change in the tariff so as to give proper security to the manufacturing interests, is producing everywhere the most melancholy results. We have heretofore noticed the stoppage of several of the largest factories in the East, from utter inability to sustain themselves under the present system, by which they are exposed to the most disadvantageous competition with the foreign manufactories.—The Howard District Gazette, of Saturday, gives the following account of what is the result of the system in our own State:

Hands Discharged.—We learn that the largest of the factories of the Union Works will cease to run after to-day, and the other two run half-time, as they all have been running for some time past.—By this arrangement over 200 hands are discharged at a blow; and very recently 100 were discharged from Patapsco Factory, which is running but half the machinery about three-quarters time: The Thistle is stopped, the proprietors having taken this opportunity to repair their dam, and the Laurel is similarly situated. The Laurel is not expected to run before January if then; and the Savage, we are informed, is running slow speed, three quarter time, at something like 25 per cent. reduction of wages. Sykesville factory, too, is running but a portion of each week, and the Granite Factory, of this place, has been standing several weeks. Thus, in this immediate neighborhood, some 600 persons have been thrown out of employment within a few weeks. This is a serious state of things; and while ours are silent, and our people are going about the streets unemployed, the workshops and factories of England and France are running at increased speed, and the journals exulting at the unexampled prosperity around them. We shall refer again to the condition of our manufacturing interest, and give some statistical information to show the utter impossibility of manufacturers of cotton goods continuing their business, unless they can be relieved in some form or other.

Taylor and Col. W. S. Bliss will take possession of the corpse. They will then proceed over the Susquehanna Road to Harrisburg, and so over the Central Railroad to Pittsburgh, where they will take the steamer to Louisville

OPENING OF THE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO CANAL.

This great work, commenced nearly a quarter of a century ago, is at length so far completed as to be in a navigable condition from Cumberland to tidewater. The opening was celebrated at Cumberland on Thursday last. The Alleganian says:

On Wednesday evening the president and directors of the canal company, the State's agents; and a number of guests from several counties of Maryland, Virginia, and the District cities, accompanied by the Independent Blues' Band of Baltimore, arrived in our city, via the railroad, to participate in the opening ceremonies.

On Thursday morning, at 8 o'clock, Col. Davidson's company of Light Artilerists, from the Echart mines, arrived; and about one hour after, a procession—made up of the military, the canal board and guests, the cooperate authorities and citizens—was formed in Baltimore street, under the direction of Col. Pickell, of Baltimore, and marched to the head of the canal. On arriving at this point, and after the firing of a salute by the Artillerists, Wm. Price, Esq., on behalf of the cooperate authorities and citizens, in a neat speech, welcomed the canal board and their guests, and congratulated them upon the occurence of the event so long looked for—the opening of the canal to Cumberland. Gen. James M. Coale, president of the canal company, responded in appropriate terms, and embraced the occasion to briefly review the history of the progress of the work.

About 11 o'clock the several boats fitted up for the occasion, pretty well crowded, proceeded down the canal in the following order:

Ways' excursion boat, Jenny Lind, having on board the canal board and their guests from abroad; the Charles B. Fisk, with the Baltimore band and a large number of citizens; Mr. Clarke's boat, with the Eckhart Artillerists and the Mechanics' Band of Cumberland.

These were followed by Southampton Delaware and Ohio, of Messrs. M. Kaig & Agnew's Merchant Line, and the Freeman Rawdon, of the Cumberland Line, all bound for Alexandria, laden with coal, and Mr. Mong's Elizabeth, with coal for Harper's Ferry.

The canal board and their guests landed about nine miles below Cumberland, where they partook of an abundant collation, prepared for the occasion, on board the Charles B. Fisk. The company returned to Cumberland in the evening delighted with the excursion.

The proceedings of the day closed with a supper and ball, in the evening, given by citizens, at Heflefinger's hotel.

THE REFORM CONVENTION.

Will the members of the Reform Convention wich is shortly to assemble at Annapolis, have the nerve to form such a constitution as the interests of the people demand? Will they so frame that instrument as a guard the ballot box from imposition, and secure to legal voters the true the enjoyment of their rights? We trust so—for, if present practices are permitted to continue, the Convention will have been called to little purpose. But how are the evils complained of to be prevailed? By immitating the State of Pennsylvania—make every man who votes contribute to the support of government, and have the names of all voters registered and published before every election—so that spurious votes cannot be got into the ballot box. In addition to this disfranchise all persons convicted of infamous crimes together with lunatics and paupers from alms-houses.

As cooping persons, to compel them to vote in a particular way, or to prevent their voting at all, is now a very prevalent practice with parties, the most stringent measures should be adopted to prevent such impositions, by inflicting severe punishment on those who may hereafter to be guilty of them.

We presume that the election of public officers will be transferred from the Governor to the people. This will remove one great cause of excitement at the election of our Chief Magistrates. Let the local officers of the Baltimore be appointed in the same way, and another cause of excitement will also be removed.

Make these changes—simplify proceedings at law so as to reduce expenses—and so alter the judiciary system as to expedite the administration of justice—and the people of Maryland will have cause to rejoice at a Reform Convention having been held in the State.—Clipper.

How the Whigs were beat in Pennsylvania.—It is, as we supposed, the staying home of voters, has given to the Locofocoe in Pennsylvania, a victory in that State. In Adams county alone—which in times past was noted as the faithful Whig county of Pennsylvania—the vote is 839 less than was taken at the Presidential election in 1836, of which 613 were whigs! How can Whigs hope to carry elections, if they thus neglect to vote; and how can they excuse themselves to themselves, for this neglect of a duty which is all but sacred? Think of these things, you whigs who stay at home on the day of election, and take them to your breasts as a matter of conscience. Then you will do your duty in the elections to come, and the Whig banner will wave in triumph in a large majority of the States of the Union. There is no doubt of this. But to put it to the test, let every Whig in every State, resolve that hereafter nothing shall prevent him from voting, and of voting for the whig candidates. If this be done, we shall not have to lament over Locofoco successes.

Mail Robbery.—The Mail was robbed on Saturday night last, between Philadelphia and Grays Ferry of a large quantity of money, supposed to be from twenty to one hundred thousand dollars. The robbers were Englishmen and have been arrested.

The Administration.—We have never known an administration which possessed more entirely the confidence of the people than the present. The President himself is universally respected as a gentleman well qualified, in every respect, for the distinguished position which he occupies, and he has chosen for his constitutional advisers, able, experienced and attentive statesmen. Whilst such men presides at the helm, there can be no fear that the ship of state will be wrecked or damaged.

Virgina Reform Convention.—This body assembled at Richmond on Monday, and organized by electing the Hon. John Y. Mason, President, and Stephen Decatur Whittle, Of Mecklenburg, clerk. The latter was chosen on the fourth ballot, over Rufus A. French.

Poisoning.—John Hahn, keeper of a grocery store in New York, has been arrested on the charge of poisoning his wife, son, sister-in-law, and servant, by putting arsenic in their tea. His object was to get full possession of his wife's property.—None of them have died.

City Mortality.—The whole number of deaths in New York, last week 289. 76 of the deceased were men, 48 women, 102 boys, and 63 girls. 37 died of consumption, 27 from convulsions, 25 from dysentery, 19 of marasmus, and 13 of diarrhoea.

Obituary.

Departed this life in Chestertown, on the 13th July last, Mary Dillehunt.

During the first moments of convulsive grief for the death of those we love, and when the portals of the tomb have been recently closed upon their remains, it is difficult to arrange our tumultuous emotions into any order that we may pay some tribute to the memory of their departed worth. Death has again invaded a large circle of attached friends and snatched from among them one of its most loved forms. The remarkable sweetness of her disposition, her mildness of character, her ardent and sincere feelings, her virtuous and pious life are remembered by all who knew her, and cannot but afford cheering solace for their late bereavement. "Truly there is a voice from the tomb sweeter than song—there is a remembrance of the dead to which we turn even from the charms of the living." Afflicted with a protracted, but an insiduous disease, amid all the alternation of anticipated recovery and death, she displayed an equanimity of temper, a calm indurance of suffering, a perfect resignation unto death, that was remarked by all who attended the closing scenes of her life. She remembered that Jesus did not shrink from the gloomiest part of the dark valley of the shadow of death on which she was soon to enter. Undismayed she could say with others, though I pass through this valley, I will fear no evil; thou art with me, thy rod, and thy staff, they comfort me. Into thy hands I commit my spirit. These things must be consoling to her mourning friends, and should afford great consolation. The grass withers, the flowers fade; winter will soon wrap them in his snowey shroud, and the blasts of the tempest will soon sing their funeral dirge. But even beneath the ground the grass and the flowers passes an invisible vitality When spring returns they will arise again with augmented beauty and renewed burruriance. This is emblematic of the resurrection of the body. Our Christian friend, like a beautiful flower, though dead to us on earth has been planted in the house of the Lord, and is now flourishing in the courts of her God. There will be no fading, no drooping, no dying; the soul will bloom in heavenly splendor, increasing glory and everlasting felicity,

When grass and flowers shall cease
On earth to yield perfume,
May God transplant us to that place,
Where we shall always bloom.
