MONEY TO LOAN ON REAL ESTATE SECURITY.
JOHN D. URIE,

Mrs. Sweet — "Is it a darling baby — and does it love its bath and its soft, woolly little shirties and socks?"
Anty Drudge—"Yes, it's a darling baby, with a sensible little mother. I can see by the looks of those little woolens that you use Fels - Naptha Soap."

Baby's soft, woolly little socks and shirts can be kept soft and woolly if you wash them with Fels-Naptha Soap.

Hot water and ordinary soap have spoiled lots of pretty clothes. Fels-Naptha Soap doesn't, because it's different. It's different because it's better. It's better because it does its own work and yours too, and does it in cool or lukewarm water, with no hard rubbing.

Easy directions on the red and green wrapper.

POULTRY NOTES.

Written for the KENT NEWS by a Kent County Poultryman.

In answer to the question, "Does it pay the farmer to keep hens?" Judge W. H. Card says, "I make the positive statemet that it does pay the farmer to keep hens. The farmer who is a good business man knows that it pays. The farmer who is a poor business man knows as much about hens as he does about any other branch of his farm and that is mostly that he is obliged to work for at least 18 hours a day living from hand to mouth for just an existence." The good business man on a general farm keeps cows that bring the best commercial results ; they are cared for to that end. He even keeps swine of the best breeds and cares for them in a manner to get the best profit from them. His grain lots are taken care of by the latest methods and the crops housed with the greatest care, that market returns may be the highest ; but his hens ——well, a long dash and then some.

It is possible as often happens that some hens-don't-pay farmer will read this or a similar article and make a spasmodic spurt in the right direction, he will build a hen house and try to get this essential branch of general farming into some sort of working operation and things will go well for a while ; then the coops will not get cleaned, the dropping boards allowed to accumulate filth for weeks on end ; then comes roup, chick pox and kindred ills ; red mites thrive exceedingly and the hens do not in a corresponding degree, etc., etc., and in addition the hens-don't pay believes in waiting for high prices and holds his eggs ; then when he does dispose of them—of course as strictly fresh—it is to find that there are no return orders.

I have often seen hens on a farm enclosed in a small fenced yard. Why ? Because they scratch the garden. The same amount of fencing would enclose the garden and the garden does not need free range but the hen certainly does.

It is more than likely that the hens-don't-pay has never had pure breed poultry and will tell you, "Well, mixed chickens lay the best anyway." He will occasionally buy a new rooster and select it because it is "a fine big fellow" or because "it is such a pretty color." Or if he makes one of those spasmodic spurts will buy three or four cockerels of the same breed and turn them loose with a batch of hens of all colors and sizes and expect his chicks to be uniform both as to size and color—and of course they ought to be like the father, poor biddy has nothing to say—perhaps he will stick to the same breed of cock bird for two or three years—of course with an occasional lapse because "he was such a big fellow" and then because they are not all Rocks or Reds as the case may be, will revert to the old dunghill.

There is only one way to get uniform poultry and that is start with one breed and stick to it. There is nothing to buying good cockerels and breeding to dunghills, you will always have dunghills, they may be more or less the same color but they will not conform to shape.

Buy the right eggs and keep the chicks from them separate until you have got rid of all your mongrels and don't let anything prevent you from getting rid of ALL the mongrels and buying the very best eggs or stock you can get. There is a very wide range of selection but the utility breeds are best for the farmer and of these the Orpington is the first. It is a large bird with flesh of unrivaled quality and probably the best winter layer in existence. Then you have the R. I. R. and the Rock. The Red is possibly the best all the year round layer (not excluding the Leghorn) but is not a large bird and its flesh is just chicken. The Rock is a medium sized bird weighing one pound less than the Orpington and one pound more than the Red ; is a good all round layer and its flesh is excellent. The Wyandotte is also an excellent breed and then there are the Mediterraneans for eggs, and the Asiatics for flesh. But one of three first mentioned should be the farmers choice and the best of these is the Orpington.

BASE HITS

The Chestertown High School boys are getting in the professional class with Brown and Robinson the battery and with strong support on the bases and in the field. Centreville High School was defeated by score of 5 to 2 in one championship game and in another Kennedyville's strong aggregation were defeated by score of 11 to 5 on the latter's grounds. John and Hill for Kennedyville ; F. Brown and Robinson for Chestertown were the batteries.

The Washington College baseball team continued its losing stretch last Saturday when it fell prey to the strong Mt. St. Mary's squad on the latter's field at Emmitsburg by the score of 8 to 3. This is the fifth defeat the local collegians have suffered in the last five games played.

The second team of the college added another scalp to their belt last Saturday when they defeated Centreville by score of 6 to 4. That the locals recorded a victory is due to the headwork of Capt. Wilkinson, who in the ninth inning with three men on the hassocks and three and three and two on the batter, drew Howard and places Woodland in the box. He was equal to the occasion and retired the third man by the strike-out route. By reason of his three hits and seven stolen bases Larrimore was easily the star of the game. Batteries—for W. C., Howard, Woodland and Harris ; for Centreville, Tucker and Holmes.

SUFFRAGISTS AND ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS

The fundamental principle of our Republic is this: In deciding what is to be done, where everybody's interests are concerned, we take everybody's opinions and then decide according to the wish of the majority as expressed through the casting of votes.

In getting at the wish of the majority certain persons, whose opinions evidently are not worth counting, are passed over.

In Maryland these persons are idiots, lunatics, criminals (not pardoned) and women.

Maryland Suffragists believe women's opinions are worth counting and want to be promoted from a class made up of the offscourings of the earth to the dignity of citizenship.

Anti-Suffragists are not only willing to be ranked politically with the cursed and degraded, but publicly plead and petition against promotion. They do not want their own opinions counted and they are endeavoring to prevent other women's opinions from being counted.
