A FITTING EDITORIAL

The following most excellent article is from the Salisbury Advertiser and is specially fitted to the conditions now prevailing in Kent county. The heading is "No Time for Bitterness," and the editorial says:

"No time for bitterness" this seems to mean that there might be a time when bitterness was proper, but nothing of the kind is meant. It simply means that the present time is a very inopportune time for democrats in this state and in this county to indulge in the time honored practice of getting bitter over "politics."

Though "bitterness" is ever unchristianlike, childish and poor policy, yet there are times when such a feeling will do less harm than at others.

This year the democrats have a much harder fight on their hands to elect a governor than some of the "roseate viewed" professional politicians seem to realize.

These gentlemen of the old school are betting on the old split between the factions of the Republican party being strong enough to make the election of a democrat a certainty. They were bred, in the good old days, when partisanship ran high and a man "once a democrat always a democrat." This day has passed—the balance of power in this state lies in the big independent vote—and not in any factionalism be it "Bull Moosee" or something else.

Whether or not the democrats win the gubernatorial fight this fall will depend upon two things—first the nomination of a man for governor in whom the people have confidence—second on the ability of the party to get together on the party nominee after the primaries.

The injecting of bitterness in the primary fight will leave so many sores that the short space of time between primary and election days, will not be sufficient to heal them up,

It behooves the supporters of all candidates to wage their fight on a fair and square basis; to avoid misstatement and unjust, unfair criticism; to condemn lightly and praise highly. Let each try to bring out into the open the qualifications of the one supported rather than the weakness s and frailities of the one opposed.

It is early in the campaign—very early—entirely too early for the intense feeling that frequently accompany our primary and election contests; but signs are not lacking of bitterness even now.

Records of men, honorable men, have been attacked in attempts to reflect upon their ability and honesty—and if truth must be said with the sole purpose of doing by unfair inference what the authors dare not attempt by direct methods.

The situation in the state at large is even less critical than that at home. Here we have a ticket to elect this fall, and yet some would make this almost impossible by taking a course sure to bring to themselves and their party disastrous results.

Let those responsible for the democratic party management in this county remember that it is a very easy thing to wreck the party which for years has administered the affairs of the county: let them not forget that their own personal ambitions are but little and trifling things compared with the success of the party which has so often honored and rewarded them.

Steps are hard to retrace when once taken: policies once established cannot be withdrawn in a moment: poison handed out to the voter will take effect on election day just as well as on primary day.

"Rule or Ruin" is a policy that the people of this county will accept from no individual. The day of "bosses" or dictators has forever passed. The man who attempts either will not succeed—but he may succeed in beating his party.

The future of the party in this county depends upon its policy: depends upon the man nominated: depends upon a primary fight waged in such a manner as will allow the defeated candidates to get behind the succeessful ones with not a part of their following—but with it all.

You can drive away, but can you bring back? Ask this question of yourself every time you are trying to instill the poison of prejudice into the mind of a voter?

Lies, misrepresentations, attack on ability, integrity and character, when unfair and unjust will react on both man and party.

The encouraging of men to run by promising support never intended to be given will leave sores that will not stop smarting until their ballots are marked against the party on election day.

The way some candidates have been fooled by those who are supposed to have considerable influence among the voters, in past years, is a disgrace to the manhood of those who lead them on, in order to use them and then throw them down.

No leader who practices these tactics can long succeed: he is unworthy of success or support.

THE Court of Appeals of Maryland on April 9th of the current year affirmed the right of the State Board of Forestry to protect, plant and supervise the care trees along the public highways of the State. This right had been contested by certain individuals and corporations, and an attempt made through the lower court to prove its unconstitutionality.

HON. EMERSON HARRINGTON, candidate for Governor of the State, visited Kent yesterday and was delighted with his reception. He states that his canvas is progressing finely.

A FINE APPOINTMENT

Supt. Alford, a government employe, has selected upon the advise and recommendation of Prof. Symons and others, Miss Ida C. Crew, of Lankford, to superintend the new work in Kent. She will form canning clubs among the girls and corn clubs among the boys and put into operation a much needed program of enlisting the practical sympathy of the farmers' boys and girls in these lines. The School Board pays part and the U. S. Government double. Miss Crew is well fitted for this work and we ask for her the co-operation of schools and parents. The NEWS has been urging this innovation for several years and we are delighted Prof. Smyth has pushed the matter to a successful issue.

MATTICE STOCK COMPANY

It was a surprisingly good company that came to the Temple for a week opening last night, The Mattice Stock Company, new to Ashland, but well established by the end of the week, you can depend upon it They played "Was She To Blame?", a strong play laid in the upper and lower crust of New York, to-day. Miss Hammond, the leading Woman, is an exceedingly clever actress with an attractive presence and a very good voice. The same can be said of Mr. Corbin, the Leading Man. There was not a "stick" in the company. If the play, last night, strong in dramatic situations and well developed climaxes, is a criterion of what we can expect for the balance of the week, then our people are going to be decidedly well entertained. The scenes are well mounted and the gowning of the ladies, as well as the scenic accessories, all carried by the company, are entirely adequate in every particular. It was the general opinion of the audience that it was one of the best repertoire company ever seen on the Temple stage—If not the best. Evening Telegram, Ashland, Pa. Feb. 9, 1915.

We know you like good, pure Ice-Cream, and you should do so

Pure Ice Cream! Has the thought ever entered your mind, while enjoying a plate of cream, under what conditions it was manufactured?

Did you ever investigate the plant in which the cream you have been in the habit of buying is made?

Do you appreciate the fact that there are different qualities of Ice Cream sold at exactly the same price that good, pure cream can be obtained for?

To produce absolutely pure, wholesome Ice Cream, the manufacturing plant and general conditions must be sanitary from the foundation. Cleanliness must be the watchword. Good material the substance. Careful and clean help in attendance.

Ice Cream is a Pure Food Product—a Wholesome Product—an Appetizing Product. If you know that is manufactured under absolute cleanly conditions.

Ice Cream manufactured by the Chestertown Candy Kitchen at their establishment on the corner of High and Cross Streets, is made under strict sanitary conditions, from the best products the markets afford, and cost you no more than the inferior grades sold elsewhere.

The Chestertown Candy Kitchen solicits your business for home use. They serve the family trade as well as dispense their Pure Ice Cream and Fancy Ices in boxes or packed, Soda Waters, Fancy Sundaes, etc., at their store at High and Cross Streets.
