SHERIFF BROWN IN CLOSE QUARTERS

A Negro Prisoner Caught With Pistol Ready to Shoot Kent's Brave Officer—Constable Dunn Shoots Negro.

Sheriff William E. Brown, of Kent county, was saved from probable death at the hands of a negro, Jim Raisin, by the prompt action and accurate marksmanship of Constable William Dunn, of Church Hill. He fired, putting three bullets into the negro, just in time to prevent the black man from discharging a revolver which he held at Sheriff Brown.

Raisin, who lives at McGinnes Corner, came to Chestertown Saturday and got into some trouble with Jim White A warrant was issued for him and Sheriff Brown went to Queen Anne's county Monday afternoon in search of him. He got Constable Dunn to accompany him to McGinnes Corner.

Learning that Raisin was in the home of a negro woman, Katherine Mills, Sheriff Brown entered, leaving Constable Dunn in the road. He demanded that Raisin, who was upstairs, "Come down."

Raisin came down on a run. Sheriff Brown immediately grappled with him, and attempted to floor his man. Constable Dunn secured a hold on the man's shirt, but he wrenched free. Sheriff Brown then secured a big hold on Rasin when the colored woman handed him a revolver which he immediately trained on Kent county's sheriff, who was holding him.

Constable Dunn then fired thrice at the negro over Sheriff Brown's shoulder, one bullet going clear through his jaws, another lodging in his head, the other in his breast.

The negro was then taken to Church Hill and later to Centreville where he is in a bad condition. When searched the negro carried an immense knife in his pocket.

Dr. H. F. McPherson, who attended him, said he had but a slender chance to live. Raisin came from Delaware several weeks ago and it is said he just completed a 10-year sentence for manslaughter.

The negro was reported as being better yesterday.

The colored woman who handed the pistol to Raisin was arrested and also taken to jail.
