SATURDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1916.

XMAS is but 16 days off.

It is not "reorganization" but party loyalty that is needed.

THE short term of Congress convened at Washington Monday with a mass of work before it. The high cost of living will receive much attention, and on the opening day not less than eleven bills were introduced bearing on that subject and designed to give relief to the consumer of food products. Embargo bills were among the number, but it is not thought that any of them will be passed. Surely not if the farmer is consulted or considered.

THE Interstate Commission in its annual report submitted to Congress strongly urges a change in the provisions of the Panama canal act, under which the Commission last year was compelled to dissolve the relationship between the Chesapeake bay and Potomac river steamboat lines and the railroads by which most of these water lines were owned.

In effect, the Commission states that it has carried out the provisions of the law in this respect, but does not believe it a good law in circumstances similar to those under which the order was issued affecting the Chesapeake bay lines. The effect of this order, it was stated, was decidedly adverse to the interests of the communities along the bay and its tributaries affected by the Commission's ruling.

MR. ALDEN ANDERSON, Field Secty of Maryland Association for Prevention & Relief of Tuberculosis was in Chestertown in the interest of the Red Cross Seal sales. The State Association offers to pay one-half the salary of a visiting nurse from May 1, 1917, for a period of one year, to the county committee that sells the greatest number of Red Cross Seals, per capita, during the 1916 season and one-half the salary of another nurse for a six-month period to the county committee that has the next greatest per capita sale of Seals. Ms. Anderson was much pleased with the work done in this county and said so far as he knew and had but one other county to hear from, Kent county, up to date, was the banner county on the Eastern Shore. Let's cerry on "Boost" and we will secure one of these nurses for Kent county.

THE FARMER AND AN EMBARGO

Prompt objection of the farmer to the proposal of an embargo on foodstuffs was to be anticipated, and it will make itself felt much more insistently before that method of reducing the cost of living gets by. And as the West delivered the vote which elected Mr. Wilson, it is not unreasonable to expect that it will have considerable weight at Washington.

The farmer, naturally, wants to know why he should be selected as a vicarious sacrifice. Leather is scarce and shoes high, why not an embargo on leather? All cotton goods have gone up, why not an embargo on cotton? Steel is soaring, why not an embargo on steel? Moreover, he will want to know if we are going to prohibit exports to Belgium, to all neutral countries. If not, how will we prevent these going to belligerents? Indeed the farmer will have so many pointed questions to ask that it is not likely the proposal of an embargo will get much further than talk.—Ex.
