Local Notes

THE Supt. of the Alms House could only get alfalfa hay for his horses by trading some of his 40 tons of coal, which the board had fortunately laid in early in the fall. The hay cost $25 per ton, while the coal was laid in at a cost of about $8.00.

WHOLESALERS are predicting an advance in the price of flour of at least fifty cents per barrel, owing to the scarcity of that product in the local markets. "Uncle Sam," said one dealer, "is out for a large lot of flour and is going to get it. Naturally that is going to reduce the supply on the market and we will have to pay more for it."

THE State Council of Defense of Maryland has purchased four tractors to be used in preparing land for wheat by plowing, harrowing and the like. Two of these tractors are employed in Kent county and one each in Cecil and Harford counties. Farmers are to apply for the use of them and they will make the rounds like a wheat threshing machine. The charges to the farmers will be based upon the actual cost of operation, and these charges will range from $2 50 to $3 the acre for plowing and fifty cents an acre for harrowing and disking. So far the scheme has worked out well. It should result in much saving of labor.

MEMBERS of local draft boards will divide a fee of 30 cents for each registrant family classified. This amount was announced Saturday in regulations prepared by Provost Marshall General Crowder and approved by President Wilson. It is intended that the amount be apportioned equally among the members, except in cases where it is agreed, by unanimous vote, to change to proportionate distribution so that some member will receive more than others. This provision is made to allow a more equitable compensation for those members who perform more work than the others. General Crowder said that there have been scores of appeals that compensation for this work be placed on a unit basis, although scores of members of boards have volunteered to continue their gratuitous services. The amount finally determined on has been indorsed by practically every state official in connection with the draft, he says.

IN the report of the Rock Hall Red Cross work last week it was stated that $14 was raised when it should have been $114.

THE "Navy League Free Wool Benefit" held at the home of Miss Ethel Bacchus, Chestertown, on Tuesday evening last, was a big success. Over one hundred persons were present and over $90 was realized. From a big box of candy $14 was gotten. All this money goes towards buying wool to knit sweaters, etc., for the sailor and soldier boys who are fighting our battles at the front and who we should help in every way possible. Do your bit.

THERE were 125 families who were supplied with coal out of the 3 cars brought to Chestertown last week by A. S. Turner, of Worton. J. D. Bacchus, from his 3 cars, supplied 300 families. J. W. Kibler, from his car, helped very much to relieve the distress. It is only by letting all have a little that the fuel situation can hope to be handled.

IF there was any doubt of the necessity for paying teachers increased salaries, recent conditions would certainly dissipate same. As high as 100 teachers in a single county have resigned within a few months, while authorities in Kent are finding it difficult to keep the schools supplied with teachers. A striking example is seen across the river at Union School. There, upon the resignation of Miss Estella Anthony, who is taking a business course, a farmer in the person of Daniel Potts was called on as a substitute.

ONE of Uncle Sam's new government railway engines made for Russia, arrived at Chestertown Monday morning, and will be used as a freight engine. The engine was made at the Baldwin Locomotive Works and it is of a different type than the engines used regularly on American roads.

THE State prize of a $50 Liberty Bond in the Boys' Pig Club contest, was won by C. Milton Willis, Sr., of near Longwood, He commenced keeping a record on his pig when the pig was 2 months old and continued this record for six months, during which time he made a net profit of $20.11. Prof. Burrell will be glad to give any information desired.

INSTEAD of sending a calendar, a New Year card or other souvenir to his customers as has always been his custom, William E. Valliant, president of the Sussex County Levy Court, this year sent to each of his customers a stamp thrift card accompanied by a letter calling their attention to the importance of earning and saving everything possible in government securities. In Mr. Valliant's letter the obligations and opportunities of the farmers were pointed out. Their part in the great war was illustrated and a direct appeal made to them to study the soil and plant the crops best adapted to it, thereby helping to win the war. Mr. Valliant is the son of Mr. E. S. Valliant, of Church Hill, and a brother of Mrs. W. W. Chapman.

INCOME TAX—DOES THIS APPLY TO YOU

Question.
Am I required to make out and return a personal Income Tax report for the year 1917?
Answer.
Yes. If you are unmarried and your net income for that year amounts to or exceeds $1,000 or if you are married and your income together with your wife (or husband) equals or exceeds $2,000 you should make out and file, on a form furnished by the Government, a report to Joshua Miles, Collector of Internal Revenue, Custom House, Baltimore, Md., on or before March 1, 1918, and thereby avoid incurring penalty. Blanks and information can be obtained from the Collector's office or from one of his Deputies now in Chestertown.
