SATURDAY, JUNE 8, 1918

The boys of 21 are enrolled in the cause of Humanity.

The outlook in Kent for wheat and grass is splendid.

Kent's officers are inforcing the work act to the limit.

The boys are going "over there" by the thousands. Six transports with 10,000 each left New York early Wednesday morning.

Good news comes from the fighting boys "over there." They are proving their fighting qualities in every instance.

All work on State roads should be discontinued until after harvest so that the labor may help save the crops.

It is un-American to show alarm at the least sign of war at our doors. Surprise is natural, but the emotion followed by calm confidence in the ability of our Navy to meet any emergency.

Kent citizens are rallying to the call of their country. Any one who fails to help in these times will be marked all future days. Each can do something if it is only to cheer others.

If even the humblest among us permits himself to grow pessimistic or discouraged because U-boats sink a few ships in American waters, he is helping Germany accomplish one of the purposes of the raid.

Stores and banks in Pocomoke have agreed to close every day at 5 o'clock and at least 40 employers and employes and professional men have agreed to give two hours a day to help harvest the crops in this vicinity. Next.

The Civil War pension increase bill was passed Tuesday by the Senate 36 to 22. It amends the House bill by increasing the minimum monthly pension to those who served 90 days from $25 to $30, and provides pensions of $32 to $40 a month according to length of service for those 72 years or older. The bill would increase the pension roll by $35,000,000 a year.

The German submarines have brought the war to this section. They sunk ten or more boats near Atlantic City Sunday night. This act has speeded up shipbuilding, stimulated recruiting and draft registration, increased the sale of thrift stamps and brightened the prospects for the next Liberty Loan!

The production of new vessels in May was the largest of any month in our history. Forty-four ships were completed and delivered to the Shipping Board in May, totaling 263,571 tons, three times the output of January and twice that of February. Every month this tonnage will grow larger, possibly doubling itself as we get fully into our stride. Production in the United Kingdom for January, February, March and April of this year totaled 659,420 tons. Adding up the totals of our joint efforts, we are putting the submarine well in our rear.

The German people themselves are beginning to realize that they are falling behind in the race, and the Socialists have been asking the Government some pointed questions on the subject. Possibly popular discontent may be reflected in the present submarine raid in our waters.

COUNTRY JOB VS. CITY JOB

The following interesting compilation is taken from the latest report of the Labor Bureau in Washington and should be especial interest to farmers and other laborers in this county in this time of high wage prices in the cities. The comparisons made show that in reality the rural wage earners are on equal footing with those in the cities. While they do not receive the same compensation per week or month, yet, when living expenses are reckoned with, the country wage earner has the better of the argument as shown by the following tabulation:

For a Married Man.

A farm job at $30 per month equals a city job at $105.

A farm job at $35 per month equals a city job at $110.

A farm job at $40 per month equals a city job at $115.

A farm job at $45 per month equals a city job at $120.

Not considering the possibility of raising some stock or produce on shares, which is usual.

For a Single Man.

A farm job at $25 per month equals a city job at $80.

A farm job at $30 per month equals a city job at $85.

A farm job at $35 per month equals a city job at $90.

A farm job at $40 per month equals a city job at $95.

Not considering the possible share in profits or privilege such as the use of horses.
