ROCK HALL

"Heroes Day" was most fittingly observed here on Sunday last, all the churches were largely attended. Rev. Mr. Smoot's sermon at the M. E. Church was forceful and edifying. His theme was "Faith in the righteousness of America's part in the world war." The foundation of his discourse was the Heroes of whom the world was not worthy, as recorded in Heb. 11.

In the general exchange of pulpits for tomorrow, Rev. Mr. Smoot will go to Fairlee and Rev. Mr. West, of that place will come here.

This town was well crowded with people from all sections of the county on Saturday night and merchants were taxed to their utmost in catering to shoppers. Quite a number of soldiers were seen here Saturday night and for several days this week.

Among the over-Sunday visitors here were noticed: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Porter, of the City, entertained by Mrs. P.'s mother, Mrs. McKivitt; Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davis, of the City, entertained by the former's mother, Mrs. Davis, and the latter's sister, Mrs. Fogwell; Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Ryan and daughter, Hazel, of near Chestertown, and Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Crew, of Worton, entertained by Miss Daisy Ryan; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Fogwell, of Worton; Carroll Davis, of Upper Kent entertained by his mother; Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Reiche, of Quaker Neck, entertained by Mr. and Mrs. James M. Wood; James Bartley and friend spent Sunday here on a fishing outing; a few eels and toad fish were all they caught, but they enjoyed the trip alright, notwithstanding the fact that their automobile driver failed to show up for the return to Chestertown.

One of our tonsorial artists, Mr. Zimmerman, has moved to Choptank and taken unto himself a wife. Good luck to them.

W. T. Harrison moved from Allen's Lane to Baltimore this week.

Mr. Conklin is moving from his farm on Huntingfield creek to Baltimore. It is reported that he sold his farm to parties on the Western Shore.

Corn husking is now on in this section. 50 cents the barrel is the price paid for husking.

Wonder what has become of the "ramspuncious" fellows who a year ago were lamenting the fact of being out of the military age, which prevented them getting in the war game? It's reported some have suddenly found jobs in munition plants or other Government work since the age limit has been raised from 45 to 58 for volunteers. Others, if any others of that class are left here, they seem to be laying low and saying nothing.

One of our most worthy and highly respected citizens, G. T. Cosden, after a long seige of infirmaties passed to the great beyond on Wednesday.

UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN

A Great Drive In Kent In November For $10,000 To Keep The Home Fires Burning In The Camps.

Speaking, acting and serving together as allies at home, backing the allies in France, the representatives of the several great war work organizations, the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A., the Knights of Columbus (Catholic), the Jewish Welfare Board, the War Camp Community Service, the American Library Association and the Salvation Army, met in conference at Baltimore on Sept. 24th at the Southern Hotel and organized for the November drive for $1,500,000 from the generous hearts of Maryland.

The better to mobilize the gifts of Maryland people to the soldiers in camp and trench, all creeds have united. They will pool their funds, each maintaining its separate work, and getting its quota from the general fund which will be raised in Maryland, as in other states, between November 11 and 20.

Remarkable fellowship was exhibited at the conference, Jew and Gentile, Protestant and Catholic outdoing each other in zeal for the common welfare of the American soldier, and for the raising of the common fund. The following organization was effected for Maryland:

Chairman, Robert Garrett, Baltimore, Md.; honorary chairman, Gov. E. C. Harrington, Annapolis, Md.; vice chairman, Mrs. Donald Symington, Young Women's Christian Association; Thomas O'Neill, National Catholic War Council (Knights of Columbus); Julius Levy, Jewish Welfare Board; S. Davies Warfield, War Camp Community Service; Miss M. L. Titcomb, American Library Association; E. J. Bransfield, Salvation Army; Fred B. Adkins, Eastern Shore District; R. S. Shriver, Frederick District, and Tasker G. Lowndes, Cumberland District; secretary, William H. Morriss, and treasurer, John J. Nelligan.

H. O. Williams, New York City, is acting as organizer and chairman for Maryland. The publicity for the campaign was placed in the hands of W. L. Radcliffe, Washington, D. C.

The state's quota of $1,500,000 is less than one-hundredth of the total amount to be raised by the nation, $170,000,000. This quota has been pro-rated, tenatively, among the counties in this manner:

Baltimore city, $1,155,856; Baltimore county, $17,330; Hartford, $12,317; Howard, $4,297; Somerset, $8,818; Worcester, $11,910; Dorchester, $21,846; Talbot, $13,199; Caroline, $10,245; Queen Anne's, $7,756; Kent, $9,618; Cecil, $13,968; Anne Arundel, $17,947; Prince Georges, $5,656; Calvert, $1,288; Charles, $2,148; St. Mary's, $1,861; Frederick, $61,872; Washington, $45,620; Carroll, $39,385; Montgomery, $13,033; Allegheny, $49,306; and Garrett, $6,594.

The funds to be raised will be apportioned among the seven associations for ministering to the soldiers in proportion to former expenditures, as follows:

National War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian Associations, 58.65 per cent; War Work Council of the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Associations, 8.80 per cent; National Catholic War Council (Knights of Columbus), 17.60 per cent; Jewish Welfare Board, 2.05 per cent; War Camp Community Service, 8.80 per cent; American Library Association, 2.05 per cent; and Salvation Army, 2.05 per cent.

Cleveland H. Dodge, of New York, is to be the national treasurer and all moneys collected in the states will be turned over to him for distribution among the societies.

The conference was enthused by the reading of a letter of endorsement from Cardinal Gibbons giving wholesouled support to the coalition of the war work agencies.

Governor Emerson C. Harrington invoked the fighting spirit of Maryland and vowed that the state would not only raise the $1,432,200 allotted, but would "go over the top" with $1,500,000.

Jacob Epstein, speaking for the Jewish Welfare Board welcomed the coalition and declared himself to be "brother to the Jew and Gentile, the war having united us as allies abroad, and as Americans at home." Speaking in behalf of the Y. M. C. A., F. W. Ayer, of Philadelphia, said:

"We must keep the boys in the trenches from going to the devil by default. If they cease to be human beings and only become fighters it will be our fault. We must help them preserve their humanity. The mere sight of a Salvation Army sister, of any good woman is a Godsend to the boys in the trenches. We have united for service to keep up the morale of our boys. We are in this war work for service, united service, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Jew, Catholic, and Salvation Army, allies all."

Judge N. Charles Burke, speaking for the National Catholic War Council, said:

"This war has a claim upon our sympathies which no man can evade. No hearts have ever loved their country with more fervor than the hearts of Maryland. Loyalty, service and sacrifice are now the watchwords. We must all speak, act and serve together. I pledge the united, generous and whole-hearted support of this diocese in this war work campaign."

Judge Morris A. Soper spoke for the War Camp Community Service which looks after the morale of the soldiers in the cantonments and in the cities. He said:

"The mind of the soldier must be ministered to. We brother him, and make him feel cared for. The soldier's wife, too, is given a shoulder to weep on. Nothing is too good for the American soldier."

Capt. E. J. Bransfield, represented the Salvation Army and in an eloquent speech disclosed the part played by the Army hut and the Army lassie at the front, six such huts having already been established in the newly taken St. Mahiel salient. He said:

"We here at home, sheltered behind their wall of steel, must not fail them. The Salvation Army has followed the flag to the last firing-line trenches.

Our women have made the American pie and doughnut famous as an international delicacy. One good woman can affect the lives of a hundred men by helping maintain the morale. These agencies, now allied, are absolute necessities in the lives of our soldiers 'over there.' Creeds have been unthought of. We are all bound together in one grand army to crush autocracy. The Protestant of England fights side by side with the Catholic of France, Jew and Gentile, white and black. Shall we be less allied here?"

Mrs. William Adams Brown, of New York, spoke for the Y. W. C. A Among her observations was the following:

"The Y. W. C. A. is the one organization composed entirely of women, working for women. We have tried, in the words of Gen. Funston, 'to put dignity and back-bone into the woman behind the soldier.' The morale of the woman has a direct effect upon the morale of the man. Our task increases, as the new draft is about to add to the 2,000,000 women industrial workers. But it is not merely the Y. W. C. A. but the entire womanhood of America that is behind this drive to cheer the soldier on."

A feature of the conference was the presence in sky-blue uniform of Capt. Lionel Masson-Forestier, wearer of Croix de Guerre, and hero of Verdun. He gave the testimony of French army men as to the splendid usefulness of these war work ministrations to the soldiers in keeping up their fighting spirit. He said:

"The soldier needs more than food. The commissiariat gives him that. He needs more than rifles; the ordnance department supplies forts, these little services given by the Y. M. C. A. and the Knights of Columbus huts and other ministrations are of real military value. Let it never be said of your gifts what the Kaiser first said of the British army, 'a contemptible little army.' He who can give and does not is a slacker."

What Can a Woman Do?

"The women of France will always be associated in my mind with one woman, a peasant, whom I saw at the entrance of one of the Metro stations in Paris at the beginning of the war. She was bidding farewell to her soldier son. There was a world of sadness in her eyes, but no hesitation, and she was smiling bravely as she kissed him first on one cheek, then on the other, and gave him a loving little pat on the arm. She was still as he turned to wave a last adieu from the bottom of the steps, but I never heard such sobs as shook her slender body, once he was out of sight. I had stopped to inquire the way to the American Counsulate; the man to whom I spoke did not know. The woman overheard my question and the response, and even in that moment of intense grief, with that spirit of divine self-forgetfulness which was characteristic of the French people those days, and gave me the directions. We talked for a moment; he was her only son, her only child."

It was a little thing, but it is typical of France and the French women, who in the awful years since that August day of 1914 have never faltered. Bravely they have responded to every call. Shall it be said that women of America are less heroic?

Your country calls, Your future welfare, liberty, everything you possess, are at stake. The best interests of the whole wide world are involved in this struggle; will you volunteer for service?

It is not only that the Government and the big business concerns engaged in war work must have trained office workers to take the place of men who are "over there," but there is the vast volume of extra work incidental to the war and absolutely necessary to VICTORY. The demand for secretaries, stenographers, book-keepers, typists, cashiers and clerks extends to every branch of commercial activity—to the railroads, banks, business and professional offices, as well as to the great industrial plants. Salaries have never been so high, nor opportunities so great, but aside from any question of personal aggrandizement, it is your patriotic duty.

Understand the work must be done if we are not going to fail in the great crisis.

What can a woman do? It has been proved that she can do almost anything a man can do.

A few months of training at BEACOM'S and YOU can relieve the government of your part of the burden at least.

If you wish to know what a woman can do, what YOU can do to help your country in this emergency, call upon the B B C for full particulars. If you are truly in earnest, call or write at once.
