The following letter was received by Frank Lambert from his son Private Frank Lambert, Jr.:

I am dropping you a few lines to let you know that I am not feeling so well as we all are almost dead from not having enough rest as we have just came back from the front and were in a big battle at Verdun which you can see if you will read the papers.

We captured several prisoners, I don't know how many, but you ought to read the war news all the time and see what is going on. I was in the battle about a week altogether and we had a terrible time of it, but we gained about fifteen miles while we were in it, and it is still going on, but we have been relieved and are now on our way back to take a rest. There is about a sixty-mile front on which we gained as mucch as 15 miles all the way.

None of the Kent county boys were hurt as far as I have learned so far. One of the men in our company was killed instantly only about fifteen or twenty feet from me, and a piece of schrapnel went clear through a mule, in one side and out the other side, and we had to kill it.

It is terrible to see how many dead horses are on the battle field. A lot of our men were wounded, but I don't think that there were very many killed. My horse died on our way back to where we are at now. I was just kicked on the knee by another horse a few minutes ago and it is swelled all up now, but I just got something to put on it and fixed it up.

We have had to sleep in ditches and the rain pouring down on us and travel in mud up to our knees almost, and it was terrible. The Germans shelled one of our temporary field hospitals and killed quite a few of those that had already been hurt. You people can't imagine what a sight we are seeing. If I can only get back to tell you all about it. Tell Mrs. Blyman that I saw Harvey and that he looks fine, also Pat Matthews' father also, as he is alright. Show this to aunt Fannie and Sallie, as I can not write to all now. I came near being hit several times but thank God that I wasn't. Answer at once.
