Home Rule won in Baltimore

Champ Clark was re-elected.

The President's appeal does not seem to have met a hearty response.

Benson, Coady and Linthicum won for Congress making the delegation from this State 3 to 3.

We believe the Republicans in the House and Senate will prove as patriotic and as loyal to America as the Democrats. There is no division on this principle and to our mind it was a mistake to have raised this issue. Great men make mistakes as well as others.

THEY WILL NEED YOU MORE THAN EVER.

The United War Work Campaign, which begins next Tuesday, is designed, as has already been repeatedly explained, to provide funds for the Young Men's Christian Association, the Knights of Columbus, the Salvation Army, the Jewish Welfare Board, the War Camp Community Service and the American Library Association. They are asking the American people for $170,500,000, and they ask that it be subscribed in one week. And there is absolutely no doubt that they require that much, if not a good deal more, for the things they still have to do.

A question that naturally arises in almost every mind which has not given the subject much thought, and which is actually asked of the managers of the campaign, is this:

"If peace should come early next year will the War Work Agencies still need this huge sum of money?"

The answer is that they will need it much more after peace has been declared than they have needed it while the war was in progress. While the war is going on some of the activities of all these agencies have been subject to the interruptions of battle, and have necessarily been, at times, subordinated to a certain extent to military exigencies and demands. But after peace comes our armies in France will need them twenty-four hours in every day. The moral and the mental test of our men abroad will come then, and they will require more than ever before the sustaining and constant help of these organizations.

Demobilizing great armies of millions of men after such a war as will be almost as slow and difficult a process as mobilizing them. It required more than a year to demobilize Germany's much smaller armies after the Franco-Prussian War.

The long period of waiting that is bound to ensue after the declaration of peace before it is safe to bring our troops home, and before transportation can be arranged for them, will be a danger period for them, if they are not provided with occupations, recreations and safeguards. An idle camp life, without objective or special purpose, might be more disastrous in many ways than a dozen battles. Demobilation, under such conditions, might well mean demoralization.

Fortunately the Government and these War Work Agencies have very definite plans of campaign mapped out for our soldiers abroad while they await their return to this country. For one thing the army camps will be made educational centres, and all our boys will have a chance to take a sort of university or school extension course. In this way they can keep themselves out of mischief and at the same time equip themselves for the opportunities of civil life when they get home. Our camps in the United States will require the same educational service; and all of them, in addition, will have to be kept unusually bright, cheerful and attractive, as an offset to the impatient desire all these exiles will feel to return to the people and the scenes for which they long.

If you love these boys, you will realize that they will need your help more than ever during the trying months of peace and slow demoblization. Be prepared to make life sweet and wholesome to them then as you have done heretofore.—Balt. Sun.

He was as jolly as he was big and as big hearted as he was tall. He had a large circle of friends who will learn of his death with pain. He leaves a widow, mother, Mrs. Alverda Beck, and two sisters, Mrs. Sophia Beck Walker and Mrs. Earle Nicholson. Norris and a daughter of Frederick Lutz, of Baltimore. She was a lady of great refinement, and endeared herself to her friends in such a way that one felt that they had been helped and uplifted after coming in contact with her, and she was loved by all who knew her. Francis C., the five-weeks old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kennard died Friday morning of influenza, and was buried on Saturday afternoon in Chester Cemetery. Esther another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kennard, age 19 months, died Sunday and was buried on Tuesday. Rev. T. F. Beauchamp and Undertaker Chas. L. Dodd officiated at both burials.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennard, parents of the two dead children, are both ill with influenza. There has been five deaths in the Kennard family, all from the same house, within the past two months.

Mrs. Sophia Betton, formerly of Georgetown this county, died at her home in Philadelphia on Saturday of general debility, aged 88 years. The remains were brought to Kennedyville on the train on Tuesday morning and funeral services were held at Shrewsbury P. E. Church at eleven o'clock, Rev. Dr. S. S. Hepburn officiating, with interment in the adjoining cemetery. Undertaker W. H. Krusen in charge.

News was received Thursday of the finding of the body of Adam Diehl in Kansas City. No particulars were given of his death. He formerly lived in Worton where he enjoyed a large circle of friends. He was a lover of sport and always rode in the tournaments of early days. His body will be sent here but the day of funeral is not known at this writing. He left Kent more than 20 years ago and but little is known of his life since that time.

REPUBLICANS HAVE HOUSE SENATE STILL IN DOUBT

Many Surprises In The Election Throughout The Country—Smith Wins Governorship In New York And Cox In Ohio, Both Democrats —Ohio Goes Dry.

Republicans have reversed the Democratic control of the House of Representatives on the face of incomplete returns. At this hour both the Republicans and the Democrats were claiming a majority of the Senate. Returns indicated that the membership of the body would be close and possibly a tie, in which event Vice-President Marshall would have the deciding vote.

The Senate at this time stands 46 Democrats and 46 Republicans and 4 in doubt

House—Democrats 203; Republicans 223; Independent 1; Socialist 1; seven districts unreported.

Thursday was one of the greatest days in the history of the world when the war was declared over.

We congratulate the mothers of Kent upon their courage and loyalty, upon their patience and love which has held out until the struggle closed. It has been a great trial.

The war is over, but the great work of reconstruction is a big job and will require big men.

The boys over there will likely be home for Christmas dinner, but the boys now in camps will be sent over there to take their places in policing the country and in helping to reconstruct the devasted towns, cities and villages. There will be need for a big army for at least two years—but the fighting is over, thanks to an all wise Father.
