Local Notes

The market for dry picked turkeys is brisk in Chestertown. Robert Moffett & Son are advertising elsewhere in the News for 100,000 pounds.

The Kent Land Company have sold the Stam farm in Queen Anne's, on Chester river, to Wm. A. Hendrix, will move there January 1st. The price is said to be $6,700.

The public schools will be kept in session Saturday, December 21st and holiday will bigin at 4 p. m. and continue until Thursday, January 2nd, as per notice in another column.

A careful count of the number of sacks, pouches, parcel post packages, etc., was made by Mail Messenger William B. Stafford, during the week of November 24 to 30, hauled from the Pennsylvania depot to the Chestertown postoffice. The total number hauled was 640, or an average of slightly more than 91 a day, an increase over last year.

Grover C. Hadaway has rented the Eliason store room, corner High and Queen streets, and will conduct a general grocery, provision and meat business.

The great wind storm of last Friday did considerable damage in Kent, particularly along the waterfronts at Rock Hall and Betterton. Corn shocks and fodder were strewn all over the fields and many fences were blown down. Charles E. Woods, carrier of Route No. 3, was caught in the wind squall and had quite an experience. Other than a slight cut on the head and bruised about the chest Mr. Woods escaped unharmed, the wagon was somewhat damaged and the animal was cut quite badly by the axle striking its legs.

The local train service now gives Chestertown a daily freight train instead of tri-weekly as during the war.

Hope H. Barroll, Esq., chairman and the other members of the Local Fuel Committee for Kent county, have resigned, effective immediately. The coal situation in Chestertown is in fine shape. J. D. Bacchus says he has more coal on hand than for a year and supplies all who call for same. The demand here amounts to over 6,000 tons per year.

The sale of Carroll Loller's personalty Tuesday was a "corker." The hogs alone amounted to $954 while the total sales was well up in the thousands.

Great Britain Day was observed here Saturday. A fine meeting was held in Chestertown Lyceum, Dr. E. J. Clarke presiding. Dr. Edmund Burke, of Cecilton, was the orator and delighted everyone. He is one of the best speakers in the State. Music was furnished by the elementary scholars under Miss Fannie Stuart's direction. The solo by little Miss Katharine Ford was loudly applauded. Mrs. D. B. Ford presided at the piano.

Garrett Fennimore, of Crumpton, sold his farm of 27 acres on Chester river above Crumpton, to Henry Hulse, of Baltimore. Price private. Sold by H. T. Jewell.

S. G. Caldwell has sold to C. E. Cornelius, of near Galena, his farm located near Massey.

A model play house made by Jacob F. Allen, an employe of Davis & Satterfield, is on exhibition at H. Sachs & Son's store in town. It is certainly a fine piece of work.

The J. Wm. Kendall postponed sale of personalty will take place next Tuesday, December 17, rain or shine. Everything advertised elsewhere in the News will be sold to the highest bidder.

A fire occured at the Sacred Heart rectory, Saturday morning which did slight damage to the side porch. Some one set some leaves afire which set fire to the porch. Father Earner and neighbors extinguished the blaze just as the fire company arrived.

The Young Men's Club of Christ M. P. Church held a delightful meeting Tuesday night at the Watts House, guests of Frank Elburn. The club discussed the bay bridge proposition and passed resolutions in favor of the project. Lewin Howard, of Panama, addressed the club on a trip he took in the country of allegators and white-faced monkeys.

The Elkton Armory will be the scene of a big dance on December 31, given by the young men. Kent countians are invited. Gaul's Baltimore orchestra of ten pieces will furnish music.

The $1000 prize-winner for garden work is Norman Stump, of Baltimore county who raised 85.9 bushels of early corn to an acre.

A FINE SHOWING

The Kent County Community Exhibits Of Farm Crops And Canned Goods Showed Up Well In Chestertown.

The exhibit at the Eastern Shore Inn last Friday and Saturday was a big success. The farm crops and canned goods all showed that Kent county can equal the best and all is wanted is for her people to bring them out.

Prof. George Schultz, of Maryland Agricultural College, gave a splendid talk at night to an interested and good-sized audience on "The Relation of the Farmer to the War."

Prof. L. L. Burrell, the Kent County Agent, had general charge of the affair and it was a creditable exhibition.

INTERESTING CANNING CONTRACT CASE

Verdict of $412.50 damages was given by a jury, in Superior Court of Wilmington Monday afternoon, in the suit of the Liberty Brand Canning Company against Joseph Denby for breach of contract.

Canners feel that the verdict is a victory for them in that it establishes the right of canneries to make binding contracts with the farmers, instead of leaving the conserving companies at the mercy of every rising market.

The Liberty company brought suit against Denby, who is a tenant of Hans Howells, on a contract made by the defendant, whereby he agreed to deliver to them the products of four acres of tomatoes. Denby failed to make deliveries as per contract and the company, through its buyers stationed at the various markets, learned that he had disposed of 1,100 baskets of tomatoes.

The Liberty company then sued for the difference in the contract price, which was 25 cents a basket, and the market price in the fall, which was, according to experts brought into court 75.5 cents a basket.

Denby admitted these facts, but an attempt was made by his lawyers to introduce testimony to show that he, Denby, was already under contract with Howells, his landlord, to leave all contracting for disposal of the products to the landlord. The court refused to allow this evidence on the ground that Denby was legally entitled to make a contract with the Liberty or any other company at the time.

J. Frank Allee, Jr., of Dover, is president of the Liberty company.

COMMUNITY EXHIBIT REPORT GIRLS' CANNING CLUB WORK

The Girl's Canning Clubs had their exhibit on the second floor of the Eastern Shore Inn.

There were on exhibition 703 containers and canned fruits, canned vegetables, chicken, meats, jellies, jams, marmalades, fruit juices and dried products.

Prizes amounting to $95.00 for Girls' Club Work were offered by the State Food Administration, through the Extension Service, Maryland State College. The prize winners are as follows:

Second Year Work—1st prize $20, Bertha Cooper, Still pond.

Best Collection of Preserved and Canned Fruits—1st prize $3.00, Clara Medders, Still Pond; 2nd prize $2.00, Henrietta Matthews, Still Pond.

Best Collection of Canned Vegetables—1st prize $3.00, Elizabeth Beaston, Locust Grove; 2nd prize $2.00, Hilda Beaston, Locust Grove.

Best Collection of Jellies—1st prize $3.00, Henrietta Matthews, Still Pond; 2nd prize $2.00, Clara Medders, Still Pond.

Poultry Club Prizes—2nd prize $10, Mary Cornelius; 3rd prize $3, Clara Medders; 3rd prize $3, Bertha Cooper; 3rd prize $3, Hannah Peacock, Massey; 3rd prize $3. Jeannette Leddon, Chestertown.

Individual prizes amounting to about $40.00 were awarded the different Club Girls' for the best and second best jars of preserves, canned fruits, vegetables and jellies.

Mary Cornelius, who wen the first prize, was awarded the Silver Loving Cup again for one year, she will also be one of the contestants for the $50 Liberty Bond given by the State, to the club girl who conserves the largest number of containers of fruit and vegetables in the State.

Mrs. Norman, of Denton, County Demonstration Agent of Caroline county, Miss Mollie Mason, Domestic Science Teacher, of Rock Hall High School, and Mrs. P. A. M. Brooks, of Chestertown, were the judges.

Miss Annie Copper, of the Chestertown High School, had charge of the exhibits in this department and deserves great credit for the fine collection.

Private Percy F. Graham, of Camp Meade, was home last week for the first time in three months. He has just recovered from a severe case of influenza and pneumonia.
