Hurtt's store, turned his horse around and after putting the blanket on his horse attempted to halter it and fell to the ground; Mr. Hurtt being an eye witness, went to his assistance at once. Mr. Hurtt offered to help him up, but Mr. Barnes asked him to hook his horse, as it might get away. In the meantime, some other friends came to his assistance and took him across the street to the Central Hotel, fortunately the train had not arrived, so his sister, at the station, was notified, who went immediately to his bedside. Dr. J. H. Bates, who was summoned at once, pronounced it paralysis. At 11 a. m. he had a second stroke and later in the day, a third one. He died at 2 a. m. The John Hopkins Hospital is bequeathed $35,000 by the will. Of the legacy $10,000 is added by a codicil. The legacy is to be known as the Dr. John Dickson Fund, and the income is to be used in promoting the comfort and welfare of the hospital nurses, especially those connected with its nurses' home.

The Presbterian Eye, Ear and Throat Charity Hospital is bequeathed $15,000 as a tribute to the memory Mrs. Dickson's husband, $5,000 of the legacy being added by the codicil.

Other specific bequests in the will are:

Mrs. James L. Springer, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Frank B. Hines, wife of Dr. Frank B. Hines, of Chestertown, Md., cousins; Malcomb Harris Wilmer, of McDonough School and Miss Geraldine Vickers Wilmer, of Chestertown, $10,000 each.

ROCK HALL

Mrs M. C. Ryan met with a painful accident on Sunday morning last by falling from the back steps of her home. A severely sprained ankle and hip resulted.

J. W. Boyer is a victim of the grip.

Major LeRoy Boyer, who has been honorably discharged from army service, returned to his home on Wednesday of last week and the following day secured a $35 a week position with the Gas Company.

Private Norris Colyer, who has been in the country's service at Vancouver for seven or eight months has also returned home after honorable discharge. His return was a happy surprise to his parents and others of the family. The occasion was hugely celebrated by the preparation and serving in the fatted goose which was intended for the soldier's Christmas home coming, and which failed to materialize. The young man will probably secure his former position as motorman in the City Railway of Philadelphia.

Miss Daisy M. Ryan is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Levy, of Baltimore.

It is pleasing to note the return of a number of Rock Hall boys from army service. Soon, probably all will be home, in the meantime, what about that Home Coming Greeting proposition launched some time ago? If we don't watch out the wind will be taken out of Rcok Hall's sails.

Private Samuel Willson is at Selfridge Field, Mt. Clement, Michigan. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. B. Neal Willson. Samuel says there is not a finer camp than this one. They had a lovely dinner Christmas and a lovely treat from two Red Cross Societies, also does not know what they would do without the Y. M. C. A. as they give them all kinds of amusement. He also says he received a Kent News every week and reads every line.

Mrs. Henry Urie and her son, Private Allen Urie, who has just returned from Texas is visiting relatives in Philadelphia.

S. J. Wickes has been sick at the home of his neice, Mrs. James Wood.

THIEF DROPS POCKET BOOK

A few nights ago the wife of J. Lewis Ford, on the French farm, near Chestertown, was awakened by her chickens hollowing. She called Mr. Ford, who taking his gun, went out to investigate. Just as he got in the yard he saw a man jumping over the fence and under his arm he could see that he was carrying off some of Mrs. Ford's chickens. Mr. Ford fired away at the thief. The shot killed one of the chickens and made the man drop the other one. After firing another shot and running across the field to catch the thief he gave up the chase.

At the small stream Mr. Ford found a pocket book with 55 cents in it that the chicken thief had lost. The pocket book had been punctured by shot from Mr. Ford's gun also and it is almost certain that the thief, who was a colored man, received some of the shot in his body. Mr. Ford says the owner of the pocket book may have same by coming forward, paying charges and proving ownership. No doubt there will be a claimant for the pocket book!

Daylight saving in Chestertown and throughout the country will again be come effective the last Sunday in March. On that day clocks throughout the nation will be turned back one hour to jog along at the daylight saving gait until the last Sunday in October. Under the Calder law daylight saving is effective each year unti Congress repeals the statute. The plan has proved a success and repeal of the law is unlikely.

WEDDING NOTES

Miss Violet Ringgold Beck, daughter of the late George and Mrs. Beck, was married Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock to Samuel C. Emory, a prominent farmer, of Cecil. The ceremony was performed in old St. Paul's P. E. Church by the rector, Rev. Dr. Dickerson. Owing to the recent death of the bride's father, the ceremony was a very quiet one, only the immediate families and a few close friends attending. After a short wedding trip they will reside on the farm of the bride's mother in Broad Neck.

Louis K. Stam, a former resident of this town, was married a few weeks ago in Jacksonville, Fla., to a Georgia lady. Mr. Stam is an insurance inspector and travels through the states of Virginia, West Virginia, Georgia and Florida.

A quiet wedding was solemnized January 28th at the Elkton M. E. Church, when Miss Ruth Coleman became the bride of Arthur H. Potts, both of Chestertown. The bride wore a gown of blue silk with a coronet of flowers. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. P. Jones, pastor of the church in presence of William E. Embert, who was best man.

NOTICE TO THE QUAKER NECK PUBLIC.

A meeting of the Executive Committee which was elected to finance the community quota of the cost of building a State-aided road through Quaker Neck was held in T. W. Eliason's office on Saturday afternoon, February 8th.

A large majority of the committee expressed a willingness to obligate themselves to finance the building of such road from the city limits of Chestertown, Md., to Bond Chapel M. E. Church, a distance of 4 6-10 miles. But in view of the high cost of road construction, together with the fact that the community could be depended upon for not more than $8,000 the committee was not willing to finance more than the 4 6-10 miles above referred to.

This, however, was not satisfactory to the minority membership of the committee, which minority refused to co-operate at all unless their plans prevailed. Therefore, the entire project was abandoned and on motion the committee voted to disband.

A. H. COVEY, Chairman.
E. W. EMORY, Secretary.

The Rich Neck Red Cross, Mrs. Jennie E. M. Corwin, secretary, has sent $109.50 to the "fatherless children of France" association for the support of three children for a year. They also sent a letter to Gov. Harrington endorsing the bridge project across the bay.
