Local Notes

Local buyers are paying 60 cents for wool.

John H. Duyer, rural carrier on route No. 5 from Chestertown post-office, has been appointed postmaster at Worton, to succeed Roscoe C. Wharton, who recently resigned to accept a position with the railway mail service. Mr. Dwyer will take charge of the office as soon as his commission arrives. Charles E. Hadaway who recently returned from overseas duty with the American Expeditionary Forces, will resume his position on Route No. 5, which he held prior to entering the service.

It took some nerve to climb the flag pole on the square in front of the court house but Charlie Lambert did it, placed the flag halyards in the block and returned safely. Dave Roberts assisted him and the fee was $10. Old Glory will now fly.

Rain fell Tuesday, St. Swithin's. According to an old superstition it will rain daily for a period of 40 days.

Over 10,000 pounds of milk were turned away from the Chestertown Creamery Thursday on account of accident to pump. There were 75 teams waiting for a chance to deliver milk when the superintendent announced that no milk could be received that day.

Believed to have been despondent over continued ill health, Miss Bessie Tolson, daughter of the late Chas. Tolson, of Kent Island, committed sucide Thursday morning by inhaling gas in the room of her boarding house, 1014 North Stricker St., Baltimore. Miss Tolson was 45 years old and for the last twenty-one years had been employed by Sharpe & Dohme, manufacturing chemists, Baltimore.

Quite a sensation was caused on Sunday evening when a handome touring car passed up Main street, Bel Air, with a sheet of flame spouting from the rear. Persons along the street tried to warn the driver of his supposed danger but he drove ahead in an unconcerned manner. When the machine stopped further up the street one of our wide awake firemen who wanted to put the fire company on the map even before its new truck arrives, spied the blaze and dashed out with his trusty Pyrene extinguisher. Just as he squared away all ready to knock the flames into the great unknown the car owner quietly said, "Please don't put that fire out. This car is a steamer." Neeedless to say the firemen wilted, but soon saw the joke was on himself and joined in the laugh with the assembled crowd.

The play-ground in the rear of the elementary school has been plowed and harrowed, under supervision of Wm. P. Newnam, preparatory to the installation of some amusement devices and equipment to be presented by the play-ground association, recently organized through the efforts of Walter Wright and other progressive citizens. The work of plowing, harrowing and rolling was done with a Fordson tractor.

Nearly all of Kent county's contingent of colored troops have been discharged from service. Among those now at home we note: Parker Mays, John Mays, Louis Mays, Amos Johnson, Roy Johnson, Frank Reese, William Tilghman, Aaron Johnson, Elwood Wright, Wesley Jenkins, Junior Brown, Josiah Brown, George West, Louis Gibson, Wallace Cann, Robert Green, James Johnson, Thos-Thompson, Samuel Butler, Earl Green and Simon Frisby.

A fleet of six airplanes passed over Chsetertown Friday afternoon, flying westward.

Capt. Gault Applegarth, having doffed Uncle Sam's uniform, has resumed his former position as Roads Engineer for Kent county.

A fishing party consisting of Col. Samuel L. Wright, William G. Smyth, Kent Lambert, George F. and Arthur Bacon motored to Rock Hall on Monday and caught 32 dozen fine fish off the Swan Point bar.

County Treasurer Harry E. Taylor will tenant next year the Lecates farm, near town, recently purchased by Claude F. Parks from his father.

During the remainder of July and the month of August The Lyceum Theatre will be open Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights only.

The County Commissioners at their meeting Tuesday appropriated $500 toward the expense fund for a public demonstration in honor of Kent's returned soldiers. August 7th is the tenative date fixed upon for the event.

The largest sale of cattle ever held in Queen Anne's county was the dispersal sale of Golden Run Stock Farm, Mrs. E. A. George propritress, Sudlersville, held Wednesday of last week. At this sale $15,000 worth of valuable cows, heifers and bulls were disposeed of. Oatka Lady Le Roy was the highest priced cow sold, bringing $775. The registered Holsteins averaged $449 each, regardless of age, size or quality. Mrs. George retaining twelve of her cows to stock one of the farms she will supervise next year. The Golden Run herd was developed by the late John E. George, of Sudlersville.

Jos. Walters, Jr., aged 10, while playing in the street near Thompson's Corner on Thursday, was knocked down by an auto driven by Mr. Cecil, of Rolph's. Dr. Dodd, who attended him, does not at this writing think he is hurt.

The "Bachelor's Hope" farm, on the State road from Centreville to Queenstown, containing 136 acres, was sold by Clayton Wright, agent for Miss Susie B. Mitchell, to Mrs. Maggie Morris at $70 per acre.

P. M. Brooks is offering one-half barrel of Rose Bud flour to person guessing the nearest number of bushels of corn shelled from a crib which has been stored for twenty months. A few years ago he had the same contest, the corn having been stored 12 months at that time. See front page for particulars.

Local buyers were paying $2.03 for old corn at Lynch Thursday. Two carloads were ready to be shipped from there.

Chas. J. Colladay and wife, of Baltimore, have rented an apartment in the Brice home next door to John N. Bennett and will remove here at once. Mr. Colladay has been with Acker, Merrill & Co., for more than 10 years and comes to Chestertown to be associated with Frank A. Hurlock. Mr. Hurlock's business has grown weekly and with Mr. Colladay's help they will be better able to meet the needs of the public. Welcome to Kent.
