UNCLE SAM'S FARM.

Of all the mighty nations,
In the East or in the West,
O, this glorious Yankee nation
Is the greatest and the best.
We have room for all creation,
And our banner is unfurled;
Here's a general invitation
To the people of the world.
Then come along, come along, make no delay,
Come from every nation, come from every way.
Our lands they're broad enough, don't be alarmed
Uncle Sam is rich enough to give us all a farm.

St. Lawrance marks our Northern line,
As fast her waters flow,
And the Rio Grande our Southern bound,
'Way down to Mexico.
From the great Atlantic Ocean,
Where the sun 'gins to go down,
Leap across the Rocky Mountains
Far away to Oregon.
Then come along, &c.

While the South shall raise the Cotton,
And the West the Corn and Pork,
New England Manufactories
Shall do the finer work;
For the deep flowering water falls
That course along our hills,
Are just the thing for washing sheep
And driving Cotton Mills.
Then come along, &c.

Our fathers gave us liberty,
But little did they dream,
The grand results that pour along
This mighty age of Steam;
For mountains, lakes and rivers
Are all a blaze of fire,
And we send our news by lightning
On the telegraphic wire.
Then come along, &c.

Yes! we're bound to beat the nations,
For our motto's "Go ahead,"
And we'll tell the foreign paupers
That our people are well fed;
For the nations must remember
That Uncle Sam's no fool,
For the people do the voting,
And the children go to school.
Then come along, &c.

Signing the Pledge.

Rev. John Abbott, the sailor preacher, relates the following good story of one of his converts to Temperance:

Mr. Johnston at the close of a cold water lecture, intimated that he must sign the pledge in his own way, which he did in these words:

'I, William Johnston, pledge myself to drink no more intoxicating liquor for one year.'

Some thought he wouldn't stick three days, others allowed him a week, and a few give him two weeks; but the landlord knew him best, and said he was good stuff, but at the end of the year Bill would be a real soaker. Before the year was quite gone, Mr Johnston was asked by Mr. Abbott—

'Bill ain't you going to renew the pledge?'

'Well, I don't know, Jack, but what I will; I have done pretty well so far, will you let me sign again my own way?'

'O yes, any way, so that you won't drink rum.'

He writes: 'I, William Johnston, sign this pledge for nine hundred and ninety-nine years, and if living at the end of that time, I intend to take out a lease for life.'

A day or two after, Johnston went to see his landlord, who eyed him as a hawk does a chicken. 'Oh landlord!' whined Bill, accompained with sundry contortions of the body, as if enduring the most excrutiating torment, 'I have such a lump on my side.

'That's because you have stopped drinking; you won't live two years longer at this rate.'

'If I commence drinking will the lump go away.'

'Yes. If you don't you will have another just such lump on the other side.'

'Do you think so, landlord?'

'I know it; you will have them on your arms, back, breast and head, you will be covered all over with lumps.'

'Well maby I will.'

'Come, Bill,' said the landlord, 'let's drink together,' at the same time pouring the red stuff from a decanter into his glass—gug. gug. gug.

'No,' said Johnston, 'I can't, for I've signed the pledge again.'

'You hain't though! You're a fool'

'Yes that old sailor coaxed so hard I could'nt get off.'

'I wish that the devil had the old rascal;—Well how long do you go this time?'

'For 999 years,' almost whispered Bill.

'You won't live a year.'

'Well, if I drink, are you sure the lump on my side will go away?'

'Yes.'

'Well, I guess I won't drink; here's the lump,' continued Bill, holding up something with a hundred dollars in it. 'you say I'll have some more such lumps—that's what I want.'

☞Sammy, my son, how many weeks belong to the year?'

'Forty-six, sir'

'Why, Sammy, how do you make that out.'

'The o her six are Lent.'

'Mother, put this boy to bed. He's getting too for'ard.'

DEAD.—We regret to announce the death of the Hon. John Davis, of Massachusetts. Mr. Davis was known all over this country as 'h nest John Davis.'

A Good Hit for a Youth.

An old chap in Connecticut, who was one of the most niggardly men known in that part of the country, carried on the blacksmithing business very extensively, and, as is generally the case in that state, boarded all his own hands.—And to show how he envied the men what they ate, he would have a bowl of bean soup dished up for himself to cool, while that of the hands was set before them boiling hot. One of the boys was rather unlucky among the hot irons, frequently burning his fingers. The old man scolded him severely one day, for being so careless.

'How can I tell,' said the boy, 'if they are hot, unless they are red?'

'Never touch anything again until you spit on it, and if it dont hiss it wont burn.'

In a day or two the old man sent the boy to see if his soup was cool. The boy went in—spit in the bowl; of course the soup did not hiss. He went back and told the boss all was right.

'Dinner!' cried he.

All hands ran; down sat the old man at the head of the table, and in went a large spoonful of the boiling hot soup to his mouth.

'Good heavens!' cried the old man, in rage. 'What did you tell me that lie for, you young rascal?'

'I did not lie sir,' said the boy. 'You told me I should spit on anything to try if it was hot; I spit in your bowl, and the soup did not his so I supposed it was cool.'

Judge of the effect on the jours. That boy was never in want of a friend among the journeymen.

THINGS I HAVE SEEN.

I have seen the most worthless and lazy fellows dress the most fashionably.

I have seen the most talented young men turn tipplers and die drunkards.

I have seen men who boasted much of their wealth, who were not able to pay their tailor.

I have seen men who made much noise abut their bravery and daring exploits; and,

I have seen the same run away from a goose.

I have seen men run in debt without any probability of being able to make payment.

I have seen a man urging another to become a candidate for office; and,

I have seen the same fellow vote against him at the election.

I have seen parents urging their children to marry against their inclinations; and,

I have seen a lovely young girl marry a rich old bachelor, merely for his wealth; and

I have seen the same girl die broken hearted, within a year.

I have seen the young and beautiful the talented, marry a dashing, brainless fop, because he too was rich; and,

I have seen them ever drag out a wretched miserable existence.

☞Two Irishmen were in prison—one for stealing a cow, the other for stealing a watch.

'Mike,' said the cow-stealer, one day, 'what o'clock is it?'

'Och, Pat, I haven't my watch handy—but I think it is about milking time.'

Pat felt cow'd.

THE WRECK ON ABSECOMB BEACH.

TERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE—40 BODIES WASHED ASHORE.

PHILADELPHIA, April 19.—A despatch just received from Abscomb says that up to last night about forty dead bodies of men, women and children were washed ashore at that beach, and on Brigantie Beach, about a quarter of a mile across the channel. These bodies seem to be those of German emigrants, and are much disfigured.

A bed was found further up the beach with the name of the vessel on, understood to be from Liverpool.

At the latest accounts bodies were constantly washing ashore at Absecomb Beach.

[SECOND DISPATCH.]

PHILADELPAIA, April 19—The dead bodies washed ashore at Absecom beach prove to be the bodies of the passengers of the ship Powhatan, of Baltimore which left Havre for New York between the 4th and 12th of March last. She went ashore off Long Beach at 3 o'clk on last Sunday morning and her passengers and crew, 200 in number, were all lost; 33 bodies had been picked up on Long Beach; not a vestige of the wreck was left. The Powhatan was of 6.0 tons burthen, about 12 years of age, and worth $18000.

The schooner Manhattan, of Bangor, Maine, was also wrecked on Long beach on Sunday morning, and all on board perished except one of the crew, who is in such a condition as to be unable to give any particulars.

LATER FROM EUROPE.—The Asia arrived at New York on Thursday, with three days later news from Europe. Breadstuffs have declined rapidly. The political news is of some interest, yet no battles had been fought and the war panic was subsiding and all kinds of business seemed settling down to their accustomed tone.

THE GADSDIN TREATY.—The U. S Senate on Monday last, rejected the Gadsden Treaty; by a vote of 26 to 18.

KENT NEWS.

CHESTER TOWN, Md.

Saturday Morning, April 22, 1854.

BONDED.—Mr. Isaac Ryland, lately appointed Collector, gave the necessary bond on Wednesday last.

FIRE.—On Thursday morning last the carriage house and stable belonging to the parsonage of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in this place, was destroyed by fire. The flames soon communicated to a frame dwelling near the stable, belonging to Mr. Chas. Davis, but by the timely exertion of our citizens it was saved. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary.

Kent County Court.

This Court met on Tuesday and adjourned Wednesday; the only cases tried was two for an assault and battery. The following gentlemen composed the Grand Jury:

John N. Usilton, W. W. Stephens, James E. Howard, James Weer, W. Parker, Isaac Perkins, John T. Dodd, Daniel Jones, John Kelly, Sam'l E. Briscoe, Joseph W. Webb, Richard Corbally, James S. Hyions, Jessee Woodall, Meginnis Riley, Isaac Parsons, Horatio Beck, David Jones, E. L. Osborn, Robt. Wilson, Isaac Gale, J. W. Skirven, E. Plummer.

The Grand Jury granted liquor license to the following persons:

1st District—G. M. Hartt, Samuel Copper, A. J. Rees & Co., Richard Hodges, as a medicine.

2nd District—John McDaniel, tavern; James Clayton, do.; W. N. E. Wickes, Levi Fiddis, Wm. Bacchus, Wm Register, S. E. Barrett, Sam'l. Frazier, N. G. Westcott, Wm. B. Wilmer, S. Wickes, as a medicine, J. L. Stam, do.

Foreign News.

The steamships Hermann and the America, arrived on Friday last. The Arctic arrived on Sunday bringing ten days later news from Europe. England and France have formally declared war with Russia—the warlike movements of England and France are still progressing. The treaty between England France and Turkey has been concluded, as follows:

1st. France and England engage to support Turkey by force of arms until the conclusion of a peace that shall secure the independence and integrity of the Sultan's dominions.—2d. The Porte shall not conclude a peace without the consent of her allies. 3d. The allies shall evacuate the Turkish territory after the war.—4th. This treaty to remain open to the adhesion of the other powers of Europe. 5th. Turkey guarantees to all the subjects of the Porte, without distinction of creed, perfect equality in law.

Louis Napoleon has distinctly notified the Emperor of Austria, that if he shows the slightest disposition to side with Russia in the war, he will raise the standard of revolt in Hungary and Lombardy.

Breadstuffs have greatly advanced.

THE RUSSIAN FORCES IN THE PRINCIPALITIES, if we may trust the Austrian papers, have been greatly increased during the past month. According to the Soldaten Freund, 45,000 Russians are encamped around Kalafat, 75,000 men are in Great Wallachia under the personal command of Prince Gortschakoff, whose headquarters are in Bucharest; between the Pruth and the Dniester, Gen. Osten Sachen whose corps de as Gen. Tsheodaeff's division arrives, will amount to 60,000 men. A reserve of 30,000 men is organized in Volhynia by Gen Schindlinkoff, 45,000 were on their march to Odessa and Crimea, while the army of the Caucasus, under Prince Woronskoff, is put down as 132,000 men strong. By this statement, the European army in array against Turkey and her allies, amounts to nearly 300,000 men, and above 500 cannons.
