Party Leaders Agree on This

WILSON—HUGHES—TAFT IN ACCORD

There is one subject on which these three eminent leaders of their parties are in entire accord. Their counsel is worth having on this important subject.

President Wilson says: "If a man does not provide for his children, if he does not provide for all those dependent upon him, and if he has not that vision of conditions to come, and that care for the days that have not yet dawned, which we sum up in the whole idea of thrift and saving, then he has not opened his eyes to any adequate conception of human life. We are in this world to provide not for ourselves, but for others, and that is the basis of economy."

Mr. Charles E. Hughes, speaking on the same subject, said: "As a young man I realized that there was one way a man without capital could protect his family and make proper security against the day that comes to all; that was through life insurance.

Former President Taft says: "A man in office without means must abandon the hope of making the future of his family luxuriously comfortable. All a man can do to safeguard his family is to get his life insured. Recently, I took out policies for my son, for the purpose of teaching him prudence and to save for a definite purpose."

Contest Of Will.—A dispatch from Dover says: Before Register of Wills Ernest B. Raughley, Tuesday, was started a contest of the will of Mrs. Mary R. Gordon, of West Dover hundred, near Marydel, who died on December 29, 1919, after an illness of a few days of pneumonia. She was 72 years of age and a widow, her nearest heirs being four nephews, Robert Crew, Benjamin Crew, Caldwell Crew and Cornelius Crew, to each of whom she left $100. The estate is valued between $5,000 and $5,500.

The contestants are Cornelius and Benjamin Crew, the ground for contest being undue influence and incapacity to make a will, she being 72 years of age and the will made the day before she died and signed only by her mark, although it was testified that she was able to write her name on other occasions. The will was drawn (typewritten) by a Dover attorney on December 27, but was not signed by the deceased until the evening of December 28, a short time before her death on December 29.

The will directs that the real estate and personal property, the real estate consisting of a valuable farm in West Dover, shall be sold and converted into money, the same thing being equally divided between Mrs. Violet Crew, widow of a deceased nephew, and another woman, a friend of the family.

Dr. J. R. Smith, of Marydel, the attending physician, is named as executor, and produced the will at the hearing. It was testified that Dr. Smith wrote the name of Mrs. Gordon and that she touched the pen to make her mark on the paper. The witnesses to the will were J. Seward Dailey and H. P. Milburn, both of West Dover.

The hearing was continued until next Monday, when other witnesses will be heard.

SKATED TO CHESTERTOWN

An Unusual Condition—Ice Covers Bay And Rivers—Roads, Streets, Fields And Pavements A Solid Sleet Of Ice.

The continuance of winter with its ice-covered fields, streets and roads is unequaled in the memory of our oldest inhabitants. We have had it colder, but the uniform cold is unusual in this latitude. The ice on street and road makes skating the most popular method of locomotion. Two boys from Rock Hall on Monday skated all the way to Chestertown, a distance of 16 miles, on State road.

Chesapeake Bay is almost completely gorged by ice; so much so that the resulting conditions have tied up shipping, even to the movements of the big steamers that ply between Baltimore and Norfolk. Iceboats have been working overtime from Baltimore harbor down, in an effort to keep a lane, but with the coming of the extreme cold spell that has prevailed since Saturday, conditions were rendred worse. Rivers and creeks are frozen tight to a thickness of between 6 and 12 inches of ice.

Skating on Chester river has been enjoyed this week.

The farmers have been greatly inconvenienced by the slippery fields, yards, etc. Wrapping bags on horses' feet to get them shod, spreading ashes and manure on hill sides to allow the animals to get to the feed, carrying water to stock, etc., etc, have been some of the experiences. Many farmers could not haul in fodder and were compelled to remove part of their shedding, others have been feeding hay.

Harry Davis, of near Still Pond, says his machine skidded into the ditch and could not be gotten out until a blanket was laid down in the road and used as a help.

Mr. Hadaway started in a carriage down Betterton hill and suddenly found himself turned completely around and going up the hill.

Harry Graham, of the firm of Graham & Thomas, fell on the street at Cahall's Corner Monday night and cut his head.

Robert K. Pippin, the manly son of Walter T. Pippin and wife, fell in his yard last Thursday week striking his head a hard knock. Monday he began to suffer hemorrhages from the nose and it became so serious that he was carried to Easton Hospital. He was reported as doing as well as can be expected.

Howard Hadaway, in Quaker Neck, started to the barn Saturday with a lantern and bucket, and slipping on the ice sent them up in the air.

Josiah Massey had finished milking when he fell and upset all his milk.

A valuable cow owned by Edmund S. Hurtt, of near Kennedyville, fell on the ice in the barnyard, one morning last week, sustaining such severe wounds that she had to be killed. She was valued at $150.

A colored man on the farm of Marion Malcolm, in Morgnec, fell on the ice, Friday, and dislocated his shoulderblade.

Some of the Rock Hall hunters rigged up an ice boat and sailed out to on open place in the bay and shot a fine lot of ducks.

Wm. J. Hudson fell on the street Monday near his home on Mill street and sprained his arm.

Marshall Jones' aged mother, colored, fell on the ice and fractured her hip Tuesday afternoon.

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held for the family and a few intimate friends.

REMEMBER YOUR INCOME TAX

Preparations Being Made For 1919 Returns.

Thousands of persons, including a large percentage of workingmen who, due to increased wages, also will have to fall in line, soon will be met with the income tax problem. Forms for returns from persons whose incomes are $5,000 or more will be sent out this week, and those for persons having smaller incomes will be sent out within the next week or 10 days. Collector of Internal Revenue Joshua W. Miles in a statement yesterday answered some of the most confusing questions with which his office already is being besieged.

Confusing Phases Explained.

"Every individual, said Mr. Miles, "either man or woman, whose net income is $1,000 or over for the taxable year must make a return of income unless married and living with husband or wife. In addition to the exemption of $1,000 given to single individuals, each married person living with husband or wife is given an exemption of $1000, making a total of $2,000 exemption for each married individual.

"In addition to the ordinary personal exemption of $1,000, an additional exemption of $1,000 is granted to heads of families, and there is also provided an exemption of $200 for each dependant under 18 years of age, or who is mentally or physically defective.

"For 1919 a taxpayer may be allowed a credit of $200 for each person for whom he is the chief support. He can claim this additional exemption only with respect to children 18 years of age or younger and persons mentally defective, cripples, and persons old enough to be without question physically incapacipated for self-support.

"If the taxpayer contributes to the support of some relative or other person who is over 17 years of age, in fair health, and still active, he connot be allowed the additional $200 even if he is furnishing the chief support.

Head Of A Family.

"The very different requirements of the two exemptions (head of a family, $1,000; dependent, additional $200) must be confused. To be the head of a family the person whom he supports must be a close relative, must live with him, and he must be such relative's sole support. To be entitled to exemption for dependent the person whom he supports does not have to be a relative, but can be any child or any cripple or defective; the child or incapaciated adult may live anywhere, and it is necessary that he furnish only more than half of the support.

"An unmarried woman, a widow or a married woman who is living apart from her husband must file an income tax return if her net income for 1919 was $1,000 or more. A married woman who has an income from a separate source other than her husband is entitled to file a separate return with respect to that income.

SPECIAL NOTICE.
