SATURDAY, MARCH 13, 1920

Yesterday, March 12, was the anniversary of the big blizzard in 1888.

The enormous cost of concrete road building almost makes it prohibitive. Thirty thousand dollars per mile is the average price and under the provisions of the present Road Law Kent would only get about three miles per year increasing the tax rate 30 cents. These are Packard times with Ford incomes.

When those men at Washington take off partisan spectacles and look at the Peace Treaty from a humanitarian and broad patriotic stand-point the sooner will the world settle down and those suffering countries be relieved of the awful massacres noted daily. Its about time that Christian natives took some steps toward protecting Armenians from the Turks.

The people of Kent and of Eastern Shore appreciate the effort of the Baltimore Sun in getting their papers here Sunday. A special train was chartered and all of the towns reached during the day. If the merchants of Baltimore did half as much in reaching after the trade of this Peninsula Baltimore would be richer thereby. Elsewhere in the News is a statement that 2,000 people from Kent traveled to Baltimore via one route in two months.

There'll be no great drop in food prices for at least two years to come, says President Cumpson, of the New York Wholesale Grocers' Association. Four things make this certain in his opinion: A short supply, an immense demand, short hours and high wages of labor, and the universal call for highest quality regardless of cost. The last compels wastage of lower-grade products and puts more demand and more price on high-grade goods.

West Virginia joined the States giving the vote to the ladies Wednesday making the 34th State. It was a hard battle in that State. Senator Block was in California and his v 'e was needed by the ladies. The Senate was held in session until he could be present. The snow storm interferred but at Chicago he hired for $5,000 a special train which carried him to Cincinnatti and thence to Wheeling. He wanted to fly there but his wife objected. Delaware and Washington will hold special sessions March 22nd and if they act favorably the Amendment will be safe.

WHERE DID YOU GO?

Chestertown is a small place when compared to Baltimore and New York but it keeps one busy to attend its many attractions. For instance, on Wednesday evening there were these events:

Prayer service in M. E. Church. Social evening at home with guests. Lecture, illustrated, in Court House Chicken talk, Farmers' Institute. Jr. O. U. A. M. banquet in Lodge rooms. Special session Chester Lodge of Masons. Movies. What did you choose?

The Legislature has been occupied this week with questions pertaining to Prohibition, Gambling at race tracks, increased representation for Baltimore and local legislation.

The Farmers' Institute held this week in Chestertown was poorly attended owing to the road conditions. The lecturers did their part as did County Agent Derrick and Miss Hill and we hope a return visit will be more successful. Harry W. Rickey, a native of Chestertown, was one of the expert speakers on poultry and his friends are certainly proud of his standing in the poultry world. He is considered an authority within and outside the State.

SOIL TESTS RETURNED

The Soil Department of the Maryland State College Agricultural Experiment Station sent to CountyAgent Derrick the results of the first shipment of soil samples from Kent county. County Agent Derrick mailed these returns to the individual farmers on Monday, March 8, which gives the farmers ample time to order lime for spring use.

The returns received were for a total of seventy-one soil samples. The seventy-one samples were brought in by twenty-eight farmers whose farms are scattered pretty well over Kent county. It is interesting to note the following lime requirement for the seventy-one fields, based on pulverized limestone of oyster shell.

To Correct Soil Acidity.

No lime	8 fields
500 pounds	21 fields
1000 pounds	12 fields
1500 pounds	16 fields
2000 pounds	14 fields

Endowment Insurance At Life Rates

The Mutual Benefit Life Insurance Co., of Newark, N. J., throughout its 75 years of existence has sustained the highest ideals of business equity. It is, and has always been, a purely Mutual Company, Mutual in Name, Mutual in Theory and best of all Mutual in Practice. It is one of the three companies who never wrote socalled Tontine insurance. Investments are exceptionally high grade and yield good return; the management is economical and the mortality rate favorable. In addition to doing business on the highest reserve basis known to the insurance world, the Company has mathematically and scientific computed Contingency Reserve Funds to doubly protect the insured against all hazards. Notwithstanding the effect of the War and the Flu epidemic, the Company will return to its policyholders in 1920 over 1919 more than a million dollars, which proves her strength in time of trial.

Dividends returned to policyholders during the past two years, as follows:

1918	$6,906,755.14
1919	7,503,653.52
Set aside for 1920	8,533,705.59

If you are interested in real Life Insurance let us talk with you about our feature policy, which has been written with increasing popularity since 1875.
