IT TRAVELS 5451 MILES

This Is Said To Equal A Year's Wear And Tear By The Average Motor Car Owner.

Driven continuously for seven days and seven nights, over ordinary suburban roadways, on Overland 4 stock car has established at Indianapolis, Ind., a new unofficial world's mileage record for a light car under 168 hours of incessent driving.

The Overland 4 in the seven days and nights of this remarkable endurance run piled up record of 5,452.15 miles. The car finished the grind on the same Fisk tires with which it started. To make this new record, the drivers of Overland 4 maintained an average speed of 32½ miles an hour, 24 hours a day. Gasoline mileage was 20.24 miles a gallon.

The consistency of Overland 4 performance is shown in this tabulation of each day's run. The first day and night, the speedometer registered 749 miles. On the second day, the mark was 778 miles; on the third 749 miles; on the fourth 793; fifth 809; sixth 823, and on the last lap of the new unofficial world's record, 753 miles.

The test, the first of its kind to be tried and actually accomplished by a light car, started at 9 a. m. on February 25th and ended at 9 a. m. March 3rd. The run was conducted by the Gibson Company of Indianapolis, distributors for Overland cars. The mileage and gasoline records are certified by the following observance:

Howard F. (Howdy) Wilcok, winner of the 1919 Indianapolis speedway 500 mile racing classic; Munroe E. Boblet, secretary of the Hoosier Motor Club of Indianapolis; and R. H. Scrogin, editor of the Hoosier Motorist.

Although the new Overland 4 with Triplex springs had been tested 250,000 miles under all possible weather and road conditions before it was placed on the market by The Willys-Overland Company, the officials of the company feel that the Indianapolis endurance run is one of the most convincing demonstrations yet made of the relaible, economical performance of the car and the road-comfort qualities of the now famous Triplex spring suspension.

Officials of the company witnessed the start and the finish of the seven-continuous-day run. Careful examination of the car and its power plant after the run convinced the Gibson Company that the car was ready to repeat the endurance test of the 168 hours of furious driving and largely because the car had been protected by the new Triplex springs. The run is considered the highest possible verification of the ability of this new spring suspension to protect the car from road wear and provide big car riding comfort in a motor car of short wheel-base. Adv.

It travels 5,452 miles. This is said to equal a year's wear and tear by the average motor car owner. Furious driving all the way. Triplex springs protect car from road vibration of driving at an average 32½ mile-an-hour speed.

HOME CARE OF THE SICK

Under the auspices of Kent County Chapter, Miss Rogers announces that Red Cross Courses in Home Care of the Sick are being organized in the Kent County.

Upon being interviewed as to the value of these courses to women in Chestertown, Miss Rogers says, "If all the women of America had had the knowledge which is to be gained from the ten weeks instruction which is to be gained from the course, the epidemic of influenza would not have taken so many of our loved ones from us, for with the great shortage of graduate nurses at that time these women would have been of inestimable value to the doctors in carrying out orders in the care of their own sick."

"How many women, Miss Rogers went on to say, know how to make a bed correctly, to give a bath to a patient in bed, to prepare the proper diet, to care for a sick-room and make it attractive? How many know how to dress the cuts and bruises which all children suffer, or know the proper antidotes for poisoning, or what to do for sun-stroke? How many know the value of personal hygiene and its affect upon the general health?

These are only a few things that are taught by the Red Cross nurse who is to have charge of the classes here, and I hope that we are going to have every woman and girl in Chestertown apply for membership in the classes.

Applications may be made to Miss Margaret Rogers, County Nurse. The classes are open to all and a large enrollment is desired.
