The Retailer's Invitation

This is my home, here where you come to buy
My business home, you are my guest, and I
Your cordial host. Let not alone the erade
Possess your thoughts. In you I hope I've made
A lasting friend; and that if you recall
This little visit and our deal at all,
It may be only as the means we found
To meet and mingle on a common ground.

This is my house, thrown open to my guests,
While I with joy comply with their requests.
Daily I hold reception, eight to six,
Striving to please the ones with whom I mix,
Hoping to fill each several, varying need
With courtesy devoid of sordid greed.
The thought of "getting" I would put away
And concentrate on "giving" all the day.

This is the house my business built for you
To visit; and if my house can do
A service for my valued list of friends
It will have served my fondly-wished-for ends.
Forget that you are "patron" or that I
Am called a "dealer," as the days go by
Let neighborly relationship prevail,
And this, my home and yours, can never fail.

H If a Million Dollars Paid for Hides By Worcester Man

William H. Collins, of Bishopville, in a letter to The Messenger recites the great wealth producers mink and muskrats have been to Worcester County and the lower Peninsula, and at the same time sounds a warning against dogs and their costly depredations to the muskrat in particular.

In his letter Mr. Collins says:

"Owners of marsh lands in Maryland and Delaware will find them more valuable and productive of more income than their uplands if they will take care of these marshes in the summer and keep off all dogs from them while muskrats are raising their young ones, and these are being destroyed by the dogs.

"I know several owners of marshes who during the past season made as much as $10,000, and there were a large number of persons who sold from $500 to $1000 worth of muskrats and hides. Some of our trappers in St. Martins have caught as high as $1200 worth, and at Crisfield, Pocomoke City, Ocean City and Franklin City and other towns along the bays and rivers trappers have made big money. I recently purchased $55,000 worth of mink and muskrat skins in Crisfield in one day, and in another day $25,000 worth. I bought over $100,000 worth of skins in Pocomoke City during the past season.

"I am sure the public would be surprised to know the value of the annual catch of muskrats in Maryland and Delaware. It will reach, however, several million dollars. I have handled over a half million dollars' worth myself and I am only one of the many buyers. The average price for muskrat skins the past season was $3.90 a piece. I have paid as high as $4.25 and down low enough to make the average of the season $3.90.

"Don't forget that the marsh land is one of the most valuable possessions we now have and the dogs should, by all means be kept off of them during the spring and summer months. Muskrats are high in price because principally, they are being used as a substitute for Hudson Seal, and it takes an expert to tell the difference between the two. Hudson Bay Seal coats for ladies are now very fashionable and are selling in New York around $1000 each.

"I believe the prices for all furs will continue high. Rabbit skins that once sold for 1c to 2c each are now worth 8c to 10c. Coon skins sell for $10.00 and mink for $10.00 to $25.

"Thus it is very evident that the fur bearing animals of this section are great producers of wealth and if worthless dogs are kept away from them, will continue to be a source of great revenue to our people."

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, Through the Providence of God, the late Reverend Walter R. Graham, was taken to his eternal reward. And

Whereas, Christ M. P. Church of Chestertown, Md., has know him as its pastor for many years, and now realizes the distinct loss which the local Church and the M. P. Church as a whole, has sustained

Resolved, That we extend to his family our sincere sympathy and do further record our testimonial to the deceased's devotion to the cause of Christianity and loyalty to our denomination.

That copies of this resolution be made a matter of public record.
