The Moral Effect of Being Insured

Have you ever stopped to think that to be insured makes us better—morally better? It is the performance of a duty—the fulfillment of a natural desire—the protecting of our own. It calls for the payment of money—a sacrifice and without sacrifices the world would be a desert. Nothing is more uplifting or has a greater moral effect upon our daily life than the knowledge of duty done and the greater the sacrifice, the greater the blessings that will surely follow. The moral effect of being insured, with everything guaranteed and made certain, is often greater than the policyholder realizes.

Many Decoration Day parties visited the cemeteries here on Sunday and decorated the graves of the dead.

About all of our fishermen have returned from their operating bases and cut out. A number of them had unpleasant experiences on the way down the bay; several of their boat houses swamped and caused lots of trouble.

M. L. Maslin and S. B. Colyer, our veteran snapping turtle fishermen, returned after several day's cruise in the upper Chester river, with more than 70 fine turtles, and found ready disposal of them at good prices.

Wm. Wilkins is adding extensive improvements to his fine property below Grey's Inn road.

Milton Colyer and family have removed from Allen's Lane to Piney Neck.

J. W. Boyer has been incapacitated for some time by a vicious carbuncle on the side of his neck.

Mrs. A. P. Levy and son, Rulon, of the city, were week-end visitors at the home of Miss Ryan.

Nelson Ryan, of near Chestertown, was a Sunday visitor here among relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Smith while visiting this section on Sunday met with a slight accident near Grey's Inn road. In driving across an ill kept bridge, the jolt was so severe that Mr. Smith's face was lacerated and his hat demolished. The day before Miss Myrtle Colyer had her face considerably bruised and her hat ruined at the same place and manner as Mr. Smith experienced.

Carroll Davis has moved his family from E. N. Island to the W. J. Davis property north of Allen's Lane.

REV. DAVENPORT ELECTED BISHOP AT EASTON

Rev. George H. Davenport, of New York city, was elected bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Easton at Sudlersville Wednesday.

The election was for a bishop to succeed the late Bishop William Forbes Adams and consumed the greater part of the day. Rev. Wm. Dunbar Gould, of Cambridge, Md., ran a close second.

The newly elected bishop is secretary of the Seamen's Institute, an Episcopal organization in New York city, and is a leading and influential minister of the East. He was born in Queen Anne's county, Md., and lived there for a number of years. Rev. Davenport was elected bishop in the very church his father served as rector for many years.

Grand Lecturer Yellott, of the Md. Grand Lodge of Masons, visited the Chestertown Lodge of Masons on Wednesday evening last. A large crowd was present at the rooms in the Lyceum building. George E. Nichols was raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason. A number of visitors were present from Centreville, Cecil county, Middletown, Del. and other places.

A Beautiful Sight.—The Pageant at Washington College campus last Friday afternoon was noted in full in the News last week. It was truly a beautiful sight with colonial men and women with a setting on the campus that could not be surpassed. It was arranged and presented by the teachers and pupils of the Chestertown Elementary School, and was a credit to all concerned.

Every child in the Elementary School took part. The following are a few of the symbolic and prominent historic characters: Chestertown, Miss M.A.France; Maryland, Anna Strong; Liberty, Florence Cleaver; Columbia, Ann Welch; Marie Foxley Tilghman, Louise Simpers; Schoolmaster Peale, Lloyd Connelly; Charles Wilson Peale, the artist, Robert Kenton; George Washington, Harry Schreiber; Patrick Henry, Walter Robinson; Edmund Pendleton, Marion Legg; Richard H. Lee, Irving Brown; Tench Tilghman, Dudley Everett; Dr. William Smith, Allen Robinson; Gov. William Paca, Robert Harris; Spring, Mary Hickman; Summer, Helen Brown;Autumn, Anna Cook Coleman; Winter, Lillian Sheets.

All the chorus singing was under the able direction of Miss Fannie E. Stuart. This pageant portrayed the history of Chestertown from the time the land on which it stands was granted to Marie Foxley Tilghman in 1656 to the present day. Prizes were awarded to the best presentation as follows:

The teachers and pupils wish to thank all those who helped to make the Pageant a success. Dr. Gould and the faculty of Washington College for use of beautiful grounds; Owen C. Smith and John C. Davis who helped with the chairs and stage properties; Mrs. A. S. Turner and her able corps of assistants in selling cones; Mrs. R. C. Harris and her excellent helpers for making so many costumes.

The judges for the best portrayal of the different episodes were Miss Clarke, Supervisor of Talbot county; Miss H. Keefer, Supervison of Queen Anne's county, and Prof. Bonnotte, of Washington College.

They awarded honors as follows: Episode I, Miss Russell's class first; Episode VI, Miss Wheat's class second; Episode III, Miss Loud's class third.

STILL POND

Wilson Capps is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Harry Watkins, in Penn's Grove, N. J.

Mrs. Wm. L. Ford spent several days this week in Baltimore.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Thompson and children, Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Thompson, of Rock Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Thompson and son, of Philadelphia, spent last Sunday with their mother, Mrs. Emma Thompson.

Mrs. Arthur Allston, of Wilmington, visited Mrs. Sallie Norris this week.

The measuring social held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Medders on Monday evening for the benefit of the Epworth League was well attended and a good sum realized. The melodrama given by the school children was well rendered and very laughable and the whole evening enjoyed by all.

Early on Sunday morning, May 30, several members of the Local Lodge of Odd Fellows journeyed to the cemetery and placed fresh flowers and American flags on the graves of their departed brothers. The following brothers were remembered: R. Herbert, Samuel Mann and Walter Luke.

Mrs. S. C. Rasin is leader for the devotion service of the Epworth League Sunday evening.

The school children instructed by Miss Sophia Miller, had charge of the lecture hour at the Grange on last Tuesday evening, and gave a very interesting program after which refreshments were served to all present.

All Odd Fellows and wives are invited to be present next Thursday night, June 10th, to join the Rebekahs. A degree team from Baltimore will be present to initiate a class of candidates.

The Written and the Unwritten OBITUARY

(What was written)

Died: Wednesday evening at his home eight miles north of town, Hi. Promise, a prominent young farmer of Prospect township, age 35. His sudden death comes as a great blow to his wife and children. He was ill only three days.

Mr. Promise was one of the most enterprising farmers in Liberty county. He purchased the land on which he resided about three years ago and was making it an ideal farm. In his death the community loses one of the most highly respected citizens.

(What was not written)

Mr. Promise left a mortgage of $5,000 on his farm, which the widow cannot pay. She will lose the farm or sell it at a loss. He had borrowed a thousand dollars at the bank to buy machinery and stock. The bank will take care (?) of that. He carried $1,000 dollars of Life Insurance—enough to last his family a year at the old scale of living. The family income will drop from two or three thousand a year to $75.00 a month, which the widow can earn as a country teacher as soon as the baby is old enough to be left with the neighbors. The college course that was planned for John must be given up and as soon as Minnie is old enough she must study shorthand and typewriting.

Moral: Are you traveling along the highway as traversed by Mr. Promise. If so, may you be benefited by his error.

Buy enough insurance to protect the family and home.
