WASHINGTON COLLEGE REOPENING ASSURED

Financial Difficulties Can Be Overcome In Time, Baltimore Advisory Committee Finds — Reorganization Is Planned—Reduction In Personnel Of Board, Members Elected By Alumni And Possible Wholesale Resignations Are Steps Considered.

Owing largely to the efforts of the advisory committee of Baltimore business men interested in education, the crisis in the affairs of Washington College seems to have been averted, and there is now every prospect that thh college will be opened this fall under improved conditions. For a time there was considerable doubt whether the college would reopen. The only money available for its operation was the State appropriation, and this was not sufficient to keep the institution running through the term. In addition there was a large floating debt which was causing those interested in the college a great deal of concern.

Governor Interested.

Governor Ritchie was deeply interested in keeping the school open for it least two years more, by which time, it is expected, the State school survey will have been completed and a definite policy toward State and State-aided schools outlined. It was thought that arrangements might be made by which Washington College would be taken over outright by the State and incorporated in the State system. It was in the face of this situation that the Baltimore committee, composed of former Governor Goldsborough, Chas. F. Harley, Van Lear Black, Charles C. Homer, George Weems Williams and Clarence W. Perkins, with State Superintendent of Schools Albert S. Cook, was called into consultation. The committee made an inspection of the school property and an exhaustive examination of the financial affairs of the school and also inquired into all the conditions affecting it. Since then the committee has been at work, and will hold a meeting at which it will make probably its final recommendations for the reorganization of the institution. The trustees of the school have been working in co-operation with this committee and together they have formulated an entirely new policy for the government and future conduct of the old college.

Plans htve been made by which it is reasonably certain that the floating debt on the college, amounting to approximately $60,0000, can be paid off when necessary, thus removing one obstacle to the reopening of the college this fall. In addition to this the trustees have decided to put on the board a complete new set of nonresident members, and by the time the next Legislature meets a new charter will have been drafted, modernizing a number of the archaic provisions of the present charter and providing for a reduction in the number of members of the board to 15, instead of 24, the trustees having been convinced that a board of 24 members is too unwieldy.

Would Give Alumni Voice.

It has also been suggested that the charter be so changed so that the plan followed in many of the larger colleges, of having a definite number of trustees elected by the graduates of the school may be adopted. This will direct representation on the board of those most interested in the success of the school. The life tenure of the office of trustee will also be abolished, and the management will be delocalized. In fact, it is stated that the entire board of trustees is willing to resign so as to give the widest opportunity of the institution and the placing of it upon a firm financial basis.

A special committee of the alumni association, consisting of Hiram S. Brown, John J. Coulbourn and Albert D. Mackey, has sent out invitations to all members of the association to meet on September 11 at the college for a get-together dinner, at which plans will be formulated for stimulating greater interest in the college among the former students. It is expected to have present at the dinner from all parts of the country.

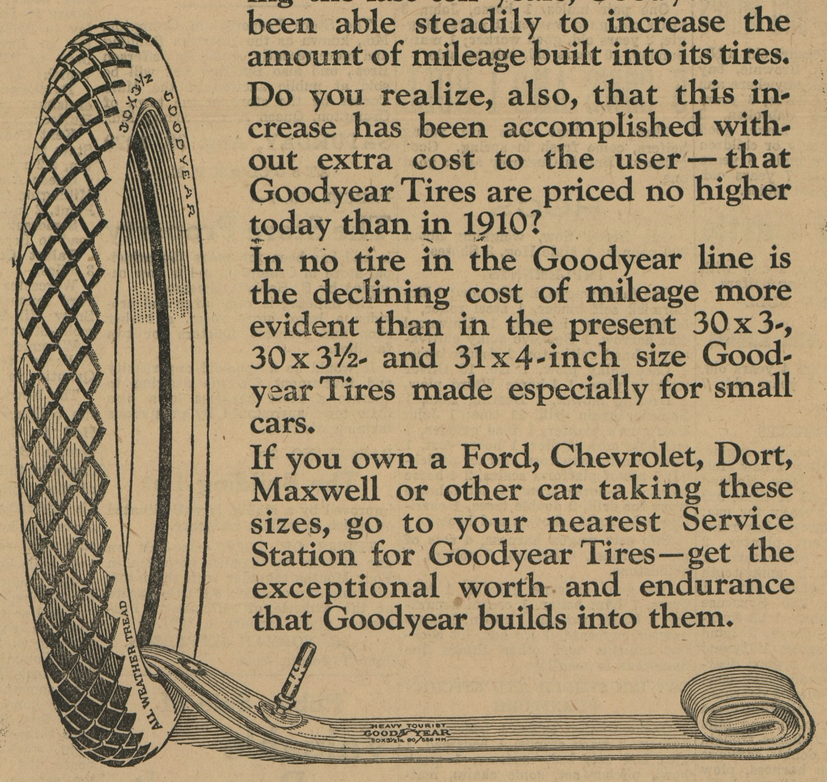
Small Cars—and the Declining Cost of Tire Mileage



You are aware, of course, that during the last ten years, Goodyear has been able steadily to increase the amount of mileage built into its tires.

Do you realize, also, that this increase has been accomplished without extra cost to the user—that Goodyear Tires are priced no higher today than in 1910?

In no tire in the Goodyear line is the declining cost of mileage more evident than in the present 30x3-, 30x3½- and 31x4-inch size Goodyear Tires made especially for small cars.

If you own a Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell or other car taking these sizes, go to your nearest Service Station for Goodyear Tires—get the exceptional worth and endurance that Goodyear builds into them.

Money! Money! Money!

MONEY attains its greatest size now—at least here. Money has had its shrinking spell of late years. It has been buying less and less, until it has often been quite discouraging. But it has grown bigger, recently, when buying merchandise in this store, and hundreds of people have been quite delighted to find how much money would buy here. Now, when we're finishing up our stock cleaning, your money will buy more than it has for years in all kinds of goods in our store. That's a good time to spend it, isn't it? Just when it is at its topmost value.
