The little Christmas Seal is the chief income of the 1000 affiliated tuberculosis organizations in this country. Kent county is one of those organizations. "Lets come up to the amount sold in 1919," which was $500. Surely we can do that much. Only $1.00 a sheet. Use them on bills, on ckages, on letters. Show your in- st. We sell Health Bonds at $5

THE GLAD CHRISTMAS SEASON

As the Christmas tide approaches, our thoughts naturally go outward. With most of us it is not 'what are we to receive' but 'what can we give.' This longing to have more to give tends to carry one away from the narrow confines of self into the limitless realms of joy with others. And when the purely selfish spirit is cut loose how delightfully free one feels from a burden that weighted him down. All have had more or less of this experience.

Christmas brings the anticipation of joys to some, the memory of sorrows to others. Each year brings its fresh joys and sorrows, to all must come, sooner or later, the shadows with the sunshine. We cannot reasonably hope to have unmitigated pleasures without This world is not the abode of less joy. We must heroically meet dversities of life, and becomingly its pleasures, if we attain the est end.

From the depths will come forth the hidden treasures. Like a gem hidden for a time from the light regains its brilliancy, so our "jewels" have been hidden from us, to be given back perfected with a setting that glows with immortality, and our flowers will bloom again when the angel's whisper wakens them to a vision of skies fairer than ours; breezes softer, and sunshine that is never hidden. From under the snow of earth into the eternal summer of heaven. Therefore, readers, "look up to the hills from whence cometh our help," and rejoice for the sake of those about us.

LIFE IS AN EFFORT

Life is an effort to secure a season of leisure, a respite from toil. With humanity all bending their energies in this direction, very few reach the goal of their ambition. Insurance with kindly hand, cannot with certainty land you there unaided, but will boost hard on the high steps." Suppose there was no life insurance. What would people do who live out all they earn and only save by being insured?

Most squirrels keep two or three stores of food. Wood, the Naturalist, speaks of these reserve stores as provided for exigencies.

The folks call thrift luck. We it Insurance.

ACCIDENT—LIFE

A CHRISTMAS CONTRAST

As we approach Christmas this year the people of this country have ground to congratulate themselves on their exceptional position among the nations of the earth. We have left the war more than two years behind us, and though there are still wounded hearts and wounded bodies among us, and the burdens and problems of the great conflict remain, we have abundance of food at our disposal, our national resources are equal to any reasonable demands upon them, our industrial and commercial powers and possibilities are almost illimitable, we are free from devastating plagues, there are few clouds in our skies, there is little to threaten our peace or to make us afraid.

What a contrast to the darkness and despair in nearly every other quarter of the globe. In Continental Europe famine and disease walk hand in hand, many millions are facing a winter of dread and doubt, conditions of hardship and hopelessness in which death seems far preferable to life.—Sun.

BANKS IN GOOD SHAPE

The sound credit position into which the State chartered financial institutions in Maryland are fast fortyfying themselves is shown in the reduction of their loans under the last call made by State Bank Commissioner George W. Page as of November 15. Under this call these banks show a reduction in "bills payable" that is in borrowed money of $1,076,725 since the previous call of September 8. At the same time the notes and bills rediscounted had been reduced by $664,101, while the institutions had increased their surplus and undivided accounts by $374,355. This is about the best showing in these items which the State chartered banks have ever shown in a similar period. The banks showed total resources of $389,431,028, with loans and discounts of $131,195,769. They held mortgages and judments of record of $18,579,167 and there was $19,517,100 due them from approved reserve agents.
